Enduring Issues in Evaluation: The 20th Anniversary of the Collaboration Between NDE and AEA Sandra Mathison, 2007-06-29 This issue of New Directions for Evaluation looks back at the past twenty years of the American Evaluation Association from its inception to current research highlighting important moments and enduring issues in the discipline and profession of evaluation The issue includes a very brief history of NDE including the journal's purpose the various foci how the journal has operated and such events as the change in the journal's name The issue also looks at the substance of NDE over the past twenty years including an analysis of the coverage of cultural diversity issues But much of the issue is devoted to greatest hits chapters that have appeared in prior NDE issues each of which is introduced by an analysis of what makes it a significant contribution to the evaluation literature The American Evaluation Association AEA celebrated its twentieth birthday in 2006 The partnership between AEA and New Directions for Evaluation has spanned this time and indeed stretches back further to AEA's precursor associations the Evaluation Research Society and ENet This is the 114th volume of the quarterly report series New Directions for Evaluation a publication of Jossey Bass and the American Evaluation Association

Co-Constructing a Contextually Responsive Evaluation Framework: The Talent Development Model of Reform Veronica G. Thomas, Floraline I. Stevens, 2004-05-05 This volume presents the Talent Development evaluation framework an approach for evaluating urban school reform interventions deeply embedded in the work of the Howard University Center for Research on the Education of Students Placed At Risk CRESPAR and the Talent Development Model of School Reform The CRESPAR Talent Development TD evaluation approach is rooted in several traditions of evaluation that intentionally seek engagement with contexts of practice These traditions include responsive participatory empowerment and culturally competent approaches to evaluation The CRESPAR TD evaluation approach also takes up themes of inclusiveness and partnership advanced by the recent promotion of multiple methods in evaluation With these themes the TD evaluation approach is viably grounded in well accepted evaluation concepts and principles The approach further seeks to be practical useful formative and empowering for the many individuals served by TD evaluations and to give voice to persons whose perspectives are often ignored minimized or rejected in urban school settings Beyond such grounding and ambitions the CRESPAR TD evaluation framework seeks to re position evaluation in low income urban contexts as accountable not only for producing accurate and relevant information on the program being evaluated but also for enabling and contributing to the program's social betterment and social justice intentions This re positioning is effected primarily by a collaborative co constructionist model for evaluation in which CRESPAR program developers implementers and evaluators along with key program stakeholders partner together in envisioning implementing and evaluating programs that are responsive to and make cultural sense in the context at hand CRESPAR TD evaluators are contextually and culturally engaged and are responsible for this engagement This volume highlights the approach's five major themes engaging stakeholders co construction responsiveness cultural and contextual relevance and triangulation of perspectives

Promoting the Use of Government Evaluations in Policymaking Rakesh Mohan, Kathleen Sullivan, 2007-03-05 Public policymaking is a high stakes business that affects millions of citizens and budgets ranging in the billions of tax dollars in even the smallest of states Policymakers need timely evaluative information reported in understandable language by unbiased sources It is this need that evaluators at all levels of government as well as those in many nonprofit organizations seek to meet as they conduct evaluations analyze policy options and recommend action on the part of policymakers The authors contributing to this volume examine theoretical and practical approaches to designing evaluation projects in ways that promote the use of evaluation results in high stakes settings The volume explores management of the politics of evaluation which can be accomplished by considering the context in which an evaluation occurs and examining strategies for maximizing both evaluators independence from and their responsiveness to key stakeholders Unconventional approaches such as prospective evaluation and development of analytical tools for use by agency personnel are examined as is promotion of evaluation use through a symbiotic relationship with performance measurement The chapter authors discuss utilization strategies as applied to evaluations of public health education and corrections programs The final chapter provides sage advice to evaluators on how to impact policy development

Conventional and Participatory Evaluation Lyn Paleo, 2005

The Practice-Theory Relationship in Evaluation Christina A. Christie, 2003-05-13 Exploring research's impact on evaluation practice The Practice Theory Relationship in Evaluation New Directions for Evaluation presents the finding of a unique empirical study of evaluation comparing the reported practices of evaluation theorists with real world practices in the field A selection of leading authorities offer both analyses and perspectives on the study's impact on the field prompting deep consideration of the role of empirical study of evaluation and the relationship between concept and practice Empirical study of evaluation is key to improving practices and developing alternate approaches and this book stimulates the level of debate necessary for determining future directions

Feminist Evaluation: Explorations and Experiences Denise Seigart, Sharon Brisolara, 2002 The authors of the texts in this volume try to advance some responses to the question if feminist evaluation exists and if so what it does look like

Nonprofits and Evaluation Joanne G. Carman, Kimberly A. Fredericks, 2008-10-13 This issue of New Directions for Evaluation explores evaluation within the context of nonprofit organizations In recent years many have observed that nonprofit organizations are under increasing pressure to demonstrate their effectiveness and document their program outcomes as the current political and funding environment continues to stress the importance of accountability and measuring performance Foundations government agencies and other funders are asking nonprofit organizations for more evaluation and performance measurement data Yet most nonprofit organizations continue to struggle with these demands and many lack the capacity to implement evaluation and performance measurement in comprehensive or meaningful ways

Global Advances in HIV / AIDS Monitoring and Evaluation Greet Peersman, Michel

Carael,2004-11-18 The focus of this issue is on global advances in conducting monitoring and evaluation M E of the global response to the HIV AIDS epidemic Only by implementing comprehensive and sustainable M E systems will we know how much progress we are making as nations and as a global community in combating this pandemic The chapters primarily focus on developing nations and are presented largely from the perspective of evaluators working for donors international agencies and national governments Although it is clear that a comprehensive M E system must eventually include both monitoring and evaluation the initial aim has been to establish a foundation derived largely from surveys and monitoring information To date much of the focus in M E has come from the global level because new global funding initiatives been launched and required rapid scale up and the development of technical guidance international standards and indicators for monitoring progress and determining success At the regional and country levels the challenge has been to implement national M E plans and systems within a context of overall low M E capacity and a range of M E needs      Critical Issues in STEM Evaluation Douglas

Huffman,Frances Lawrenz,2006-03-31 This volume of New Directions for Evaluation focuses on evaluation of science technology engineering and mathematics STEM programs with special emphasis on evaluation of STEM education initiatives STEM evaluation has always been important given the issues facing public schools and the economic and social considerations of STEM fields But because these fields today face a variety of concerns this discussion of STEM evaluation is particularly timely Evaluation advances may contribute to STEM fields by helping programs address the challenges they face This volume presents multiple viewpoints and state of the art examples and methodological approaches in the hope that its chapters will contribute to the understanding of STEM evaluation STEM education STEM education evaluation and evaluation in general Overall this volume of New Directions for Evaluation may help not only to move the field to consider new methods and methodologies for engaging in evaluation but also to reconsider ideas of what it means to engage in scientific evaluation      Independent Evaluation Consulting Dawn Hanson Smart,2006 This volume was inspired by stimulation and insights gained over the years from conversations among independent consultants at the annual conferences of the American Evaluation Association AEA conversations not just about evaluation projects and should serve as a springboard to ongoing discussion among evaluators      International Perspectives on Evaluation Standards Craig Russon,Gabrielle Russon,2005-02-11 Prior to 1995 there were fewer than half a dozen regional and national evaluation organizations around the world Today there are more than fifty attesting to a growing interest in the practice of program evaluation internationally Many of these new organizations have undertaken efforts to develop their own standards or to modify existing sets most typically the Program Evaluation Standards of the Joint Committee on Standards for Educational Evaluation for use in their own cultural context Following two introductory chapters one a conceptual overview and the second a history of the development and revisions of the Program Evaluation Standards this issue documents standards development efforts in three different settings Western Europe Africa and Australasia In addition because nongovernmental organizations and governments have entered the standard setting business other chapters describe standards development activities by the European Commission and CARE International The content points to the challenge of formalizing standards for program evaluation given cross cultural differences in values and to the continuing challenges related to implementing voluntary standards This is the 104th issue of the quarterly journal New Directions for Evaluation
