The Retention of Black Males in Ninth Grade Tracy Smith,2015-11-25 In the United States more students are being retained in the ninth grade than in any other year in their K 12 school experience In addition African American males are retained more than any other group Studies show that when students especially African American males are retained in ninth grade there is an increased probability that they will drop out and consequently fail to graduate from high school The limitation of the majority of the prior studies on ninth grade retention is their focus on urban districts Thus it is unknown if the probability of ninth grade retention and the impact of that setback is significant in suburban integrated settings where African Americans make up smaller yet emerging percentage of the student population While the gravity of these issues is documented there have been few studies on the barriers to the academic success of African American students in suburban integrated environments The purpose of this study is to examine the ninth grade experiences of African American males in a high school in a suburban community of New York City

Recruiting, Retaining, and Engaging African-American Males at Selective Public Research Universities Louis A.

Castenel,Tarek C. Grantham,Billy J. Hawkins,2018-06-01 A problematic yet uncommon assumption among many higher education researchers is that recruitment retention and engagement of African American males is relatively similar and stable across all majority White colleges and universities In fact the harsh reality is that selective public research universities SPRUs have distinctive academic cultures that increase the difficulty of diversifying their faculty and student populations This book will discuss how traditions and elitist assumptions make it very difficult to recruit retain and engage African American males The authors will examine these issues from multiple perspectives in three sections that highlight research policies and practices impacting the experiences of African American males including Pre Collegiate Preparation African American Male Student Athletes and Undergraduate and Graduate Considerations for African American Male Initiatives
