Reason and Romance Jenn Young, 2015-02-20 Being stuck in the godforsaken desert is Adrian Blake's worst nightmare come true. Senior year is all about making fun memories. It's not about starting over at a new school and navigating a new Brady Bunch family. It's really not about living with a sexy arrogant would-be stepbrother who knows how to push her buttons. Alex Montgomery is the very definition of a player. The only thing he commits to is a one-night stand. He's exactly the kind of guy she hates. When she sleeps with him, it's the biggest mistake of her life. Now she can't stop thinking about him. Not at school. Not at home. Sometimes the best mistakes are the ones that you make over and over again.

Philosophy of Sex and Love Patricia Marino, 2019-03-13 Writing for non-specialists and students as well as for fellow philosophers, this book explores some basic issues surrounding sex and love in today's world: among them, consent, objectification, non-monogamy, racial stereotyping, and the need to reconcile contemporary expectations about gender equality with our beliefs about how love works. Author Patricia Marino argues that we cannot fully understand these issues by focusing only on individual desires and choices. Instead, we need to examine the social contexts within which choices are made and acquire their meanings. That perspective, she argues, is especially needed today when the values of individualism, self-expression, and self-interest permeate our lives. Marino asks how we can fit these values, which govern so many areas of contemporary life, with the generosity, caring, and selflessness we expect in love and sex.

Ideologies of History in the Spanish Golden Age Anthony J. Cascardi,2010-11-01

Fortune's Faces Daniel Heller-Roazen,2004-12-01 Arguably the single most influential literary work of the European Middle Ages the Roman de la Rose of Guillaume de Lorris and Jean de Meun has traditionally posed a number of difficulties to modern critics who have viewed its many interruptions and philosophical discussions as signs of a lack of formal organization and a characteristically medieval predilection for encyclopedic summation In Fortune s Faces Daniel Heller Roazen calls into question these assessments offering a new and compelling interpretation of the romance as a carefully constructed and far reaching exploration of the place of fortune chance and contingency in literary writing Situating the Romance of the Rose at the intersection of medieval literature and philosophy Heller Roazen shows how the thirteenth century work invokes and radicalizes two classical and medieval traditions of reflection on language and contingency that of the Provençal French and Italian love poets who sought to compose their verses of pure nothing in a language Dante defined as without grammar and that of Aristotle's discussion of future contingents as it was received and refined in the logic, physics, theology and epistemology of Boethius, Abelard, Albert the Great and Thomas Aquinas. Through a close analysis of the poetic text and a detailed reconstruction of the logical and metaphysical concept of contingency, Fortune's Faces charts the transformations that literary structures such as subjectivity, autobiography, prosopopoeia, allegory and self-reference undergo in a work that defines itself as radically contingent. Considered in its full poetic and philosophical dimensions, the Romance of the Rose thus acquires an altogether new significance in the history of literature; it appears as a work that incessantly explores its own capacity to be other than it is.

Mediation and Love: A Study of the Medieval Go-Between in Key Romance and Near-Eastern Texts Leyla Rouhi, 1999-02-23 This study offers a typology of the go-between across key texts from antiquity and several medieval literary traditions, analyzing the role of the third party in the poetics of love. The work provides the indispensable context for the study of the significant transformations undergone by the go-between. Legal and scientific sources are taken into account alongside Latin, French and English literary works and literature of the medieval Islamic period for the critique of differences and intertextual links which inform the conception of the go-between. The case of the Medieval Spanish go-between is given a special attention due to the figure's complex relationship with diverse traditions. The range covered in the work provides a comprehensive view of the figure's trajectory and representation in each text.

The Ladies' Cabinet of Fashion, Music, and Romance Margaret De Courcy, Beatrice De Courcy, 1832 An illustrated women's magazine includes extracts from novels, short stories, reviews, aphorisms, songs, philosophical discussions and detailed descriptions of the latest clothing fashions from London and Paris.

A Female Poetics of Empire Julia Kuehn, 2013-10-30 Many well-known male writers produced fictions about colonial spaces and discussed the advantages of realism over romance and vice versa in the art of fiction debate of the 1880s, but how did female writers contribute to colonial fiction? This volume links fictional, non-fictional and pictorial representations of a colonial otherness with the late nineteenth-century artistic concerns about representational conventions and possibilities. The author explores these texts and images through the postcolonial framework of exoticism, arguing that the epistemological dilemma of a self-encountering an other results in the interrelated predicament to find poetic modalities mimetic, realistic and documentary on the one hand, romantic, fantastic and picturesque on the other, that befit an exotic representation. Thus, women writers did not only participate in the making of colonial fictions but also in the late nineteenth-century artistic debate about the nature of fiction. This book maps the epistemological concerns of exoticism and of difference, self and other, home and away, familiarity and strangeness onto the representational modes of realism and romance. The author focuses exclusively on female novelists, travel writers and painters of the turn of the century, exotic and especially on neglected authors of academically under-researched genres such as the bestselling novel and the travelogue.
