

At a second hearing on abandonment testimony was presented to show that only 26.6 percent of the railroad's revenue came from intrastate shipments, with the result that the yearly operating deficit would be around $25,000 if the line were forced to continue for this traffic alone.¹²² P. H. Potter, the law examiner for the Railroad Commission, remarked at the hearing that there was little reason for the whole proceedings before the commission. He tendered the opinion that if the Railroad Commission forced intrastate operations alone, the railroad would lose so much money that the courts of the State would not uphold the decision, as they would consider it confiscation of property.¹²³ Evidently the railroad's owners reasoned similarly, for eighteen days before the hearings were held at Madison, the Mineral Point and Northern had run its last train.¹²⁴

The Milwaukee Journal wrote a little article about the scene at Mineral Point when the last train arrived. Under a heading, "Engine Chugs Home, Abandon Little Road," the article reported the statements of several members of the crew. The engineer remarked that the trip took six hours, the usual pace, and the master mechanic commented: "After a thing has been around 26 years, a person becomes attached to it. The people around here are sentimental about the MP&N, and I don't blame them. I feel kind of bad myself."

The people may have been sentimental, but no one was present for the last chance to ride the Mineral Point and Northern. The trip was made without passengers or freight. Only Assistant General Manager Martin and Traffic Manager R. E. Smart were on board with the crew for the last ride on the little railroad.¹²⁵

The property of the Mineral Point and Northern was sold at auction on June 14,

1930, on the courthouse steps at Dodgeville. There were no buyers of the whole property, but when it was divided into parcels, the rolling stock, rails, ties, tools, and bridges were sold as a unit for $27,000 to L. B. Foster and Company of Chicago, who intended to junk the equipment. The stations and land were sold separately, and all the purchasers were given until January 1, 1931, to remove their property.¹²⁷

In September, 1930, the zinc oxide plant was closed, and Mineral Point became completely dependent upon agriculture as the basis for its economy. Wild flowers and long grasses slowly covered the mining slopes,¹²⁸ and the right of way of the Mineral Point and Northern became a twenty-six-mile strip of neglected land, a sorry tribute to days gone by.

During the twenty-five years of the Mineral Point and Northern operation, the zinc interests had not been concerned about the welfare of the farmers. The status of the farmer was a matter of indifference to the zinc operator, and the farmer probably felt little interest in the affairs of the mining segment of the economy. But when the zinc mines closed, the farmer began to realize the importance of the local industry to his life. It had been the industry that had sustained such services as the Mineral Point and Northern. The farmer protested at commission hearings, but he was to lose his case, for the economy had developed to a point at which the agrarian could no longer support such a convenience as a railroad without the substantial aid of industry. The local residents protested, but the Mineral Point and Northern was abandoned, just as countless other short line railroads were abandoned in the same era.

All that is left is the right of way, serving as a symbol of a venture that had converted a region's dreams into temporary reality.
