This includes not only the law but also the question of norms and values in the broader ethical, political and methodological sense. The volume argues that Deleuze's philosophy rejects the unitary vision of the subject as a self-regulating rationalist entity and replaces it with a process-oriented relational vision of the subject. But what can we do exactly with this alternative nomadic vision? What modes of normativity are available outside the parameters of liberal self-reflexive individualism on the one hand and the communitarian model on the other? This interdisciplinary volume explores these issues in three directions that mirror Deleuze and Guattari's defense of the parallelism between philosophy, science and the arts. The volume therefore covers socio-political and legal theory, the epistemological critique of scientific discourse and the cultural, artistic and aesthetic interventions emerging from Deleuze's philosophy. Life as We Do Not Know It Peter Ward, 2007-02-27 An engrossing and revelatory first look at the search for alien life on Earth and beyond. For the past twenty years Peter Ward has been at the forefront of popular science writing with books such as the influential and controversial Rare Earth. In Life as We Do Not Know It Ward, with his signature blend of eloquence, humor and learned insight, vividly details the latest scientific findings, cutting-edge research and intrepid new theories on the subject of alien life and the possible extraterrestrial origins of life on Earth. In lucid, entertaining and bold prose Peter Ward once again challenges our notions of life on earth and beyond. The Writers Directory, 2013 Politics, Culture and the Lebanese Diaspora Nathalie Nahas, Paul Tabar, 2010-07-12 This book is a collection of essays that were originally presented at a conference at the Lebanese American University in late May 2007 entitled Politics, Culture and the Lebanese Diaspora. It looks at various facets of the Lebanese Diaspora and examines the politics and culture of Lebanese migrants and their descendants in different parts of the world while detailing the communal, national and transnational elements of these practices and exploring the changing characteristics of politics and culture in respect to migration Diaspora and globalization The essays raise questions about the in compatible and interpenetrating relationships between these dynamics and analyze processes of identity formation as cultural manifestations of migratory politics The book is divided into three main sections The first section deals with issues of identity and multiculturalism among Lebanese emigrants concluding that identities are continuously molded and negotiated in the diaspora It examines the formation of identities among second and third generation migrants and the changing conceptions of the meaning of roots and homelands The second section deals with politics and activism in the Diaspora It looks at how diasporas relate to the political processes in their homelands during post conflict resolution and explores the role of Lebanese migrants abroad in the process of peace building back home The third part deals with the Diaspora in literature and media through the assessment of key writings on the explorations of self of the Lebanese abroad drawing on how symbols of identification and conventions of representation become sites of conflict over time The wide variety of perspectives presented in these papers invite us to challenge the notion of a fixed bounded and rigid homeland and identity and move towards one that is more nomadic and fluid They call us to pay attention to the symbols used in the cultural construction of both homelands and identities in the country of immigration and to think of the complex ways in which transnational politics affect the homeland and are in turn affected by it
