Making Arguments Reason in Context offers a new approach to the teaching of argumentation and debate Nearly all argumentation courses and textbooks tilt toward one of two extremes Critical thinking informal logic in which the laws of reasoning are universal and not affected by audience or context Public speaking in which adaptation to the audience and winning assent trumps logic and reasoning At the first extreme are texts that stress flaws in arguments and how to discern them Their focus tends to be on the logic making deductive inferences and avoiding deductive mistakes or other errors of inference and or the recognition of fallacies deficient or fake arguments They also deal with the messy ambiguities of language Generally this approach omits the concept of an audience And it does not explain how spotting the flaws in reasoning or improving one s reasoning translates into the ability to make an effective argument Further it is not clear how to address audiences whose grasp of logic is shaky At the other extreme are books especially public speaking textbooks that err in the opposite direction They are fixated on audience As a result their advice about how to argue is grounded in audience adaptation In fact the process of reasoning is nearly subordinated to such secondary considerations as style delivery and organization And again the connection between critical thinking logic and audience is rarely examined In Making Arguments we propose to consider argument at the nexus of invention and judgment the two endpoints from which logic and public speaking examine argumentation respectively By looking at the stuff that comes between an argument s design and its delivery we hope to enrich the understanding and the study of argument as both a theoretical and applied discipline In particular we want to answer some questions that are seldom addressed in print What is the starting point for augmentation When do we even need to argue When should one embrace and when should one avoid arguing Why does the same argument work in one place and fail in another Are most audiences capable of understanding a complex argument With what authority can one make an argument absent expertise in the field in which the argument takes place Are there substantive differences between oral and written argument What does it mean to present an argument Can someone control the argumentative situation context to the benefit of his her position How can argument educate and improve the arguer Can we learn the truth by arguing This book addresses the whole advocacy process as a series of concatenated intellectual decisions affecting how arguments are created ordered rendered and produced with judgment as the over arching concern A Formal

The Rhetoric of Reason James

Crosswhite, 2012-11 Responding to skeptics within higher education and critics without James Crosswhite argues powerfully that the core of a college education should be learning to write a reasoned argument A trained philosopher and director of a university wide composition program Crosswhite challenges his readers teachers of writing and communication philosophers critical theorists and educational administrators to reestablish the traditional role of rhetoric in education To those who have lost faith in the abilities of people to reach reasoned mutual agreements and to others who have attacked the right or wrong model of formal logic this book offers the reminder that the rhetorical tradition has always viewed argumentation as a dialogue a response to changing situations an exchange of persuading listening and understanding Crosswhite's aim is to give new purpose to writing instruction and to students writing to reinvest both with the deep ethical interests of the rhetorical tradition In laying out the elements of argumentation for example he shows that claiming questioning and giving reasons are not simple elements of formal logic but communicative acts with complicated ethical features Students must learn not only how to construct an argument but the purposes responsibilities and consequences of engaging in one Crosswhite supports his aims through a rhetorical reconstruction of reason offering new interpretations of Plato and Aristotle and of the concepts of reflection and dialogue from early modernity through Hegel to Gadamer And in his conclusion he ties these theoretical and historical underpinnings to current problems of higher education the definition of the liberal arts and especially the teaching of written communication Arguing with People Michael Gilbert,2014-06-02 Arguing with People brings developments from the field of Argumentation Theory to bear on critical thinking in a clear and accessible way This book expands the critical thinking toolkit and shows how those tools can be applied in the hurly burly of everyday arguing Gilbert emphasizes the importance of understanding real arguments understanding just who you are arguing with and knowing how to use that information for successful argumentation Interesting examples and partner exercises are provided to demonstrate tangible ways in which the book s lessons can be applied Resources in Education ,1998-07 Critical Thinking: The Basics Stuart Hanscomb,2017-09-19 Critical Thinking The Basics is an accessible and engaging introduction to the field of critical thinking drawing on philosophy communication and psychology Emphasising its relevance to decision making in personal professional and civic life academic literacy and personal development this book supports the reader in understanding and developing the knowledge and skills needed to avoid poor reasoning reconstruct and evaluate arguments and engage constructively in dialogues Topics covered include the relationship between critical thinking emotions and the psychology of persuasion the role of character dispositions such as open mindedness courage and perseverance argument identification and reconstruction fallacies and argument evaluation With discussion questions exercises and suggestions for further reading at the end of each main chapter this book is an essential read for students approaching the field of critical thinking for the first time and for the general reader wanting to improving their thinking skills and decision making abilities
