Resurgo The History Of Moncton:

RESURGO : the History of Moncton Edward W. (Edward William) Larracey, C. Alexander (Charles Alexander) Pincombe, Moncton (N.B.), 1990 Struggle to Serve William G. Godfrey, 2004 The first half of the twentieth century witnessed the creation of Canada's modern hospital system While it is often assumed that this process was inevitable many small communities had difficulty creating and maintaining public hospitals In an era of government cutbacks in health services and comparisons with a more privatized American system W G Godfrey offers a timely examination of Canada's hospital experience showing that it was a slow journey from largely privately funded to increasingly governmentally funded institutions Godfrey focuses on one hospital and the communities it served but also provides an overview of local provincial and federal hospital policies revising the sometimes rose tinted picture of public and private acceptance and generosity He explores the relationship between the hospital's urban and rural constituencies and its French and English speaking patients demonstrating that increasing patient numbers and changing funding sources encouraged substantial growth in hospital services from 1895 to 1953 He details how one community's understanding of the role of the hospital changed over time to match that of hospital advocates board members and support groups such as the Ladies Aid demonstrating that hospital history is as much a study of politics and community persuasion as it is of internal therapeutic advances New Brunswick before the Equal Opportunity Program Laurel Lee Lewey, Louis J. Richard, Linda M. Turner, 2018-06-26 Prior to the implementation of the Equal Opportunity program in the 1960s most New Brunswickers many of them Francophone lived with limited access to welfare education and health services New Brunswick's social services framework was similar to that of nineteenth century England and many people experienced the patronizing attitudes inherent in these laws New Brunswick before the Equal Opportunity Program examines the observations and experiences of New Brunswick's early social workers who operated under this system and illuminates how Premier Louis J Robichaud's Equal Opportunity program transformed the province's social services Authors Laurel Lewey Louis J Richard and Linda Turner describe more than a century of social work history including the work of the earliest Acadian social workers They also address the fact that the federal government did not take responsibility for social welfare of the Mi kmaq and Maliseet people planning for assimilation instead Clan structures continued to be relied on while subsisting upon inadequate relief provisions Line of Fire Edward Butts, 2009-08-03 Across Canada peace officers put their lives on the line every day From John Fisk in 1804 the first known Canadian policeman killed in the line of duty to the four RCMP officers shot to death in Mayerthorpe Alberta in 2005 renowned true crime writer Edward Butts takes a hard hitting compassionate probing look at some of the stories involving the hundreds of Canadian law enforcement officers who have found themselves in harm's way Some like the four RCMP officers who perished in the Northwest Territories on the Lost Patrol of 1910 died in horrible accidents while performing their duties Others such as the Mounties involved in the manhunts for Almighty Voice and the Mad Trapper of Rat River

found themselves in extremely dangerous violent situations One thing is certain about all of these peace officers they displayed amazing courage and never hesitated to make the ultimate sacrifice for their fellow citizens

The State in Transition Michael Behiels, François Rocher, 2022-08-10 Canadian federalism as a particular form of political organization for a complex society with multiple economic political geographic cultural and national divides faces important challenges The political realignment that brought the Conservative Party to power in the last quinquennium has set in motion a significant transformation of the Canadian state and its federal system of governance The contributors in this collection focus on three recurrent themes the issues arising from the management of ethno cultural diversity the existence of internal nations in Canada the First Nations and the Quebec nation in Quebec the presence of linguistic minorities French and English and the questions of identity linked to citizenship in a federal context that allows for the presence of multiple loyalties and the specific challenges raised by globalization and the extension of economic integration particularly between the United States and Canada This collection of studies on the role of the state reveals that our understanding of the evolution of the Canadian state and of the ensuing impact on federalism and federal provincial relations is not as complete as it should be structures claniques et sur des mesures d'aide clairement insuffisantes. Les auteurs brossent un tableau plutôt effrayant de la vie des personnes démunies au Nouveau Brunswick. Ils décryptent consciencieusement les débuts du travail social dans la province, la tonnante lenteur de son développement et son importance dans l'élaboration de politiques sociales. Cet ouvrage fascinant, bien écrit et documenté, apporte une précieuse contribution à l'histoire sociale canadienne.
