Rethinking Domestic Violence The Social Work And Probation Response:

Rethinking Domestic Violence, Rethinking Domestic Violence Audrey Mullender, 2002-09-11 This book explodes the myths concerning domestic violence and explores how the responses of social workers and probation officers to the people involved need to be far better coordinated and more effective Rethinking Domestic Violence Donald G. Dutton, 2011-01-01 Rethinking Domestic Violence is the third in a series of books by Donald Dutton critically reviewing research in the area of intimate partner violence IPV The research crosses disciplinary lines including social and clinical psychology sociology psychiatry affective neuropsychology criminology and criminal justice research Since the area of IPV is so heavily politicized Dutton tries to steer through conflicting claims by assessing the best research methodology As a result he comes to some very new conclusions These conclusions include the finding that IPV is better predicted by psychological rather than social structural factors particularly in cultures where there is relative gender equality Dutton argues that personality disorders in either gender account for better data on IPV His findings also contradict earlier views among researchers and policy makers that IPV is essentially perpetrated by males in all societies Numerous studies are reviewed in arriving at these conclusions many of which employ new and superior methodologies than were available previously After twenty years of viewing IPV as generated by gender and focusing on a punitive law and order approach Dutton argues that this approach must be more varied and flexible Treatment providers criminal justice system personnel lawyers and researchers have indicated the need for a new view of the problem one less invested in gender politics and more open to collaborative views and interdisciplinary insights Dutton's rethinking of the fundamentals of IPV is essential reading for psychologists policy makers and those dealing with the sociology of social science the relationship of psychology to law and explanations of adverse behaviour Social Work, Domestic Violence and Child Protection Catherine Humphreys, 2000-01-26 Describes the different types of coral reefs and the creatures that live in them Includes related activities Developing Research Based Social Work Practice Joan Orme, David Shemmings, 2018-06-26 This book explores how research can improve the quality of social work It provides an overview of the core theoretical concepts and the processes and practices in undertaking research Locating the place of social work research within the social sciences this innovative book promotes critical debate to strengthen both the research base and day to day practice It is designed to encourage reflective research practitioners professionals who are both critically reflective and research aware and does so by Presenting a range of approaches within research Highlighting distinctive aspects of social work research such as emancipatory Research and researching sensitive topics Reflecting on the strengths of research and identifying how to utilise findings Introducing beginning researchers to the rationales for undertaking research Highlighting the importance of how research informs practice this book is essential reading for students on qualifying and post qualifying courses practitioners managers and policy makers Domestic Violence and Psychology Paula Nicolson, 2010-12-14 This book rethinks the way psychological knowledge of domestic violence has typically been constructed It puts forward a psychological perspective which is both critical of the traditional woman blaming stance as well as being at odds with the feminist position that men are wholly to blame for domestic abuse and that violence in intimate relationships is caused by gender power relations It is rather argued that to neglect the emotions experiences and psychological explanations for domestic violence is to fail those who suffer and thwart attempts to prevent future abuse Paula Nicolson suggests that domestic violence needs to be discussed and understood on several levels material contexts including resources such as support networks as well as the physical impact of violence the discursive as a social problem or gendered analysis and the emotional level which can be both conscious and unconscious Drawing on the work of scholars including Giddens Foucault Klein and Winnicott and using interview and survey data to illustrate its arguments Domestic Violence and Psychology develops a theoretical framework for examining the context intentions and experiences in the lives of women in abusive relationships the men who abuse and the children who suffer in the abusive family As such this book will be of great interest to those studying social and clinical psychology social work cultural studies sociology and women s studies
