Restoring The Nations Marine Environment:

Restoring the Nation's Marine Environment Gordon W. Thayer, 1992 Restoring and Protecting Marine Habitat Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Commission on Engineering and Technical Systems, Marine Board, 1994-02-01
Tremendous changes have occurred this century in the nation's coastal habitats in the way society views them and in the way they are managed. This volume offers a complete, highly readable assessment of how scientific knowledge and coastal engineering capabilities can be more effectively used to protect and restore marine habitat. It addresses traditional and innovative uses of technology to protect remaining natural marine habitats, to enhance or restore those that have been altered, and to create marine habitat from lands used for other purposes. The use of dredged materials as a vital resource in protection and restoration work is explored. The book also explores organizational management and regulatory barriers to using the best available technology and engineering practice. Specific options for improvements are offered in each area.

Handbook of Ecological Restoration Martin R. Perrow, Anthony J. Davy, 2002-09-05. The two volumes of this handbook provide a comprehensive account of the emerging and vibrant science of the ecological restoration of both habitats and species. Ecological restoration aims to achieve complete structural and functional self-maintaining biological integrity following disturbance. In practice, any theoretical model is modified by a number of economic, social, and ecological constraints. Consequently, material that might be considered as rehabilitation, enhancement, reconstruction, or re-creation is also included. Restoration in Practice provides details of state-of-the-art restoration practice in a range of biomes within terrestrial and aquatic, marine, coastal, and freshwater ecosystems. Policy and legislative issues on all continents are also outlined and discussed. The accompanying volume Principles of Restoration defines the underlying principles of restoration ecology. The Handbook of Ecological Restoration will be an invaluable resource to anyone concerned with the restoration, rehabilitation, enhancement, or creation of habitats in aquatic or terrestrial systems throughout the world. Restoration Ecology and Sustainable Development Krystyna M. Urbanska, Nigel R. Webb, Peter J. Edwards, 1997. Details the scientific basis for the reconstruction of damaged ecosystems. Bedford Harbor Environment Restoration Plan, Acushnet River, Buzzards Bay, 1998.

Landscape Restoration Handbook, Second Edition Donald Harker, 1999-02-16. Five years after the first edition of Landscape Restoration Handbook was published, its natural landscaping and ecological restoration techniques have become standard and successful practice throughout the nation. Now the Landscape Restoration Handbook, Second Edition substantially widens the scope of the original work. Approximately 250 pages larger than the first edition, new and expanded chapters offer guidance on development of natural landscaping and ecological restoration programs, education, regional planning, and increased biological diversity. Ecological communities, species listings, scientific and common plant names associated with ecological communities, nurseries that propagate and sell native plants throughout the United States, naturalization, has proven to be a win-win situation all around. Monetary costs that landowners are saving on maintenance and chemicals also translates to environmental benefits for the greater community Landscape and golf course architects urban planners horticulturists golf course superintendents and consultants have already put the Landscape Restoration Handbook to the test Let the Second Edition bring you up to date on the numerous benefits of naturalization Marine

Ecosystem Restoration (MER) - Challenges and New Horizons Brian Silliman, Avigdor Abelson, Christine Angelini, Gesche Krause, Megan Irene Saunders, Tjisse Van Der Heide, 2023-10-23 Worldwide marine ecosystems have been lost and degraded due to anthropogenic disturbances For example oyster reefs have declined by at least 85% coral reefs by 19% seagrasses by 29% North American salt marshes by 42% and mangroves by 35% from the early 19th century Deepwater reefs and deep sea vents are not immune and have also been reduced in extent in many areas Factors driving these losses include habitat destruction pollution invasive species overfishing trawling mining and more recently climate change effects such as ocean warming species range changes and acidification These habitat declines are occurring at a time when marine waters are being used at or near their maximum productive capacity to meet the contemporary needs of an ever increasing human population Because coastal and marine ecosystems generate some of the richest biodiversity hotspots on Earth and provide critical ecosystem services including storm protection fisheries production and carbon storage over 1 billion US dollars have been spent globally in an attempt to halt and reverse observed declines Early conservation efforts aimed at protecting these valuable and threatened habitats focused on reducing human impacts and physical stressors However with habitat degradation continuing and sometimes increasing in rate it is now clear conservation alone will not be sufficient to protect and reestablish coastal ecosystems Habitat restoration although in existence for many decades has recently been elevated as a new primary strategy to stem and even reverse coastal habitat loss The call for increasing investment in restoration efforts has emerged with significant advances in propagule rearing and dispersion of habitat forming organisms e g oysters seagrasses corals In addition restoration resources are increasingly allocated by governments and or large corporations with the aim to for example fix past landscape engineering efforts that had unintended environmental consequences Such investments are being made to i provide jobs for those unemployed during economic downturns ii restore ecosystems destroyed by natural disasters and stressors iii increase coastal defense in response to increased frequency of intense storms and or iv compensate for pollution and development driven habitat degradation Conservation practitioners have traditionally been skeptical to invest heavily in restoration at large scales because of the high cost per area 10 000 5 000 000 US ha for coastal vs 500 5 000 US ha for terrestrial systems to replant coastal ecosystems and or the high chance that the restored ecosystems will not live long e g outplanted corals For restoration to be effective and employed as a primary method of coastal conservation at relevant scales we must improve its efficiency lower costs and rapidly share and incorporate advances One crucial step will be to identify when and where restoration attempts have been carried out according to state of art ecological theory and gauge their success Another is generating synthesis studies that focus both within and across ecosystems to identify efficiencies adaptations and innovations Work that shows theoretical and methodological innovations in specific ecosystems as well as across systems will be critical to pushing all fields of MER forward Although there is rapidly increasing interest and investment the field of marine ecosystem restoration is just beginning to undergo synthesis Therefore the aim of this Research Topic is to bring together research contributions to help address this synthesis need provide a spotlight for recent innovations enhance our understanding of successful methods in marine ecosystem restoration and promote integration of ecological sociological and engineering theory into restoration practices

The Long Island Sound Habitat Restoration Initiative ,2003 Wetland Creation, Restoration, and Conservation W.J. Mitsch,2005-12-23 This book covers selected papers that were presented by participants at a Wetland Invitational held in Columbus Ohio USA in May 2003 They are divided by subject matter into four general categories 1 Restoration of a large river basin and delta 2 Long term wetland restoration 3 Creation of wetlands for mitigation of wetland loss 4 Conservation and restoration of the world s wetlands Provides key integrated long term assessments Covers a selection of the world s most significant wetlands Addresses management approaches for wetland conservation creation and restoration

Restoring the Nation's Marine Environment ,1992 Oil Spills in Mangroves, Planning & Response Considerations, January 2002 ,2002 Oil Spills in Mangroves Rebecca Z. Hoff,2002 Commencement Bay Restoration Plan ,1997 Coastal Wetland Restoration Bibliography David Yozzo,John P. Titre,1997 Restoration of Coastal Marine Ecosystems Ronald Osinga,Bernadette Pogoda,Roberto Danovaro,Alison Debney,2024-09-23 Human health and wellbeing cannot be sustained without proper ecosystem functioning and high biodiversity is essential to maintain such functioning Worldwide unsustainable exploitation of natural resources by a growing human population has imposed serious pressures on ecosystem integrity To change the tide the United Nations declared the current decade as the UN Decade of Ecosystem Restoration with the aim of supporting and scaling up efforts to prevent halt and reverse the degradation of ecosystems worldwide Large scale active ecosystem restoration actions will be needed to achieve these ambitious aims Whereas methodologies for systemic restoration of terrestrial ecosystems have been established marine ecosystem restoration is still a young field of science although rapidly emerging This Research Topic proposal aims to provide a platform for the growing number of marine scientists involved in marine ecosystem restoration The Research Topic will focus on coastal ecosystems such as mangrove forests salt marshes seagrass beds kelp forests shellfish reefs and coral reefs but will also welcome studies on nearshore environments such as shelf seas Mediterranean coralligenous habitats and mesophotic reefs

Guidelines for the Conservation and Restoration of Seagrasses in the United States and Adjacent Waters Mark S. Fonseca,1998 This document presents an overview of the current state of seagrass conservation and restoration in the United States discusses issues that should be addressed in planning seagrass restoration projects describes different planting methodologies proposes monitoring criteria and means for evaluating success and discusses issues faced by resource managers Coral Reef Restoration Handbook William F. Precht, 2006-05-25 this book is the first to describe in detail the art and science of coral reef restoration It is to be hoped that the information that can be gleaned within the pages of this book will set a path towards continued preservation of this valuable underwater treasure to be used appreciated and experienced for future generations Senator

Science-based Restoration Monitoring of Coastal Habitats: Tools for monitoring coastal habitats ,2003 This guidance manual provides technical assistance outlines necessary steps and provides useful tools for the development and implementation of sound scientific monitoring of coastal restoration efforts and offers a means to detect early warnings that the restoration is on track or not to gauge how well a restoration site is functioning to coordinate projects and efforts for consistent and successful restoration and to evaluate the ecological health of specific coastal habitats both before and after project completion

Volume 2: Marine Ecology Juan M. Molina, Gabriela E. Blasina, 2025-04-17 Marine systems face a multitude of anthropogenic stressors such as climate change recreational and commercial fishing aquaculture practices pollution and coastal urbanization These stressors exert escalating pressure on marine ecosystems leading to noticeable changes in habitat conditions as well as alterations in the abundance and diversity of their communities Understanding the impacts of these stressors proves challenging due to their interactions with various factors such as species richness environmental fluctuations system openness stressor tolerance and the occurrence rate and intensity of each stressor Therefore a comprehensive analysis of the entire ecosystem is crucial It is essential to consider the unique characteristics of each marine environment when assessing the cumulative stress that affects them This book provides insights into the functioning of marine ecosystems and their responses to both natural and human induced drivers within the framework of sustainable marine resource utilization This book will make a valuable contribution to the scientific community serving as a resource to inform decision makers and the general public about the current state of knowledge regarding the marine environment and the human footprints on our seas

Global Seagrass Research Methods F.T. Short, R.G. Coles, 2001-11-06 This thorough and informative volume presents a set of detailed globally applicable techniques for seagrass research The book provides methods for all aspects of seagrass science from basic plant collection to statistical approaches and investigations of plant animal interaction The emphasis is on methods that are applicable in both developing and developed countries The importance of seagrasses in coastal and near shore environments and ultimately their contribution to the productivity of the world's oceans has become increasingly recognised over the last 40 years Seagrasses provide food for sea turtles nearly 100 fish species waterfowl and for the marine mammals the manatee and dugong Seagrasses also support complex food webs by virtue of their physical structure and primary production and are well known for their role as breeding grounds and nurseries for important crustacean finfish and shell fish populations Seagrasses are the basis of an important detrital food chain The plants filter nutrients and contaminants from the water stabilise sediments and act as dampeners to wave action Seagrasses rank with coral reefs and mangroves as some of the world's most productive coastal habitat and strong linkages among these habitats make the loss of seagrasses a contributing factor in the degradation of the world's oceans. Contributors from around the world provide up-to-date methods for comparable collection of ecological information from both temperate and tropical seagrass ecosystems.
