Lebanon after the Syrian Withdrawal Ohannes Geukjian, 2016-11-10 Lebanon experienced serious instability and ethno national conflict following the Syrian withdrawal in 2005 compounded by the Arab Spring which led to regional instability and civil war in Iraq and Syria Why did consociational democracy fail Was failure inevitable What impact could external powers play in creating an environment where consociationalism might be successfully implemented This book addresses these key questions and provides a comprehensive analysis of how internal and external elite relations influence the chances of a successful regulation of ethno national conflict through power sharing Exploring the roles played by Syria Qatar Iran Saudi Arabia the United States and France it argues that external actors in the Lebanese conflict largely determined whether power sharing was successfully established and shows that the consociational democratic model cannot provide long term conflict regulation in their absence The author argues that relationships between internal and external actors determine the prospects for successful conflict regulation and pinpoints the crucial role of the external forces in the creation of power sharing agreements in Lebanon concluding that future success is dependent on the maintenance of positive exogenous pressures This book will be of key interest to students and scholars studying politics international relations and Middle East studies

Politics, Culture and the Lebanese Diaspora Nathalie Nahas,Paul Tabar,2010-07-12 This book is a collection of essays that were originally presented at a conference at the Lebanese American University in late May 2007 entitled Politics Culture and the Lebanese Diaspora It looks at various facets of the Lebanese Diaspora and examines the politics and culture of Lebanese migrants and their descendants in different parts of the world while detailing the communal national and transnational elements of these practices and exploring the changing characteristics of politics and culture in respect to migration Diaspora and globalization The essays raise questions about the in compatible and interpenetrating relationships between these dynamics and analyze processes of identity formation as cultural manifestations of migratory politics The book is divided into three main sections The first section deals with issues of identity and multiculturalism among Lebanese emigrants concluding that identities are continuously molded and negotiated in the diaspora It examines the formation of identities among second and third generation migrants and the changing conceptions of the meaning of roots and homelands The second section deals with politics and activism in the Diaspora It looks at how diasporas relate to the political processes in their homelands during post conflict resolution and explores the role of Lebanese migrants abroad in the process of peace building back home The third part deals with the Diaspora in literature and media through the assessment of key writings on the explorations of self of the Lebanese abroad drawing on how symbols of identification and conventions of representation become sites of conflict over time The wide variety of perspectives presented in these papers invite us to challenge the notion of a fixed bounded and rigid homeland and identity and move towards one that is more nomadic and fluid They call us to pay attention to the symbols used in the cultural construction of both homelands and identities in the country of immigration and to think of the complex ways in which transnational politics affect the homeland and are in turn affected by it
