Restless Nomad:

Canada's Residential Schools: The Inuit and Northern Experience Commission de vérité et réconciliation du Canada, 2016-01-01 Between 1867 and 2000 the Canadian government sent over 150 000 Aboriginal children to residential schools across the country Government officials and missionaries agreed that in order to civilize and Christianize Aboriginal children it was necessary to separate them from their parents and their home communities For children life in these schools was lonely and alien Discipline was harsh and daily life was highly regimented Aboriginal languages and cultures were denigrated and suppressed Education and technical training too often gave way to the drudgery of doing the chores necessary to make the schools self sustaining Child neglect was institutionalized and the lack of supervision created situations where students were prey to sexual and physical abusers Legal action by the schools former students led to the creation of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada in 2008 The product of over six years of research the Commission s final report outlines the history and legacy of the schools and charts a pathway towards reconciliation Canada s Residential Schools The Inuit and Northern Experience demonstrates that residential schooling followed a unique trajectory in the North As late as 1950 there were only six residential schools and one hostel north of the sixtieth parallel Prior to the 1950s the federal government left northern residential schools in the hands of the missionary societies that operated largely in the Mackenzie Valley and the Yukon It was only in the 1950s that Inuit children began attending residential schools in large numbers The tremendous distances that Inuit children had to travel to school meant that in some cases they were separated from their parents for years The establishment of day schools and what were termed small hostels in over a dozen communities in the eastern Arctic led many Inuit parents to settle in those communities on a year round basis so as not to be separated from their children contributing to a dramatic transformation of the Inuit economy and way of life Not all the northern institutions are remembered similarly The staff at Grandin College in Fort Smith and the Churchill Vocational Centre in northern Manitoba were often cited for the positive roles that they played in developing and encouraging a new generation of Aboriginal leadership The legacy of other schools particularly Grollier Hall in Inuvik and Turquetil Hall in Igloodigaarjuk Chesterfield Inlet is far darker These schools were marked by prolonged regimes of sexual abuse and harsh discipline that scarred more than one generation of children for life Since Aboriginal people make up a large proportion of the population in Canada s northern territories the impact of the schools has been felt intensely through the region And because the history of these schools is so recent the intergenerational impacts and the legacy of the schools are strongly felt in the North Taimani ,2011-01-01 Inuvialuit Timeline Visual Guide , Life of the Trail 4 Emerson Sanford, Janice Sanford Beck, 2009 Life of the Trail is a fascinating series that guides today s hikers and armchair travelers through the stories of historic routes in the Canadian Rockies When authors Emerson Sanford and Janice Sanford Beck began backpacking together nearly 20 years ago they often wondered whose footsteps they were retracing and how today s trails

Montezuma: An Epic on the Origin and Fate of the Aztec Nation Hiram Hoyt Richmond,2019-12-12 Hiram Hoyt Richmond s Montezuma An Epic on the Origin and Fate of the Aztec Nation offers a grand narrative that intertwines historical events with lyrical storytelling Through Richmond s command of epic poetry the text delves deep into the rich cultural tapestry of the Aztec civilization capturing the grandeur of its origins the complexity of its societal structures and the tragic fate that befell it at the hands of European colonizers His narrative style weaves vivid imagery and philosophical reflections encouraging readers to ponder the duality of civilization and the consequences of conquest within the broader context of 19th century American literature where imperialism and cultural identity were fervently debated Richmond a dedicated scholar of Mesoamerican history and literature brings to life the intricacies of Aztec mythology and history His background in both classical education and the burgeoning field of anthropology during a time of expanding interest in indigenous cultures undoubtedly informs this epic

The author's profound respect for the Aztec people demonstrates his commitment to honoring their legacy while examining the broader themes of power resilience and the reimagining of identity throughout history. Montezuma is a compelling read for enthusiasts of historical epics and those seeking a nuanced understanding of one of the world's most fascinating civilizations. Richmond's masterful blend of storytelling and scholarship not only makes this work an engaging tribute to the Aztec nation but also a vital resource for understanding the cultural dialogues that continue to shape our perceptions of history. Readers are invited to immerse themselves in this remarkable journey that sheds light on both the splendor and the tragedy of the Aztec experience.

Colonization Albert Galloway Keller, 1908 Heard Animal Vincent Zompa, 2014-06-16

New innovative poems by American Poet Vincent Zompa. Chasing the answer to the turning flame's tongue. Vincent Zompa's Heard Animal offers us a conversation in a new language. These incandescent poems of place and displacement record a restless nomad's traveling across landscapes of memory and desire, radical uprootings of language, unholy sacraments of the imagination. Here, inner and outer worlds collide, and the heart is simply homesick, learning the word for windows.

L. S. Asekoff

Essays in romance and studies from Scottish life Sir John Skelton, 1883 Historical Dictionary of the Inuit Pamela R. Stern, 2013-09-26

The Inuit do not represent a very large population, only 160,000 or so, spread over a very large portion of the Arctic region and located in four different countries. Although they are a people, there are many variations from one group to the next, and any study of them must consider both similarities and differences. The Historical Dictionary of the Inuit introduces us to the Inuit as they actually are, and not as they have been traditionally pictured, and some would still like to see them looking after their traditional chores and engaged in time-honored practices, but rather as a modern people trying to shape their worlds in their own interest. This second edition includes an updated chronology as well as an introduction to provide a broader view of who the Inuit are, where they live, and what they do. But it is the dictionary section that is most interesting, with many new informative entries on persons, places, events, and institutions, shedding light not only on the culture but also on the society, economy, and politics. For those seeking further information, there is a considerably expanded bibliography. This book is an excellent access point for students, researchers, and anyone wanting to know more about the Inuit.

Magic Weapons Sam McKegney, 2007-11-30

The legacy of the residential school system ripples throughout Native Canada, its fingerprints on the domestic violence, poverty, alcoholism, drug abuse, and suicide rates that continue to cripple many Native communities. Magic Weapons is the first major survey of Indigenous writings on the residential school system and provides groundbreaking readings of life writings by Rita Joe, Mi'kmaq, and Anthony Apakark Thrasher, Inuit, as well as in-depth critical studies of better-known life writings by Basil Johnston, Ojibway, and Tomson Highway, Cree. Magic Weapons examines the ways in which Indigenous survivors of residential school mobilize narrative in their struggles for personal and communal empowerment in the shadow of attempted cultural genocide. By treating Indigenous life writings as carefully crafted aesthetic creations and interrogating their relationship to more overtly politicized historical discourses, Sam

McKegney argues that Indigenous life writings are culturally generative in ways that go beyond disclosure and recompense re envisioning what it means to live and write as Indigenous individuals in post residential school Canada Germany from the Earliest Period Wolfgang Menzel, Edgar Saltus, 1900 Bulletin of Miscellaneous Information , 1898 The Life of George Borrow Clement King Shorter, 2022-07-31 DigiCat Publishing presents to you this special edition of The Life of George Borrow by Clement King Shorter DigiCat Publishing considers every written word to be a legacy of humankind Every DigiCat book has been carefully reproduced for republishing in a new modern format The books are available in print as well as ebooks DigiCat hopes you will treat this work with the acknowledgment and passion it deserves as a classic of world literature Outing , 1911 Chekhov V.S. Pritchett, 2011-10-28 V S Pritchett explores the connections between Chekhov's life and art showing how Chekhov often based his fiction on experiences of his difficult early years where he was responsible for his impoverished family and as a young doctor reported on the conditions of the Russian penal colony at Sakhalin Later he continued his medical career even when he became a well known writer and playwright This book focuses on the short stories of Chekhov often neglected in favor of his plays and discusses why Chekhov was a success in both mediums Pritchett himself a master of the short story is a uniquely qualified to write this superb biography Pritchett presents a unique critical perspective as a short story master whose work spans this century interpreting an illustrious predecessor through their shared art Boston Globe The Bride of the Nile Georg Ebers, 1886
