increased tremendously in significance as well as in economic value despite the fact that the former mainly pertains to the private sphere whilst the latter is considered a common good

Stakeholder Perspectives on World Heritage and Development in Africa Pascall Taruvinga, 2022-08-25 Stakeholder Perspectives on World Heritage and Development in Africa argues that World Heritage Sites WHS across the African continent should adopt practical innovative creative and alternative management approaches that bring greater socio economic benefits to society whilst protecting their Outstanding Universal Value Drawing on empirical evidence gathered in conversation with stakeholders at WHS across Africa the book explores the challenges involved in implementing conservation and socio economic development as a stakeholder driven process Demonstrating that heritage can no longer be viewed as totally separate from its socio economic context Pascall argues that decisions about the management of heritage need to make sense at the local level if they are to be supported by stakeholders As the book shows heritage is still viewed and managed through systems approaches and strategies inherited from the colonial period despite the increasing availability of inclusive governance systems Stakeholders offer alternative creative and innovative approaches that capitalize on the potential of World Heritage to contribute to socio economic development whilst ensuring that its credibility and integrity are maintained Stakeholder Perspectives on World Heritage and Development in Africa offers unique insights into local perspectives on World Heritage and development in Africa The book will be essential reading for academics students development partners and practitioners around the world who are interested in museums and heritage conservation development and the African continent Also the book will be useful in the preparation of nomination dossiers management plans development plans and in disaster risk management at WHS

Management Planning for Cultural Heritage Ken Taylor, Giulio Verdini, 2021-12-30 Management Planning for Cultural Heritage challenges traditional perceptions of and about the heritage planning process while also presenting a comprehensive analysis of the ever widening field of Cultural Heritage Conservation Drawing on the authors experience in teaching and involvement in international practice the book examines the changes that are taking place in modes of thinking about heritage as part of increasingly complex urban transformations and considers how these must engage with and inform professional practice The book also acknowledges that international best practice has developed a great deal over the last 40 years and needs to be adapted applied and refined through the recognition and application of regional values tangible and intangible based on cultural attitudes and practices Emphasising the critical role of heritage planning and management in guiding change Taylor and Verdini argue that this is especially critical if we are to safeguard values identity and significance In this sense heritage is understood not only as a technical process but also as a social construct The book therefore promotes a people centred approach to cultural heritage management Management Planning for Cultural Heritage will be of interest to students scholars and practitioners working in heritage studies and conservation While the text has professional application it also sets out to present a sound theoretical foundation relevant to the body of knowledge associated with management of cultural heritage places Archaeological Heritage Conservation and Management Brian J. Egloff, 2019-01-31 Archaeological heritage conservation is all too often highly conflicted Economic interests are often at the forefront of management decision making with heritage values given lesser if any consideration but when heritage places are managed with international principles in mind the sites stand out as evidencing superior outcomes UNESCO, Cultural Heritage, and Outstanding Universal Value Sophia Labadi, 2013 This book explores the international legal framework developed by UNESCO to identify and protect world heritage and its implementation at the national level Drawing on close policy analysis of UNESCO's major documents extensive professional experience at UNESCO as well as in depth analyses of case studies from Asia Europe and Latin America Sophia Labadi offers a nuanced discussion of the constitutive role of national understandings of a universalist framework The discussion departs from considerations of the World Heritage Convention as Eurocentric and offers a more complex analysis of how official narratives relating to non European and non traditional heritage mark a subversion of a dominant and canonical European representation of heritage It engages simultaneously with a diversity of discourses across the humanities and social sciences and with related theories pertaining not only to tangible and intangible heritage conservation and archaeology but also political science social theory tourism and development studies economics cultural and gender studies In doing so it provides a critical review of many key concepts including tourism development sustainability intangible heritage and authenticity Management Planning for Archaeological Sites Jeanne Marie Teutonico, Gaetano Palumbo, Getty Conservation Institute, Loyola Marymount University, 2002 This volume reports on the proceedings of a workshop held in Greece near the ancient site of Corinth to discuss challenges faced by archaeological sites in the Mediterranean and to examine management planning methods that might generate effective conservation strategies

Through Experience Tourism is an academic research book that delves into the intricate relationship between tourism culture and heritage. It offers a comprehensive and interdisciplinary exploration of this evolving field. Drawing on the latest research and international frameworks, this volume identifies new areas of culture and heritage tourism, understands its scope and challenges, and highlights its interlinkages with various sectors of the industry and the broader economy. Designed for undergraduate and postgraduate students of travel and tourism management, this book serves as a valuable resource. It also meets the needs of universities with cultural and heritage tourism in their curricula and offers insights for industry leaders, policymakers, and researchers interested in multidisciplinary studies.

Heritage, Communities and Archaeology Laurajane Smith, Emma Waterton, 2013-11-20. This book traces the development of community archaeology, identifying both its advantages and disadvantages by describing how and why tensions have arisen between archaeological and community understandings of the past. The focus of this book is the conceptual disjunction between heritage and data and the problems this poses for both archaeologists and communities in communicating and engaging with each other. In order to explain the extent of the miscommunication that can occur, the authors examine the ways in which a range of community groups, including communities of expertise, define and negotiate memory and identity. Importantly, they explore the ways in which these expressions are used or are taken up in struggles over cultural recognition and ultimately the practical, ethical, political, and theoretical implications this has for archaeologists engaging in community work. Finally, they argue that there are very real advantages for archaeological research theory and practice to be gained from engaging with communities.

A Future for Archaeology Robert Layton, Stephen Shennan, Peter Stone, 2016-09-16. Over the last thirty years, issues of culture, identity, and meaning have moved out of the academic sphere to become central to politics and society at all levels, from the local to the global. Archaeology has been at the forefront of these moves towards a greater engagement with the non-academic world, often in an extremely practical and direct way, for example in the disputes about the repatriation of human burials. Such disputes have been central to the recognition that previously marginalized groups have rights in their own past that are important for their future. The essays in this book look back at some of the most important events where a role for an archaeology concerned with the past in the present first emerged and look forward to the practical and theoretical issues now central to a socially engaged discipline and shaping its future. This book is published in honor of Professor Peter Ucko, who has played an unparalleled role in promoting awareness of the core issues in this volume among archaeologists.

Archaeology and Heritage Management Usman Ali, 2021. This volume reconsiders the World Heritage Guidelines to manage cultural and natural heritage sites effectively. The study approaches this in two ways. The first is by evaluating and analyzing the fundamental theories and practice of heritage with comparison to World Heritage prescribed parameters for effective management, particularly authenticity, and the second is about to rereview the international legislation in the context of authenticity of heritage practice as a part of understanding and developing new parameters for conservation/preservation.
