Restructuring In The Service Industries:

Service Industries and Asia Pacific Cities Peter W. Daniels,Kong Chong Ho,Thomas A. Hutton,Tom Hutton,2005-04

During the second half of the twentieth century development in the Asia Pacific region has been dominated by industrialization However at the beginning of the twenty first century services in particular finance information and creative services have become deeply embedded in the processes of urban growth In Asia Pacific the rise of service industries has lead to national modernization programmes and globalization strategies Services are also driving change in the internal form of city regions and are being actively deployed as instruments of metropolitan reconfiguration and land use changes These changes have created problems such as social polarization and the displacement of traditional industries and residential districts Also there are tensions between local and global processes in the development of service industries and between the imperatives of competitive advantage and sustainable development Service Industries and Asia Pacific Cities brings together a multi disciplinary team of experts to explore and illustrate the theoretical conceptual and practical issues arising from the transformation of Asia Pacific cities by service industries    The Handbook of Service Industries J. R. Bryson,P. W.

Daniels,2007-01-01 It contains an impressive array of important and useful material that should be familiar to anyone interested in economic growth and change the potential value to be gained from these collected works is great James E Pratt Growth and Change Service activities are now acknowledged as key players in economic development societal change and public policy worldwide This exciting Handbook not only contributes to ongoing conceptual debates about the nature of service led economies and societies it also pushes back the frontiers of current critical thinking about the role of service activities in urban and regional development and the important research agendas that remain to be addressed Drawing on both theory and case studies the contributors are international experts who have written original and stimulating chapters from a number of different disciplinary perspectives Each chapter seeks to raise awareness of and to provoke debates about the opportunities and challenges presented by the shift to service employment Providing a truly interdisciplinary analysis The Handbook of Service Industries will be invaluable to scholars specializing in services research as well as students and researchers in the areas of economics geography business and management sociology public policy and planning The policy making community will also find the Handbook a relevant and useful resource    Services Industries and the Knowledge-based Economy Canada. Industry Canada,2006 Services industries account for almost three quarters of both gross domestic product and employment in Canada a trend that Canada shares with other G 7 countries Furthermore the services sector has been responsible for most of Canada s employment creation and much of its productivity growth over the past decade and the sector s importance to the Canadian economy continues to increase Thirty renowned experts contribute to this volume which is aimed at better understanding the dynamics of Canadian services industries and identifying the types of policies most likely to improve their innovation and productivity performance    Global Competitiveness of the U. Agreement on Trade in Services of the WTO Pietro Poretti, 2009-01-01 The General Agreement on Trade in Services GATS extends the multilateral trading system to services Little is said In the GATS about subsidies beyond stipulating that subsidies are subject to the existing provisions including the most favoured nation and national treatment principles and that Members shall enter into negotiations with a view to developing the disciplines necessary to avoid the trade distorting effects of subsidies This timely book provides a comprehensive analysis of services subsidies under the GATS It begins with a description of services and trade in services and of the salient characteristics that make regulation of services subsidies more complex than those associated with agricultural and industrial goods It then analyzes the economic arguments underpinning the need for regulation as well as the need for governments to retain sufficient latitude to implement non trade related policy measures A description of the information available on services subsidies is followed by a classification of services subsidies according to their distortive effects and by a detailed analysis of those elements that may form a definition of services subsidies for the purpose of a future regulatory framework A key section is devoted to the analysis of those existing provisions of the GATS that may exert a certain measure of discipline on services subsidies and to the question of the desirability and technical feasibility of countervailing measures Rules on services subsidies contained in regional trade agreements and the need for special and differential treatment for services subsidies by developing countries are also discussed Finally and prior to the conclusion two sectoral studies deal with the question of subsidies aimed at attracting foreign direct investment and subsidies to the audiovisual sector This work represents the first extensive and comprehensive analysis of the issue of services subsidies in the context of the GATS and includes numerous references to relevant European Union State Aid legislation and jurisprudence Book Jacket

Removing Obstacles to Economic Growth Michael L.

Wachter, Susan M. Wachter, 2016-11-11 The unsatisfactory performance of the United States economy during the 1970s generated considerable debate over potential new directions for economic policy This volume the result of the second Wharton Reliance Symposium held in May 1983 presents and analyzes a range of economic policy options The focus of the volume is on potential policy remedies for the economic problems of slow real output and productivity growth Given the range of issues covered and the alternative viewpoints presented this collection does not search for an overall policy consensus To focus on consensus would have required narrowing both the subject matter and the distinctive viewpoints that are presented here The result is an open discussion of a set of existing and innovative policy options Contributors include Henry A Kissinger former Secretary of State Nobel Laureate Lawrence R Klein Lester C Thurow Professor of Economics and Management at Massachusetts Institute of Technology Senator Alan Cranston Alfred E Kahn Chairman of the Council on Wage and Price Stability under President Carter William W Winpisinger International President of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers and Justine Farr Rodriguez Senior Economist with the US Office of Management and Budget among many others    Working in the Service Sector Gerhard Bosch, Steffen Lehndorff, 2004-06-01

The rise to prominence of the service sector heralded over half a century ago as the great hope for the twenty first century has come to fruition In many cases employment in the service sector now outnumbers that in manufacturing sectors and it is accepted that in all developed countries the service sector is the only one in which employment will grow in future The reasons for this is the subject of much controversy and debate the outcomes of which are not merely of academic interest but of decisive importance for economic policy and the quality of working and living conditions in future In order to examine these various arguments research teams from eight European countries worked together for three years on a comparative study of the evolution of service sector employment in EU member states They also investigated working and employment conditions in five very different service industries banking retailing hospitals IT services and care of the elderly in a number of countries and the results of their research are presented in this informative new collection of interest to students academics and researchers involved in all aspects of industrial economics
