Look Whos Watching:

Look Who's Watching, Revised Edition Fen Osler Hampson, Eric Jardine, 2017-11-08 The Internet ecosystem is held together by a surprisingly intangible glue trust To meet its full potential users need to trust that the Internet works reliably and efficiently when providing them with the information they are seeking while also being secure private and safe When trust in the Internet wanes the network's stock of digital social capital falls and users begin to alter their online behaviour These often subtle changes in behaviour tend to be collectively highly maladaptive hindering the economic developmental and innovative potential of the globe spanning network of networks Look Who's Watching Surveillance Treachery and Trust Online confirms in vivid detail that the trust placed by users in the Internet is increasingly misplaced Edward Snowden's revelations that the United States National Security Agency and other government agencies are spying on Internet users the proliferation of cybercrime and the growing commodification of user data and regulatory changes which threaten to fragment the system are all rapidly eroding the confidence users have in the Internet ecosystem Based on a combination of illustrative anecdotal evidence and analysis of new survey data Look Who's Watching clearly demonstrates why trust matters how it is being eroded and how with care and deliberate policy action the essential glue of the Internet can be restored Look

Kiplinger's Personal Finance ,2003-08 The most trustworthy source of information available today on savings and investments taxes money management home ownership and many other personal finance topics Health for Native Life ,2010 Artificial Hells Claire Bishop, 2012-07-24 This searing critique of participatory art from its development to its political ambitions is an essential title for contemporary art history scholars and students as well as anyone who has thought Now that s art or That s art Library Journal Since the 1990s critics and curators have broadly accepted the notion that participatory art is the ultimate political art that by encouraging an audience to take part an artist can promote new emancipatory social relations Around the world the champions of this form of expression are numerous ranging from art historians such as Grant Kester curators such as Nicolas Bourriaud and Nato Thompson to performance theorists such as

Shannon Jackson Artificial Hells is the first historical and theoretical overview of socially engaged participatory art known in the US as social practice. Claire Bishop follows the trajectory of twentieth century art and examines key moments in the development of a participatory aesthetic. This itinerary takes in Futurism and Dada, the Situationist International, Happenings in Eastern Europe, Argentina, and Paris in the 1970s, the Community Arts Movement, and the Artists Placement Group. It concludes with a discussion of long term educational projects by contemporary artists such as Thomas Hirschhorn, Tania Bruguera, Pawel Althamer, and Paul Chan. Since her controversial essay in Artforum in 2006, Claire Bishop has been one of the few to challenge the political and aesthetic ambitions of participatory art. In Artificial Hells, she not only scrutinizes the emancipatory claims made for these projects but also provides an alternative to the ethical rather than artistic criteria invited by such artworks. Artificial Hells calls for a less prescriptive approach to art and politics and for more compelling, troubling, and bolder forms of participatory art and criticism.
