Rethinking Communication Vol 2 Paradigm Exemplars:

Communication Yearbook 15 Stanley Deetz, 2012-05-23 First published in 2012 The Communication Yearbook 15 focuses on cultural studies and the social production of meaning in relation to mass media messages Included are significant issues in persuasion language and dominance and interpersonal communication

Cultural Studies and Environment, Revisited Phaedra. C Pezzullo, 2013-10-31 The environment is perhaps most misunderstood as a static place somewhere out there separated from the practices of our everyday lives Given this assumption environmental movements and concerns have remained mostly marginalized or denigrated in cultural studies publications conferences and presentations Recent global developments have made changing this oversight and at times direct resistance to engaging environmental concerns a new priority This edited collection illustrates an appreciation of the dynamic palpable and significant ways the environment permeates culture and vice versa as well as a collective commitment to the ways that cultural studies has more to offer and to learn from taking environmental matters to heart Like foundational categories of identity economics and historical context this collection reminds us why the environment is and should be considered relevant to any work done in the name of cultural studies Including research from four continents and across media the authors offer insights on timely topics such as food tourism human animal relations forests queer theory indigenous rights and water This book was published as a special issue of Cultural Studies

Television Histories Gary R. Edgerton, Peter C. Rollins, 2021-09-15 From Ken Burns's documentaries to historical dramas such as Roots from A E's Biography series to CNN television has become the primary source for historical information for tens of millions of Americans today Why has television become such a respected authority What falsehoods enter our collective memory as truths How is one to know what is real and what is imagined or ignored by producers directors or writers Gary Edgerton and Peter Rollins have collected a group of essays that answer these and many other questions The contributors examine the full spectrum of historical genres but also institutions such as the History Channel and production histories of such series as The Jack Benny Show which ran for fifteen years The authors explore the tensions between popular history and professional history and the tendency of some academics to declare the past off limits to nonscholars Several of them point to the tendency for television histories to embed current concerns and priorities within the past as in such popular shows as Quantum Leap and Dr Quinn Medicine Woman The result is an insightful portrayal of the power television possesses to influence our culture

Understanding Face-to-face Interaction

Karen Tracy, 2013-11-05 Challenging current work in communication and social psychology that assumes face to face interaction can be adequately understood without attending to discourse expression this volume examines how people's goals concerns and intentions can be related to discourse expression The text discusses discourse goal linkages in specific face to face encounters such as courtroom exchanges marital counseling and intellectual discussions as well as in more general theoretical dilemmas Because it poses a new set of questions about social actors motivations and pre interactional goals this volume offers a new direction for discourse study one that seriously considers the thinking and strategy involved in human communication

Cyber Selves Radhika Gajjala, 2004-11-23 In her new book Gajjala examines online community formations and subjectivities that are produced at the intersection of technologies and globalization She describes the process of designing and building cyberfeminist webs for South Asian women's communities the generation of feminist cyber auto ethnographies and offers a third world critique of cyberfeminism She ultimately views virtual communities as imbedded in real life communities and contexts with human costs The online discussions are visible textual records of the discourses that circulate within real life communities Her methodology involves a form of cyberethnography which explores the dialogic and disruptive possibilities of the virtual medium and of hypertext Gajjala's work addresses the political economic and cultural ramifications of the Internet communication explosion This book will be a valuable reference for those with an interest in cultural studies feminist studies and new technologies Media Research Methods Barrie Gunter,2000-02-11 Assessing the relative strengths and weaknesses of qualitative and quantitative methods this book examines the methodological perspectives adopted by media researchers in their attempts to understand the nature of media in society

Ill Effects Martin Barker,Julian Petley,2013-08-21 Ill Effects is a radical re examination of the whole media effects debate It questions not only whether the media is capable of directly influencing people s views and actions but also whether the idea of effects is the most useful way of conceptualising the relationship between the media and audiences Ill Effects looks at the reasons why the media are routinely blamed for horrific events such as the murders of James Bulger and Suzanne Capper and the Hungerford massacre as well as for perceived trends such as the alleged death of the family and the rise of yob culture The authors concern goes beyond individual cases they discuss the development and current state of play of research into media effects the remarkable power of common sense notions of media effects and the way in which the effects issue has become embroiled in debates about freedom of expression and censorship They suggest how audiences really respond to media texts and argue that there is an urgent need for informed and interdisciplinary approaches to the study of the media Martin Barker University of the West of England UK Julian Petley Brunel University UK Pat Holland David Buckingham The Anneberg School for Communication UK David Mi The Dark Side of Close Relationships Brian H. Copyrighting Culture Ronald V. Bettig,2018-10-08

Launching into a complete analysis of copyright law in our capitalistic and hegemonistic political system Ronald Bettig uncovers the power of the wealthy few to expand their fortunes through the ownership and manipulation of intellectual property Beginning with a critical interpretation of copyright history in the United States Bettig goes on to explore such crucial issues as the videocassette recorder and the control of copyrights the invention of cable television and the first challenge to the filmed entertainment copyright system the politics and economics of intellectual property as seen from both the neoclassical economists and the radical political economists points of view and methods of resisting existing laws Launching into a complete analysis of copyright law in our capitalistic and hegemonistic political system Ronald Bettig uncovers the power of the wealthy few to expand their fortunes through the ownership and manipulation of intellectual property Beginning with a critical interpretation of copyright history in the United States Bettig goes on to explore such crucial issues as the videocassette recorder and the control of copyrights the invention of cable television and the first challenge to the filmed entertainment copyright system the politics and economics of intellectual property as seen from both the neoclassical economists and the radical political economists points of view and methods of resisting existing laws Beautifully written and well argued this book provides a long clear look at how capitalism and capitalists seize and control culture through the ownership of copyrights thus perpetuating their own ideologies and economic superiority

Media Power in Hong Kong Charles Chi-wai Cheung, 2016-02-12 Studies of Hong Kong media primarily examine whether China will crush Hong Kong's media freedom This book however traces the root problem of Hong Kong media back to the colonial era demonstrating that before the resumption of Chinese sovereignty there already existed a uniquely Hong Kong brand of hyper marketized and oligopolistic media system The system encouraged by the British colonial government was subsequently aggravated by the Chinese government This peculiar system is highly susceptible to state intervention and structurally disadvantaged dissent and marginal groups before and after 1997 The book stresses that this hyper marketized media system has been constantly challenged Through a historical study of media stigmatization of youth this book proposes that over the years various counter forces have penetrated the structurally lopsided Hong Kong media independent public popular and news media all make occasional subversive alliances to disrupt the mainstream and news media with a strong liberal professionalism provide the most subversive space for challenging cultural hegemony The book offers an alternative and fascinating account of the dynamics between hegemonic closure and day to day resistance in Hong Kong media in both the colonial and post colonial eras arguing that the Hong Kong case generates important insights for understanding ideological struggles in capitalist media

Covering the Body Barbie Zelizer, 1992-10-15 Covering the Body the title refers to the charge given journalists to follow a president is a powerful reassessment of the media's role in shaping our collective memory of the assassination at the same time as it used the assassination coverage to legitimize its own role as official interpreter of American reality Of the more than fifty reporters covering Kennedy in Dallas no one actually saw the assassination And faced with a monumentally important story that was continuously breaking most journalists had no time to verify leads or substantiate reports Rather they took discrete moments of their stories and turned them into one coherent narrative blurring what was and was not professional about their coverage
