evidence based specialism is balanced with practical skills and insights from experts and also considers the needs of those working with or concerned about the dying person's well being. It covers a range of challenging issues as well as drawing on the wisdom of those who actually undertake this work on a daily basis. I hope that students and practitioners from all disciplines will find this a useful resource to understand the art and craft of good palliative nursing. Professor Daniel Kelly, Fellow of the Royal College of Nursing and Royal College of Nursing Chair of Nursing Research, Cardiff University, UK.

Hidden Aspects of Palliative Care Brian Nyatanga, Maxine Astley-Pepper, 2005. Focuses on some of the hidden challenges and aspects found in palliative care provision. The author brings a wealth of insight into the difficult and challenging questions that are not always discussed openly in palliative care settings. It explores the differences between what is said openly and what is documented in patient records.

Critical Approaches to Death, Dying and Bereavement Erica Borgstrom, Renske Visser, 2024-10-03. This book is the first of its kind to examine key topics in death, dying and bereavement through a critical lens, highlighting how the understanding and experience of death can vary considerably based on social, cultural, historical, political and medical contexts. It looks at the complex ways in which death and dying are managed from the political level down to end of life care and the inequalities that surround and impact experiences of death, dying and bereavement. Readers are introduced to key theories such as the medicalisation of dying as well as contemporary issues such as social movements, pandemics and assisted dying. The book stresses how death is not only a biological process or event but rather shaped by a range of intersecting factors. Issues of inequalities in health, inequities in support and intersectional analyses are brought to the fore and each chapter is dedicated to an issue that has interdisciplinary resonance, thus showcasing the wider sociocultural and political factors that impact this time of life. This book is valuable reading for scholars in thanatology and death studies and for those in related fields such as sociology of health, medical and social anthropology and interdisciplinary social science courses.

Palliative Care Nursing of Children and Young People Rita Pfund, 2018-10-08. Children's palliative care is an evolving specialty and as such our knowledge base cannot remain static. This book constantly challenges the reader to critically analyze their own practices and beliefs within an evidence based framework and as such makes a valuable contribution to the growing body of knowledge on this important subject. Susan Fowler Kerry in the Foreword. This book caters for readers from different working environments and levels of experience. It is ideal for paediatric nurses with no specialist palliative care knowledge and also for palliative care nurses with no specialist paediatric experience. Other healthcare professionals and therapists working with children, young people and their families will also find this book invaluable. It will also be ideal for undergraduate and postgraduate health and social care students and professionals involved in children's hospices, community services and charity groups. This book captures not just the rapidly evolving evidence base but also as many current developments as possible and applies them in a meaningful way to the care of infants, children and young people living with life limiting illness and their families. It offers an overview of contemporary issues and helps to stimulate the type of dialogue that can bring about the actions that will make a real difference for the children young people and families in our care Rita Pfund in the Preface
