Teaching of Geography M.h.siddiqui, Enchantment Of Urania, The: 25 Centuries Of Exploration Of The Sky Massimo Capaccioli, 2024-03-19 Today we know much about the sky how stars are born how they live and die and how the universe as a whole evolves We have learned of the existence of another type of matter indifferent to light and yet decisive for the formation of galaxies and we have a hint of a dark energy that since the last 4.5 billion years has taken over the control of the cosmos We postulated and then discovered and even photographed black holes and listened to the faint rustle of the space time ripple produced when these monsters devour each other We reached these astonishing results recognized by a bunch of Nobel Prizes and filling every day the media with wonders for the eyes and the mind by the marriage of physics and astronomy that unified the Earth with the sky and then by the leap forward of science and technology in the Twentieth Century This rich heritage has ancient roots It was built by accumulating discoveries with errors observations with fantasies myths and superstitions with flashes of genius over a span of millennia since Homo sapiens turning his eyes to the immutable and perfect sky began to ask questions The book is a narration of the answers to these questions that had evolved over time a progressive path inserted in the general history with some second thoughts and many obstacles This is a saga of men and machines where greatness sometimes mixes with misery and passion often borders on sacrifice and even martyrdom Why should we know it Because our current knowledge is the result of these efforts and of the preconceptions that accompanied them The challenge has been to present this complex and intricate subject without resorting to any formulas so that it can be accessible to a wide audience of curious people including high school and university students and in general all those who normally keep themselves informed of scientific things A rich bibliography has also been added in the appendix for those wishing to learn more on one or more topics were complementary not exclusive their use dependent on many competing factors Between Apocalypse and Eschaton Joseph S. Flipper, 2015 Between Apocalypse and Eschaton argues that eschatology is the key to de Lubacs theological project and critical to understanding the nouvelle thologie the group of theologians with whom de Lubac was associated While much recent focuses on the controversies over the supernatural this work returns to an often neglected aspect of de Lubacs work and examines it in the wider historical political and theological context of war torn twentieth century Europe which critically shape the meaning of the end Captain Cook Frank McLynn, 2011-06-07 This thoroughly researched and sharply opinionated biography presents a nuanced portrait of the renowned 18th century navigator The Wall Street Journal The age of discovery was at its peak in the eighteenth century with bold adventurers charting the furthest reaches of the globe Foremost among these explorers was Captain James Cook of the British Royal Navy Recent writers have viewed Cook through the lens of colonial exploitation regarding him as a villain While they raise important issues many of these critical accounts overlook his major contributions to science navigation and cartography In Captain Cook Frank McLynn re creates the voyages that took the famous navigator from his native England to the outer reaches of the Pacific Ocean Although Cook died in a senseless avoidable conflict with the people of Hawaii McLynn illustrates that to the men with whom he served Cook was master of the seas and nothing less than a titan McLynn reveals Cook s place in history as a brave and brilliant yet tragically flawed man Shaping the Day Paul Glennie, Nigel Thrift, 2009-02-12 Timekeeping is an essential activity in the modern world and we take it for granted that our lives are shaped by the hours of the day Yet what seems so ordinary today is actually the extraordinary outcome of centuries of technical innovation and circulation of ideas about time Shaping the Day is a pathbreaking study of the practice of timekeeping in England and Wales between 1300 and 1800 Drawing on many unique historical sources ranging from personal diaries to housekeeping manuals Paul Glennie and Nigel Thrift illustrate how a particular kind of common sense about time came into being and how it developed during this period Many remarkable figures make their appearance ranging from the well known such as Edmund Halley Samuel Pepys and John Harrison who solved the problem of longitude to less familiar characters including sailors gamblers and burglars Overturning many common perceptions of the past for example that clock time and the industrial revolution were intimately related this unique historical study will engage all readers interested in how telling the time has come to dominate our way of life *Damn! The Science of Literature Helmut Müller-Sievers, 2015-04-24 One of the most contentious questions in contemporary literary studies is whether there can ever be a science of literature that can lay claim to objectivity and universality for example by concentrating on philological criticism by appealing to cognitive science or by exposing the underlying media of literary communication The present collection of essays seeks to open up this discussion by posing the question s historical and systematic double has there been a science of literature i e a mode of presentation and practice of reference in science that owes its coherence to the discourse of literature Detailed analyses of scientific literary and philosophical texts show that from the late 18th to the late 19th century science and literature were bound to one another through an intricate web of mutual dependence and distinct yet incalculable difference The Science of Literature suggests that this legacy continues to shape the relation between literary and scientific discourses inside and outside of academia
