Consumer-Centered Computer-Supported Care for Healthy People H.-A. Park, P.J. Murray, C. Delaney, 2006-06. This publication initiated by the Korean Society of Medical Informatics (KOSMI) and its Nursing Informatics Specialist Group and the Special Interest Group in Nursing Informatics of the International Medical Informatics Association (IMIA). It is published for nurses and informatics experts working with informatics applications in nursing care administration, research, and education, bringing together the worlds of nursing informatics community. Korea is well known for having the highest level of Information and Communication Technology (ICT) accessibility in the world. Advances in ICT in Korea have led Korean health care sectors to fully utilize the benefit of ICT for health care. The theme of the book, Consumer-Centered Computer-Supported Care for Healthy People, emphasizes the central role of the consumer and the function of information technology in health care. It reflects the major challenge in our time, which is developing and using information technology for the improvement of consumer-oriented health care. I would seriously recommend that this book in text form should be available in all nursing libraries as a resource for study and reference in the expanding area of nursing and health care.

Computational Intelligence in Theory and Practice Bernd Reusch, Karl-Heinz Temme, 2001-01-18. Computational Intelligence, with its roots in Fuzzy Logic, Neural Networks, and Evolutionary Algorithms, has become an important research and application field in computer science in the last decade. Methodologies from these areas and combinations of them enable users from engineering, business, medicine, and many more branches to capture and process vague, incomplete, uncertain, and imprecise data and knowledge. Many algorithms and tools have been developed to solve problems in the realms of high and low level control, information processing, diagnostics, decision support, classification, optimisation, and many more. This book tries to show the impact and feedback between theory and applications of Computational Intelligence, highlighted on selected examples.
