Norman Foster And The British Museum:

Norman Foster and the British Museum Norman Foster, Deyan Sudjic, Spencer De Grey, 2001 A landmark in the history of the British Museum and one of Norman Foster's most significant projects to date the Great Court has reclaimed and reinvigorated one of London's most important public spaces transforming the Museum Published to coincide with a major retrospective of Foster's work held at the British Museum this volume brings together essays design drawings and photographs to provide an account of the development and completion of Foster's project An introductory essay by Deyan Sudjic presents the Great Court as the culmination of centuries of change within the Museum a reconciliation of past and future which has both restored and transfigured the heart of this public institution Spencer de Grey a partner at Foster and Partners documents the design and construction of the individual elements within the Great Court and the vast glazed canopy which surmounts them The volume is introduced by Norman Foster and illustrated with photographs of the Great Court during its construction and in its spectacular finished state

The Great Court and the British Museum Robert Anderson, Robert Geoffrey William Anderson, 2000 As one of the world's greatest museums approaches its 250th anniversary the British Museum has undertaken a massive development programme largely facilitated by the removal of the British Library from Bloomsbury The Great Court commissioned by the British Museum from Norman Foster and Partners following a prestigious architectural competition is at the centre of plans to position the Museum for the new millennium and to present it as a great new civic space A 6100 square metre glass canopy will cover the new cultural plaza that has been designed around the dome of the famous Round Reading Room A link between the Museum's important architectural history and building design of the future the Great Court project is destined to be one of the great architectural sights of Europe

The Great Court at the British Museum Norman Foster, Deyan Sudjic, 2011 KEYNOTE From initial sketches to final project this book documents the reinvention of the British Museum's Great Court One of the world's greatest institutions of learning and art the British Museum sees nearly six million visitors annually Yet until Norman Foster's remarkable transformation of its courtyard the enormous rambling structure was like a city without a park Numerous photographs reveal the court from a variety of perspectives and show the cutting edge technology of the spectacular glazed canopy that shelters what is now the largest covered public space in Europe Involving the magnificent restoration of the Reading Room the creation of new galleries for African art and a range of educational resources the Great Court project was a herald of the British Museum's wider transformation The project and this book illuminate Foster Partners holistic and ingenious approach to contemporary design

AUTHOR Deyan Sudjic is director of London's Design Museum He writes frequently about architecture ILLUSTRATIONS 90 colour an initial encounter with this wideranging field of activity Contradicting the conventional view that creative design work is the exclusive province of new building design the authors offer a nuanced account of active and creative strategies for planning design and execution Subjects considered range from town planning issues through the overall project cycle and its individual phases all the way to building management Special focuses are the grammar of design as well as the issues arising through collaboration of different experts In order to illuminate this broad and complex spectrum of topics the book incorporates thirty examples of projects from Europe and North America in which buildings from a huge variety of periods from the Middle Ages to the 1960s are transferred into the present Building Up and Tearing Down Paul

Goldberger,2009-10-13 PAUL GOLDBERGER ON THE AGE OF ARCHITECTURE The Guggenheim Museum Bilbao by Frank Gehry the CCTV Headquarters by Rem Koolhaas the Getty Center by Richard Meier the Times Building by Renzo Piano Pulitzer Prize winning critic Paul Goldberger s tenure atThe New Yorkerhas documented a captivating era in the world of architecture one in which larger than life buildings urban schemes historic preservation battles and personalities have commanded an international stage Goldberger s keen observations and sharp wit make him one of the most insightful and passionate architectural voices of our time In this collection of fifty seven essays the critic Tracy Kidder called America s foremost interpreter of public architecture ranges from Havana to Beijing from Chicago to Las Vegas dissecting everything from skyscrapers by Norman Foster and museums by Tadao Ando to airports monuments suburban shopping malls and white brick apartment houses This is a comprehensive account of the best and the worst of the age of architecture On Norman Foster Norman Foster is the Mozart of modernism He is nimble and prolific and his buildings are marked by lightness and grace He works very hard but his designs don t show the effort He brings an air of unnerving aplomb to everything he creates from skyscrapers to airports research laboratories to art galleries chairs to doorknobs His ability to produce surprising work that doesn t feel labored must drive his competitors crazy On the Westin Hotel The forty five story Westin is the most garish tall building that has gone up in New York in as long as I can remember It is fascinating if only because it makes Times Square vulgar in a whole new way extending up into the sky It is not easy these days to go beyond the bounds of taste If the architects the Miami based firm Arquitectonica had been trying to allude to bad taste one could perhaps respect what they came up with But they simply wanted like most architects today to entertain us On Mies van der Rohe Mies s buildings look like the simplest things you could imagine yet they are among the richest works of architecture ever created Modern architecture was supposed to remake the world and Mies was at the center of the revolution but he was also a counterrevolutionary who designed beautiful things His spare minimalist objects are exquisite He is the only modernist who created a language that ranks with the architectural languages of the past and while this has sometimes been troubling for his reputation his architectural forms become more astonishing as time goes on Museum Marketing Ruth

Rentschler,Anne-Marie Hede,2009-11-04 Museums have moved from a product to a marketing focus within the last ten years

This has entailed a painful reorientation of approaches to understanding visitors as customers new ways of fundraising and sponsorship as government funding decreases and grappling with using the internet for marketing This book brings the latest in marketing thinking to bear on the museum sector taking into account both the commercial issues and social mission it involves Carefully structured to be highly accessible the book offers A contemporary and relevant and global approach to museum marketing written by authors in Britain Australia the United States and Asia An approach that reflects the particular challenges museums of varying sizes face when seeking to market an experience to a diverse set of stakeholders audience funders sponsors and government A particular focus on museum marketing in the Information Age Major case studies at the beginning and end of each section of the book and smaller case studies within chapters The hugely experienced author team includes both leading academics and practitioners to ensure the book has broad appeal and is both relevant innovative and progressive in approach It will be essential reading for students in museum studies non profit marketing and arts management and marketing It will also be equally relevant for professionals working in and managing museums and galleries heritage attractions and ministries of arts
