Understanding and Responding to Child Sexual Exploitation Helen Beckett, Jenny Pearce, 2017-12-15 The issue of child sexual exploitation CSE has received intense scrutiny in recent years following a number of high profile legal cases serious case reviews and inquiries This has resulted in increasing expectations that those working in the field will know how to appropriately manage and respond to this form of abuse Of course this is no easy task given the widely acknowledged difficulties of identifying and responding to sexual abuse and the particular complexities associated with the gain dynamic within CSE and the predominantly older age of children affected by it This edited collection draws on the latest research evidence and academic thinking around CSE to consider issues of understanding and response Written by researchers from The International Centre Researching child sexual exploitation violence and trafficking at the University of Bedfordshire Part I considers issues of understanding and conceptualisation Part II considers the practical implications of some of this thinking sharing learning from research and evaluation on prevention identification and response Understanding and Responding to Child Exploitation presents critical learning for academics and students and for those working in the fields of policy practice and commissioning It is relevant to a wide range of disciplines including social care youth work education criminology health and social policy Handbook of Children's Rights Martin D. Restorative Justice & Responsive Regulation John Braithwaite, 2002 Braithwaite's argument against punitive justice systems and for restorative justice systems establishes that there are good theoretical and empirical grounds for anticipating that well designed restorative justice processes will restore victims offenders and communities better than existing criminal justice practices Counterintuitively he also shows that a restorative justice system may deter incapacitate and rehabilitate more effectively than a punitive system This is particularly true when the restorative justice system is embedded in a responsive regulatory framework that opts for deterrence only after restoration repeatedly fails and incapacitation only after escalated deterrence fails Braithwaite's empirical research demonstrates that active deterrence under the dynamic regulatory pyramid that is a hallmark of the restorative justice system he supports is far more effective than the passive deterrence that is notable in the stricter sentencing grid of current criminal justice systems
