A Law of Peoples for Recognizing States Chris Naticchia,2016-11-02 Which political entities should the international community recognize as member states granting them the rights and powers of statehood and entitling them to participate in formulating adjudicating and implementing international law What criteria should it use and are those criteria defensible From Kosovo Palestine and Taiwan to South Sudan Scotland South Ossetia Abkhazia and Catalonia these questions continuously arise and constantly challenge the international community for a consistent principled stance In response to this challenge Chris Naticchia offers a social contract argument for a theory of international recognition a normative theory of the criteria that states and international bodies should use to recognize political entities as member states of the international community Regardless of whether political entities adequately respect human rights or practice democracy he argues we must recognize a critical mass of them to get international institutions working Then we should recognize secessionist entities that suffer from persistent grave and widespread human rights abuses by their government and under certain conditions minority nations within multinational states that seek independence We must also recognize entities whose recognition would contribute to the economic development of the least well off entities Drawing on the social contract tradition and developing a broadly Rawlsian view A Law of Peoples for Recognizing States will both challenge and appeal to a broad readership in political philosophy international law and international relations

Before the Resurrection Emily Provance,2025-03-31 How do Friends meetings and churches adapt to changing or shrinking communities A smaller or older meeting is no less valuable to God than a larger one but the more is better messaging of modern culture tells us otherwise This book weaves together logistical suggestions with eternal spiritual principles to help meetings right size their institutions Whether a group is altering its committee structures restructuring entirely selling a building or laying itself down the steps are essentially the same recognizing the need for change discerning the will of God at this time caring for one another and stepping forward into a new thing Friends are a resurrection people We know there will always be a renewal of life But resurrection is not the same as resuscitation How do we best make space for what God may do next

Proceedings of the ... Annual Meeting of the Conference of State and Provincial Health Authorities of North America ,1922 The Department of State Bulletin ,1984 The Crafting of Chaos Hildegard Kuester,1994 In this study of the Canadian novelist Margaret Laurence recent narratological models provide the theoretical framework for a textual analysis that aims at complementing previous thematic critiques The chief focus is on The Stone Angel and The Diviners which the conclusion then presents in the context of the other novels in Laurence's Manawaka cycle Consideration of the published works is rounded off with genetic comparison of the novelist's typescript drafts and an evaluation of the manuscript notes kept in the archives of McMaster and York Universities The central structural principle of The Stone Angel is its dovetailing of past and present scenes Temporal arrangement reflecting the frequency and duration of Hagar's memories reveals the hold of memory over the central character and her attempts to suppress her fear of mortality Hagar as narrator manipulates character presentation and description to her own advantage In a basically oppositional structure her need for control is reflected in the neat ordering of the narrative The verbal texture of the novel serves to establish a value system that insists on the superiority of imported culture over Western Canadian forms The Diviners shares a number of narrative similarities with The Stone Angel but the latter's formal rigidity has yielded by the time Laurence writes her last novel to the concept of multiplicity characters time planes perspectives and narrative voices including metafictional commentaries Textual coherence is secured via narrative strategies including typography generational paradigms repetition parallelism intertextuality and tropological patterning that render the novel readable and present experience as ordered in a time of cultural flux and personal crisis

In The Best Russian Plays and Short Stories readers are invited into the intricate tapestry of Russian literary tradition spanning a remarkable range from the sharply surreal to the poignantly human. This anthology serves as both a mirror and a lens reflecting the vast sociocultural landscapes of Russia while offering a closer look at shared universal themes. The collection traces narrative lines from gripping existential explorations to bittersweet depictions of life's mundanity, not to mention the ironic and satirical elements that characterize much of Russian literature. Each contribution, whether a concise plot twist or an eloquent depiction of Russian society, is thoughtfully curated to highlight the depth and innovation intrinsic to Russian storytelling. The assembly of literary giants in this volume is formidable, featuring works by renowned authors such as Maxim Gorky and Anton Chekhov, as well as dramatists like Nicholas Evreinov. These writers, among other contributors, played pivotal roles in the Russian literary renaissance, a movement characterized by an explosion of narrative experimentation and philosophical inquiry. Their stories and plays united intellectual and emotional rigor with cultural insight, offering a composite yet complex snapshot of Russian heritage. These authors draw from unique perspectives shaped by their historical and cultural milieus, contributing to a collective narrative that is both diverse and cohesive. Best Russian Plays and Short Stories is an indispensable resource for anyone intrigued by the power of storytelling to convey the complexities of the human condition. By showcasing an array of voices and styles, this anthology offers readers a rare chance to survey Russian literature's panoramic richness in one lucid compilation. As a journey through the cornerstones of Russian narrative art, it promises not only cultural illumination but also a profound interaction with the struggles and aspirations that define humanity.
