Referring To Space Studies In Austronesian And Papuan Languages:

Referring to Space Gunter Senft, 1997 The first aim of this anthology is to illustrate the variety of resources that Austronesian and Papuan languages offer their speakers for referring to space The languages here described are spread from Madagascar to Tonga and there are many differences between them They also offer a striking contrast to Indo European languages and call into question universalistic claims about human spatial concepts and spatial reference based solely on evidence from Indo European languages and their speakers There are however striking parallels between the kinds of systems that languages offer and that their speakers employ when referring to space Understanding the differences in the ways that coordinate systems are used requires not only linguistic but also cultural historical and geographical knowledge Thus the second aim of the collection is to illustrate the necessity of an interdisciplinary approach to the topic of space if we are to understand the underlying logic of conceptions of space manifest in verbal expressions The first three papers offer overviews of the conception of space in Austronesian languages and analyse the coordinate systems employed for spatial reference The seven papers which follow offer anthropological linguistic descriptions of directionals and locatives in Austronesian and Papuan languages and the last three contributions offer a more structurally oriented perspective The Oxford Handbook of Cognitive Linguistics Dirk Geeraerts, Hubert Cuyckens, 2010-06-09 The Oxford Handbook of Cognitive Linguistics presents a comprehensive overview of the main theoretical concepts and descriptive theoretical models of Cognitive Linguistics and covers its various subfields theoretical as well as applied The first twenty chapters give readers the opportunity to acquire a thorough knowledge of the fundamental analytic concepts and descriptive models of Cognitive Linguistics and their background The book starts with a set of chapters discussing different conceptual phenomena that are recognized as key concepts in Cognitive Linguistics prototypicality metaphor metonymy embodiment perspectivization mental spaces etc A second set of chapters deals with Cognitive Grammar Construction Grammar and Word Grammar which each in their own way bring together the basic concepts into a particular theory of grammar and a specific model for the description of grammatical phenomena Special attention is given to the interrelation between Cognitive and Construction Grammar A third set of chapters compares Cognitive Linguistics with other forms of linguistic research functional linguistics autonomous linguistics and the history of linguistics thus giving a reader a better grip on the position of Cognitive Linguistics within the landscape of linguistics at large The remaining chapters apply these basic notions to various more specific linguistic domains illustrating how Cognitive Linguistics deals with the traditional linguistic subdomains phonology morphology lexicon syntax text and discourse and demonstrating how it handles linguistic variation and change Finally they consider its importance in the domain of Applied Linguistics and look at interdisciplinary links with research fields such as philosophy and psychology With a well known cast of contributors from around the world this reference work will be of interest to researchers and advanced students in cognitive linguistics psychology cognitive science and anthropology

The Language of Mathematics Bill Barton, 2007-12-24 The book emerges from several contemporary concerns in mathematics language and mathematics education However the book takes a different stance with respect to language by combining discussion of linguistics and mathematics using examples from each to illustrate the other The picture that emerges is of a subject that is much more contingent much more relative much more subject to human experience than is usually accepted Another way of expressing this is that the thesis of the book takes the idea of mathematics as a human creation and using the evidence from language comes to more radical conclusions than most writers allow

Spatial Expression in Caac Aurélie Cauchard, 2018-07-09 In this study the author describes the linguistic expression of space in Caac an endangered and under documented Oceanic language spoken in New Caledonia from both a descriptive and theoretical perspective Part I provides a concise description of Caac grammar presenting a first formal portrait of this language to the reader Part II describes the formal and semantic features of the linguistic resources available in Caac to encode spatial relationships Part III presents the theoretical framework based on and exploring further the vector analysis developed by Bohnemeyer 2012 and Bohnemeyer Levinson 1996 2003 Bohnemeyer Levinson not dated with an analysis of deictic expressions within a single framework Special attention moreover is given to the use of Caac absolute and deictic directionals in spatial constructions involving Fictive Motion The analysis of Caac data leads us to introduce an additional category of Fictive Motion beyond those previously recognised in the literature labelled here Anticipated Paths which in turn shed new light on the nature of vectors and the relationship between location motion and orientation

Space in Language and Cognition Stephen C. Levinson, 2003-03-20 Languages differ in how they describe space and such differences between languages can be used to explore the relation between language and thought This 2003 book shows that even in a core cognitive domain like spatial thinking language influences how people think memorize and reason about spatial relations and directions After outlining a typology of spatial coordinate systems in language and cognition it is shown that not all languages use all types and that non linguistic cognition mirrors the systems available in the local language The book reports on collaborative interdisciplinary research involving anthropologists linguists and psychologists conducted in many languages and cultures around the world which establishes this robust correlation The overall results suggest that thinking in the cognitive sciences underestimates the transformative power of language on thinking The book will be of interest to linguists psychologists anthropologists and philosophers and especially to students of spatial cognition

Syntax and Semantics of Spatial P Anna Asbury, Jakub Dotlařil, Berit Gehrke, Rick Nouwen, 2008-05-21 The category P belongs to a less studied area in theoretical linguistics which has only recently attracted considerable attention This volume brings together pioneering work on adpositions in spatial relations from different theoretical and cross linguistic perspectives The common theme in these contributions is the complex semantic and syntactic structure of PPs Analyses are presented in several different frameworks and approaches including generative syntax optimality theoretic semantics and syntax formal semantics mathematical modeling lexical syntax and pragmatics Among the languages featured in detail are English German Hebrew Igbo Italian Japanese and Persian This volume will be of interest to students and researchers of formal semantics syntax and language typology as well as scholars with a more general interest in spatial cognition

Languages of Governance in Conflict Ingrid Hoëm, 2015-03-20 Through an ethnographically based study of local communicative practices in the Pacific atoll society of Tokelau the book adds to our understanding of how systems of governance are constituted by minute acts of social interaction and are informed by our conceptions of the nature of sociality. It combines a social anthropological approach to postcolonial studies in which local and trans national communicative practices related to governance and conflict management are analysed as different language games. The book offers an experience near approach to local modes of conflict management and patterns of leadership and documents how micro level communicative practices have an impact on macro political processes.

Motion, Direction and Location in Languages

Erin Shay, Uwe Seibert, 2003-09-18 This book contributes to an area of study that is of interest to linguists of all backgrounds. Typological in nature, this volume presents data analysis from the major language families of Africa as well as Sino-Tibetan, Austronesian, Japanese, Indo-European, Siouan and Penutian. The 16 contributors to the volume share a commitment to examining the language phenomena pertaining to the volume's theme with a fresh eye. While most of the papers make reference to existing theoretical frameworks, each also makes a novel and sometimes surprising contribution to the body of knowledge and theory concerning motional, directional and locational predicates, complements, morphology, adpositions and other phenomena. This collection of articles suitably complements courses on comparative and diachronic linguistics, semantics, syntax, typology or field methods.

A Grammar of South Efate

Nicholas Thieberger, 2006-07-31 This book presents topics in the grammar of South Efate, an Oceanic language of Central Vanuatu as spoken in Erakor village on the outskirts of Port Vila. It is one of the first such grammars to take seriously the provision of primary data for the verification of claims made in the analysis. The research is set in the context of increasing attention being paid to the state of the world's smaller languages and their prospects for being spoken into the future. In addition to providing an outline of the grammar of the language, the author describes the process of developing an archivable textual corpus that is used to make example sentences citable and playable using software. Audiamus, developed in the course of the research, included a DVD provides a dictionary and finderlist, a set of interlinearized example texts and elicited sentences and playable media versions of most example sentences and of the example texts.

Indonesian Houses

, 2022-06-20 The traditional houses and settlements of the several hundred ethnic groups of Indonesia are extremely varied and all have their own unique history. Underlying this rich diversity are fundamental similarities rooted in the ancient heritage that is shared by all the peoples in the Indonesian field of study. The multiplicity of ways in which this heritage is given shape in each local situation bears witness to an amazing creativity in adapting to regional circumstances and social changes. Inter-ethnic comparison of the architectural structures is a way to arrive at a better understanding of both the shared traditions and the diverging developments. In many cases the variety of house forms will reflect successful attempts at one group's making distinct its buildings from those of neighbouring groups in an ongoing ethnic process of what could be called mutual contrasting although sometimes by means of pseudo traditions which have little to do with indigenous customs of the past. The contributions to this volume are grouped in four sections. The first consists of essays describing approaches to the transformation and variation of houses. The second set presents applications of these approaches in case studies of specific Sumatran cultures. The third group widens the perspective through the inclusion of a number of cultures from outside Sumatra namely from Flores, Sulawesi, Kalimantan, Palu and Roti. The final set deals not so much with houses as with settlements. In their pursuit of the cultural dimension of houses the contributions focus on villages and towns exploring their cosmological and symbolic organization.
