Looking For The Light The Hidden Life And Art Of Marion Post Wolcott:

Looking for the Light Paul Hendrickson, 1992 Working for the Farm Security Administration Marion Post Wolcott traveled across Depression ravaged America contributing to an incomparable documentary record and photographic legacy Magnificently illustrated with more than 75 Wolcott photographs here is a long overdue celebration of one of the most brilliant photographers of the 20th century The Grass Shall Grow Mick Gidley, 2020-02-01 The Grass Shall Grow is a succinct introduction to the work and world of Helen M Post 1907-79 who took thousands of photographs of Native Americans Although Post has been largely forgotten and even in her heyday never achieved the fame of her sister Farm Security Administration photographer Marion Post Wolcott Helen Post was a talented photographer who worked on Indian reservations throughout the West and captured images that are both striking and informative Post produced the pictures for the novelist Oliver La Farge's nonfiction book As Long As the Grass Shall Grow 1940 among other publications and her output constitutes a powerful representation of Native American life at that time Mick Gidley recounts Post's career from her coming of age in the turbulent 1930s to her training in Vienna and her work for the U S Indian Service tracking the arc of her professional reputation He treats her interactions with public figures including La Farge and editor Edwin Rosskam and describes her relationships with Native Americans whether noted craftspeople such as the Sioux quilter Nellie Star Boy Menard tribal leaders such as Crow superintendent Robert Yellowtail or ordinary individuals like the people she photographed at work in the fields or laboring for federal projects at school or in the hospital cooking or dancing The images reproduced here are analyzed both for their own sake and in order to understand their connection to broader national concerns including the 1934 Indian Reorganization Act The thoroughly researched and accessibly written text represents a serious reappraisal of a neglected artist Those Who Remain Gene J. Crediford, 2009-04-19 Through interviews and a generous photograph montage stretching over two decades reveals the commonality and diversity among these people of Indian identity When DeSoto in 1540 and later Juan Pardo in 1567 marched through what was known as the province of Cofitachequi which covered the southern part of today's North Carolina and most of South Carolina the native population was estimated at well over 18 000 Most shared a common Catawba language enabling this confederation of tribes to practice advanced political and social methods cooperate and support each other and meet their common enemy The footprint of the Cofitachequi is the footprint of this book The contemporary Catawba Midland Santee Natchez Kusso Varnertown Waccamaw Pee Dee and Lumbee Indians of North and South Carolina have roots in pre contact Cofitachequi Names have changed through the years tribes split and blended as the forces of nature the influx of Europeans and the imposition of federal government authority altered their lives For a few of these tribes the system has worked well or is working well now For others the challenge continues to try to work with and within the federal government's system for tribal recognition a system governing Indians but not created by them Through interviews and a generous photograph montage stretching over two decades Gene Crediford reveals the commonality and diversity among these people of Indian identity their heritage culture frustrations with the system joys in success of the younger generation and hope for the future of those who come after them This book is the story of those who remain The Grove Encyclopedia of American Art Joan M. Marter,2011 Arranged in alphabetical order these 5 volumes encompass the history of the cultural development of America with over 2300 entries

Picturing Migrants James R. Swensen,2015-10 As time passes personal memories of the Great Depression die with those who lived through the desperate 1930s In the absence of firsthand knowledge John Steinbeck s The Grapes of Wrath and the photographs produced for the New Deal s Farm Security Administration FSA now provide most of the images that come to mind when we think of the 1930s That novel and those photographs as this book shows share a history Fully exploring this complex connection for the first time Picturing Migrants offers new insight into Steinbeck s novel and the FSA s photography and into the circumstances that have made them enduring icons of the Depression Looking at the work of Dorothea Lange Horace Bristol Arthur Rothstein and Russell Lee it is easy to imagine that these images came straight out of the pages of The Grapes of Wrath This should be no surprise James R Swensen tells us because Steinbeck explicitly turned to photographs of the period to create his visceral narrative of hope and loss among Okie migrants in search of a better life in California When the novel became an instant best seller upon its release in April 1939 some dismissed its imagery as pure fantasy Lee knew better and traveled to Oklahoma for proof The documentary pictures he produced are nothing short of a photographic illustration of the hard lives and desperate reality that Steinbeck so vividly portrayed In Picturing Migrants Swensen sets these lesser known images alongside the more familiar work of Lange and others giving us a clearer understanding of the FSA s work to publicize the plight of the migrant in the wake of the novel and John Ford s award winning film adaptation A new perspective on an era whose hardships and lessons resonate to this day Picturing Migrants lets us see as never before how a novel and a series of documentary photographs have kept the Great Depression important female photographers recorded life in the growing Northwest and the streets of New York City became pioneers of historic photography as they captured the plight of Americans fleeing the Dust Bowl and the horrors of the concentration camps and were members of the Photo Secessionist Movement to promote photography as a true art form This source serves as a checklist for not only the famous but also the less familiar women photographers who deserve attention Ben Shahn: An Artist's Life Howard Greenfeld,2019-08-10 Ben Shahn was born in Lithuania in 1898 and emigrated to New York with his family in 1906 Trained as a lithographer Shahn created social realist paintings of controversial subjects such as Sacco and Vanzetti He worked as an assistant to Diego Rivera on Rivera s Rockefeller Center mural and later created his own public murals in Washington New York and New Jersey In 1935 Walker Evans invited him to join the New Deal s Farm Security Administration As a photographer Shahn documented the Depression in the American South with Evans and Dorothea Lange During the war years he worked for the Office of War Information OWI producing propaganda posters before returning to painting Toward the end of his life he worked as a commercial artist taught and wrote about art including The Biography of a Painting 1956 and The Shape of Content 1960 Howard Greenfeld s biography is the first complete life of the artist and is illustrated with 90 of his photographs pictures and paintings Howard Greenfeld s approach scrupulously balances the personal and the political to provide a rounded portrait gives a convincing sense of a determined individual making his mark as an immigrant in the turbulent America of depression and war social upheaval and reaction David Cohen The New York Times North American Women Artists of the Twentieth Century Jules Heller,Nancy G. Flash! Kate Flint, 2017-11-28 Flash presents a fascinating cultural history of flash photography from its mid nineteenth century beginnings to the present day All photography requires light but the light of flash photography is quite distinctive artificial sudden shocking intrusive and extraordinarily bright Associated with revelation and wonder it has been linked to the sublimity of lightning Yet it has also been reviled it s inseparable from anxieties about intrusion and violence it creates a visual disturbance and its effects are often harsh and create exaggerated contrasts Flash explores flash s power to reveal shocking social conditions its impact on the representation of race its illumination of what would otherwise remain hidden in darkness and its capacity to put on display the most mundane corners of everyday life It looks at flash s distinct aesthetics examines how paparazzi chase celebrities how flash is intimately linked to crime how flash has been used to light up and interrupt countless family gatherings how flash can stop time allowing one to photograph rapidly moving objects or freeze in a strobe and it considers the biggest flash of all the atomic bomb Examining the work of professionals and amateurs news hounds and art photographers photographers of crime and of wildlife the volume builds a picture of flash s place in popular culture and its role in literature and film Generously illustrated throughout Flash brings out the central role of this medium to the history of photography and challenges some commonly held ideas about the nature of photography itself

The Disciplinary Frame John Tagg, 2009-01-28 Photography can seem to capture reality and the eye like no other medium commanding belief and wielding the power of proof In some cases a photograph itself is attributed the force of the real How can a piece of chemically discolored paper have such potency How does the meaning of a photograph become fixed In The Disciplinary Frame John Tagg claims that to answer these questions we must look at the ways in which all that frames photography the discourse that surrounds it and the institutions that circulate it determines what counts as truth The meaning and power of photographs Tagg asserts are discursive effects of the regimens that produce them as official record documentary image historical evidence or art Teasing out the historical processes involved he examines a series of revealing case studies from nineteenth century European and American photographs to Depression era works by Walker Evans Dorothea Lange and Margaret Bourke White to the conceptualist photography of John Baldessari Central to this transformative work are questions of cultural strategy the growth of the state and broad issues of power and representation how the discipline of the frame holds both photographic image and viewer in place without erasing the possibility for evading and even resisting capture Photographs Tagg ultimately finds are at once too big and too small for the frames in which they are enclosed always saying more than is wanted and less than is desired
