

Perspectives on Health

Perspectives on Health What causes heart disease?

A simple question? Well, if you ask the same question to three different health professionals, you may get three different answers.

Ask a cardiologist and she/he may tell you that:

"Heart disease is caused by hypertension, family history, and a build-up of arterial plaque."

On the other hand, if you ask a public health nurse, nutritionist or fitness instructor, he/she may tell you that:

"Heart disease is caused by smoking, physical inactivity, excess alcohol consumption and a high fat diet."

But, on the other hand, if you ask a social worker, social epidemiologist or anti-poverty activist, you may get the following answer:

"Heart disease is caused by stress, poverty, unemployment and social isolation."
