Cultural Wars in American Politics Rhys H. Williams, That contemporary American politics is divided into two differing ideological moral and lifestyle groups a divide so severe as to constitute a cultural war is a widely held popular belief The most systematic academic version of the culture wars claim has appeared in two influential books by sociologist James Davison Hunter the earlier dating from 1991 Hunter s formulation of the myth serves the contributors to this volume as a point of departure They add more measured analyses to the rhetorical overstatement in Hunter s claim assessing its accuracy with a broad range of evidence based on individual attitudes subcultural values political party dynamics and culture wide ideological currents On every level of analysis the contributors find that Hunter s bipolar axis obscures the variety of ways in which culture actually functions in current politics That variety receives the nuanced treatment it deserves in this collection Examining the full range of sources of cultural politics and offering competing models for understanding the current ideological landscape this volume will be useful in a variety of classroom and seminar settings from political sociology and social movements to contemporary American culture and the sociology of religion wretched excess can lead to indecent liberties and wretched results that throw the country off balance and endanger the future This book asks questions about today and yesterday that require answers for tomorrow This insightful analysis of a distinct American characteristic is for every reader concerned with America's penchant for going to extremes in ways that produce debatable even deplorable consequences

Bad Language Edwin Battistella, 2005-08-25 Is today's language at an all time low Are pronunciations like cawfee and chawklit bad English Is slang like my bad or hook up improper Is it incorrect to mix English and Spanish as in Yo quiero Taco Bell Can you write Who do you trust rather than Whom do you trust Linguist Edwin Battistella takes a hard look at traditional notions of bad language arguing that they are often based in sterile conventionality Examining grammar and style cursing slang and political correctness regional and ethnic dialects and foreign accents and language mixing Battistella discusses the strong feelings evoked by language variation from objections to the pronunciation NU cu lar to complaints about bilingual education He explains the natural desire for uniformity in writing and speaking and traces the association of mainstream norms to ideas about refinement intelligence education character national unity and political values Battistella argues that none of these qualities is inherently connected to language It is tempting but wrong Battistella argues to think of slang dialects and nonstandard grammar as simply breaking the rules of good English Instead we should view language as made up of alternative forms of orderliness adopted by speakers depending on their purpose Thus we can study the structure and context of nonstandard language in order to illuminate and enrich traditional forms of language and make policy decisions based on an informed engagement Re

Mapping Minor/Small and World Literatures Yanli He, Nicholas Birns, 2024-06-05 Mapping Minor Small and World Literatures Periphery and Center makes a declarative intervention in debates about world literature redefining the boundaries between the center and periphery to rejuvenate long established assumptions about significance and insignificance In this book African American literature emerging from the often overlooked pink periphery a cramped space of minor literature works from the Faroe Islands Basque literature First Nation Canadian literature Western narratives about peripheral China Kurdish literature the ultraminor literary space of Antigua the favela of Brazilian literature as well as the hyperlocal narratives of Australian and New Zealand literature are all studied for their meaningful role within the world literary system Additionally working class writing and the literary contributions of individuals on the margins of their own societies are given a voice ensuring that the world literary space does not merely represent the perspectives of dominant elites Unlike other descriptions of world literature which have frequently allowed the grandeur and breadth of the global to overshadow the imperative for authentic literary biodiversity this anthology featuring contributions from diverse scholars representing various countries and backgrounds actively deconstructs the structures of power and domination inherent in Western European centered world literature minor literature and small literature
