M. Yasir Arafat, 2025-11-20 This book aims to provide a comparative analysis of mental health service delivery in the Middle East to shed light on challenges and disparities in access to care The Middle East is a region rich in diversity covering various countries and cultures Most observers have attested to the view that countries in the Middle East have a substantial treatment gap for people with mental illness. Only a tiny fraction of the population with mental illness can access evidence based mental health care. There are multiple challenges associated with this region including insufficient funding and research, a shortage of skilled professionals, substantial out of pocket expenses, low levels of mental health literacy, income inequality, and a high level of stigma. While governments are making efforts to address this gap through improved mental health policies and programmes, providing mental health care to all those in need remains a significant challenge. In addition, many Middle East countries are contending with conflicts, wars, terrorism, and all of which can potentially give rise to various behavioural and mental disorders.

Managed Mental Health Care in the Public Sector Kenneth Minkoff, David Pollack, 1997. The rapid spread of managed care into public and community mental health systems is creating a dramatic transformation of traditional public sector settings. This radical change is affecting administrators, managers, and clinicians. Intended as a survival manual, this book begins with an overview of the history, concepts, ideology, and ethics of public sector managed care, and then proceeds in focus from system to program management to clinical program levels. With a concluding section on advocacy, evaluation, research, and training issues, Managed Mental Health Care in the Public Sector examines how public sector managed mental health care can be approached with a positive spirit, an excitement about the potential to create dramatic and beneficial system changes, and a genuine interest in investigating the relative merits of every aspect of managed care systems.

Access to Mental Health Care in South Asia S. M. Yasir Arafat, Sujita Kumar Kar, 2024-04-06. This book is about access to mental health care in South Asia. South Asia consists of eight countries with low and middle income backgrounds. The region contains a combined population of about 2 billion, making up about a quarter of the global population. The people of this region share common cultures, beliefs, and behavioral patterns regarding physical and mental health. Among them, about 15% (about 300 million) have been suffering from common mental disorders. However, there is a persisting high treatment gap for mental illness in the region. Hence, despite having a mental illness, only a small percentage of the population is able to have access to essential mental healthcare. Though governments are trying to bridge the gap by improving mental health policies and programs, it is still a major challenge delivering mental healthcare to all people in need. Due to the income category and dual disease burden of the countries, there are some additional enduring challenges like poor funding and research, inadequate and inequitable manpower, huge out of pocket expenses, poor mental health literacy, income disparity, and high stigma. This book aims to highlight the issues related to accessing mental health services in a densely populated low and middle income setting. This book is the first of its kind in comparing and contrasting the delivery status of mental health services in South Asian countries.

Disparities in Psychiatric Care Pedro Ruiz, Annette Primm, 2012-02-03. This book offers evidence based clinical approaches for understanding disparities in the provision of mental health services in the U S and other industrialized nations Chapters address the availability and barriers to care among various ethnic populations and the roles of their cultures languages and religions as they affect diagnostic and treatment approaches Issues related to special populations such as migrants refugees incarcerated individuals and the homeless are discussed The book also addresses issues related to gender sexual orientation and age Brief sections on training education and policy will lay the foundation for assessing evidence based approaches and outcomes in these diverse populations Integrated Mental Health Services

William R. Breakey,1996 This book deals with the provision of psychiatric services to populations a task which requires an integrated system of service components Generally the target population comprises the residents of a specific geographic area but it may be a special population such as homeless people or people with AIDS Community psychiatry does not deal only with the interaction between a patient and a doctor but with the system of services and interactions that is needed to treat a variety of patients and to provide long term care support and rehabilitation for patients with chronic disorders Modern community psychiatry is pragmatic rather than doctrinaire it measures its success in cost effectiveness rather than by its faithfulness to any particular theoretical model It stresses interdisciplinary teamwork and the involvement of consumers These lessons learned by community psychiatrists working in the public sector over several decades are now being increasingly applied in the private sector as better organized managed systems of care are evolving This book describes the history of public mental health services and the underpinnings of modern community psychiatry in epidemiology mental health services research and administration It then describes the methods and strategies used to provide the range of services that constitute a comprehensive mental health program The authors discuss the public health principles that underlie community approaches and present the methods used within the several components of a comprehensive service system to address the needs of specific populations stressing interdisciplinary teamwork and coordination within an integrated service network Unmet Need in Psychiatry Gavin Andrews,Scott

Henderson,2000-01-06 This book considers ways to resolve the imbalance between the demand and supply of mental health services Treatment services in most countries reach only a minority of people identified as suffering from a mental disorder Few countries can provide adequate health services for all the mentally ill yet none has developed a rational system to decide who should be treated The questions are clear Could we develop a staged treatment process to reach all in need If not how do we decide who to treat What should the criteria be for deployment of scarce treatment resources How do we determine such criteria What are the ethical implications of applying such criteria In this pioneering work an international team of eminent psychiatrists epidemiologists health administrators economists and health planners examine these questions The result will inform and encourage all concerned with the equitable provision of mental health care Psychiatric & Mental Health Nursing Katie Evans,Debra Nizette,2016-10-04 Psychiatric and Mental Health Nursing has established itself as
