Kunneke, 2003-08-14 Focussing on the change and development of national gas markets in Europe this book provides an overview analysis and comparison of recent dynamics in several national gas markets at a time of very rapid change within this industry This overview provides a better understanding of current events and future evolution in the European gas business What can be expected at the European level given the recent trends and dynamics in national gas markets in Europe How did countries respond to the EU gas directive and why What are the important barriers to a harmonised European gas market from the perspective of national developments This book tackles these and related questions Written by experts across the field of energy policy and reform this publication will be an invaluable resource for social scientists studying the ongoing reform process in energy markets as well as industry analysts consultants policy makers and utility companies worldwide Natural Gas Services: Recent Reforms in Selected Markets, Inv. 332-426 ,

The Future of Russian Gas and Gazprom Jonathan P. Stern, 2005 The Russian gas industry provides 50% of Russian domestic energy supplies a substantial proportion of CIS gas supplies and around 20% of European gas demand Declines in production at existing fields mean that Gazprom will face increasingly difficult decisions about moving to higher cost fields on the Yamal Peninsula The alternative will be increasing imports from Central Asian countries and allowing other Russian gas producers to increase their role in the industry Russian exports to Europe will gradually increase and deliveries of Russian LNG will commence to Asia and the both coasts of North America Pipeline gas deliveries to East Asian countries may have a longer time horizon Export projects aimed at new markets will depend crucially on the maintenance of oil and gas prices at the levels of 2003-05 European exports will also depend on the pace of EU market liberalisation and Gazprom's ability to agree mutually acceptable terms for transit principally with Ukraine and Belarus Reform liberalisation and restructuring of the Russian gas industry have been more substantial than has generally been recognised Most important has been price reform which in 2005 allowed Russian industrial customers to become profitable to serve at regulated prices Price increases may significantly reduce future increases in domestic gas demand The increasing need for production from companies other than Gazprom will ensure that liberalised access to networks expands considerably over the next decade In the 2000s Gazprom reclaimed its CIS gas business from intermediaries while maintaining its de facto monopoly of exports to Europe and establishing a similar degree of authority over future exports to Asia The merger of Gazprom and Rosneft will provide the potential to become a force in the domestic and international oil markets particularly given the authority that the president has conferred on the company in terms of Russian energy policy The Economics of the Gas Supply Industry Malcolm Abbott, 2016-05-12 In recent years natural gas has become a major source of energy with trade across borders increasing through both pipelines and as Liquefied Natural Gas LNG Owing to this global development this book traces the development of the gas supply industry from localised to national industries and national industries to a major global industry. It looks at the basic economics and origins of the industry as well as the role of the government in its development and relation to international markets. The book highlights certain economic characteristics such as the industry's vertical and horizontal structure, the composition of consumer demand, and the role of government in safety planning and investment. With the understanding of the industry's long term development, the book helps to illustrate the relationship between natural gas producers and importers of LNG. This book would be of interest to scholars majoring in resource economics and energy economics as well as to international practitioners in the natural gas market.

Modernizing Infrastructure in

Transformation Economies Christian von Hirschhausen, 2002-01-01. Competition Policy and Merger Analysis in Deregulated and Newly Competitive Industries

Peter C. Carstensen, Susan Beth Farmer, 2008-01-01. The thorough analyses presented in the book provide the reader with a good overview of the deregulation process in the respective industries. Competition Policy and Merger Analysis in Deregulated and Newly Competitive Industries is a valuable resource for researchers of law, economics, and political science. Volker Soyez, European Competition Law Review. This comprehensive book contains case studies on the evolution of competition policy with an emphasis on merger policy for seven major US industries that have experienced substantial deregulation in the past forty years: electricity, natural gas, telecommunications, railroads, airlines, hospitals, and banking. Also included is a comparison of the EU's experience in attempting to bring about competition in the energy, finance, and airline industries. The contributors to the volume, each a recognized expert on the industry examined, explore the positive and negative implications of the substitution of market oriented processes for historic patterns of command and control regulation. The chapters reveal clear similarities in the economic, legal, and public policy issues that have arisen following deregulation of these economic sectors. Together they provide a good basis to discern the consistency of the problems and the relative success of differing responses to these issues over a range of industries going through similar transformation. While taking a basically positive view of the movement away from direct regulation, the contributors identify a number of continuing problems with achieving workable competition in these industries. The thorough analyses presented here will be of great value to law, economics, and political science researchers interested in deregulation, economic consultants advising government agencies or private parties, attorneys who focus on deregulated industries policy planners at the agencies overseeing these industries and students in advanced seminars on economic regulation
