Loss Of Habitat:

Deforestation and Habitat Loss Jaime Simmons, 2017-12-15 Forests are essential to human and animal survival. Trees produce the oxygen animals need to live. They also provide homes for animals and resources for people. However, Earth's forests are under attack. Deforestation is caused by fires, clear cutting, logging, and climate change. Forests are important to mitigating climate change because they suck up harmful carbon dioxide. Without forests, many plant and animal species would be at risk of becoming endangered or extinct. Complete with manageable text and stunning photographs of forests both healthy and threatened, this book covers essential concepts featured in elementary earth science curricula. Habitat Fragmentation and Landscape Change David B. Lindenmayer, Joern Fischer, 2013-02-22 Habitat loss and degradation that comes as a result of human activity is the single biggest threat to biodiversity in the world today. Habitat Fragmentation and Landscape Change is a groundbreaking work that brings together a wealth of information from a wide range of sources to define the ecological problems caused by landscape change and to highlight the relationships among landscape change, habitat fragmentation, and biodiversity conservation. The book synthesizes a large body of information from the scientific literature, considers key theoretical principles for examining and predicting effects, examines the range of effects that can arise, explores ways of mitigating impacts, reviews approaches to studying the problem, discusses knowledge gaps, and future areas for research and management. Habitat Fragmentation and Landscape Change offers a unique mix of theoretical and practical information, outlining general principles and approaches and illustrating those principles with case studies from around the world. It represents a definitive overview and synthesis on the full range of topics that fall under the widely used but often vaguely defined term habitat fragmentation. Conservation Biology Fred Van Dyke, Rachel L. Lamb, 2020-07-07 This book provides a thorough up-to-date examination of conservation biology and the many supporting disciplines that comprise conservation science. In this, the Third Edition of the highly successful Conservation Biology: Foundations, Concepts, Applications, the authors address their interdisciplinary topic as it must now be practiced and perceived in the modern world. Beginning with a concise review of the history of conservation, the authors go on to explore the interplay of conservation with genetics, demography, habitat, and landscape, aquatic environments, and ecosystem management, and the relationship of all these disciplines to ethics, economics, law, and policy. An entirely new chapter, The Anthropocene: Conservation in a Human-Dominated Nature, breaks new ground in its exploration of how conservation can be practiced in anthropogenic biomes, novel ecosystems, and urban habitats. The Third Edition includes the popular Points of Engagement discussion questions used in earlier editions and adds a new feature, Information Boxes, which briefly recap specific case histories described in the text. A concluding chapter offers insight into how to become a conservation professional in both traditional and non-traditional roles. The authors, Fred Van Dyke and Rachel Lamb, draw on their expertise as field biologists, wildlife managers, consultants to government and industry, and scholars of environmental law, policy, and advocacy, as well as their many years of effective teaching experience Informed by practical knowledge and acquired skills the authors have created a work of exceptional clarity and readability which encompasses both systemic foundations as well as contemporary developments in the field Conservation Biology Foundations Concepts Applications will be of invaluable benefit to undergraduate and graduate students as well as to working conservation scientists and managers This is an amazing resource for students faculty and practitioners both new and experienced to the field Diane Debinski PhD Unexcelled wisdom for living at home on Wonderland Earth the planet with promise destined for abundant life Holmes Rolston PhD Van Dyke and Lamb have maintained the original text s emphasis on connecting classical ecological and environmental work with updated modern applications and lucid examples But more importantly the third edition contains much new material on the human side of conservation including expanded treatments of policy economics and climate change Tim Van Deelen PhD Fred Van Dyke and Rachel Lamb break new ground in both the breadth and depth of their review and analysis of this crucially important and rapidly changing field Any student or other reader wishing to have a comprehensive overview and understanding of the complexities of conservation biology need look no further this book is your starting point Simon N Stuart PhD Anyone who teaches talks or writes and works on Conservation Biology needs this latest edition of Conservation Biology Foundations Concepts Applications 3rd edition by Fred Van Dyke and Rachel L Lamb This will be useful to both beginners and experts as well The authors included almost all important issues in relation to conservation biology This is really an outstanding book Bidhan Chandra Das Professor Ecology Branch Department of Zoology University of Rajshahi Bangladesh A Resource-Based Habitat View for Conservation Roger L. H. Dennis, 2012-04-10 Winner of the Marsh Book of the Year Award 2012 by the British Ecological Society In A Resource Based Habitat View for Conservation Roger Dennis introduces a novel approach to the understanding of habitats based on resources and conditions required by organisms and their access to them a quantum shift from simplistic and ineffectual notions of habitats as vegetation units or biotopes In drawing attention to what organisms actually use and need in landscapes it focuses on resource composition structure and connectedness all of which describe habitat quality and underpin landscape heterogeneity This contrasts with the current bipolar view of landscapes made up of habitat patches and empty matrix but illustrates how such a metapopulation approach of isolated patchworks can grow by adopting the new habitat viewpoint The book explores principles underlying this new definition of habitat and the impact of habitat components on populations species distributions geographical ranges and range changes with a view to conserving resources in landscapes for whole communities It does this using the example of butterflies the most alluring of insects flagship organisms and key indicators of environmental health in the British Isles where they have been studied most intensively The book forms essential reading for students researchers and practitioners in ecology and conservation particularly those concerned with managing sites and landscapes for wildlife Loss of Biodiversity David M. Barker, 2011 This title examines one of the world s critical issues human trafficking Readers will learn the historical background of this issue leading up to its current and future impact on society Various forms of modern slavery including debt bondage child labor prostitutes sex slaves and child soldiers are discussed in detail as well as risk factors for trafficking such as poverty violence and cultural traditional or religious views Also covered are the physical psychological and spiritual impact trafficking survivors experience laws intended to combat human trafficking the tier system and organizations such as the United Nations and UNICEF Engaging text informative sidebars and color photographs present information realistically leaving readers with a thorough honest interpretation of human trafficking Features include a timeline facts additional resources Web sites a glossary a bibliography and an index Essential Issues is a series in Essential Library an imprint of ABDO Publishing Company The Routledge Handbook of Landscape Ecology Robert A. Francis, James D.A. Millington, George L.W. Perry, Emily S. Minor, 2021-09-08 The Handbook provides a supporting guide to key aspects and applications of landscape ecology to underpin its research and teaching A wide range of contributions written by expert researchers in the field summarize the latest knowledge on landscape ecology theory and concepts landscape processes methods and tools and emerging frontiers Landscape ecology is an interdisciplinary and holistic discipline and this is reflected in the chapters contained in this Handbook Authors from varying disciplinary backgrounds tackle key concepts such as landscape structure and function scale and connectivity landscape processes such as disturbance flows and fragmentation methods such as remote sensing and mapping fieldwork pattern analysis modelling and participation and engagement in landscape planning and emerging frontiers such as ecosystem services landscape approaches to biodiversity conservation and climate change Each chapter provides a blend of the latest scientific understanding of its focal topics along with considerations and examples of their application from around the world An invaluable guide to the concepts methods and applications of landscape ecology this book will be an important reference text for a wide range of students and academics in ecology geography biology and interdisciplinary environmental studies Climate Vulnerability, 2013-03-15 Climate change has been the subject of thousands of books and magazines scientific journals and newspaper articles daily It s a subject that can be very political and emotional often blurring the lines between fact and fiction The vast majority of research studies projections and recommendations tend to focus on the human influence on climate change and global warming as the result of CO2 emissions often to the exclusion of other threats that include population growth and the stress placed on energy sources due to emerging global affluence Climate Vulnerability Five Volume Set seeks to strip away the politics and emotion that surround climate change and will assess the broad range of threats using the bottom up approach including CO2 emissions population growth emerging affluence and many others to our five most critical resources water food ecosystems energy and human health Inclusively determining what these threats are while seeking preventive measures and adaptations is at the heart of this unique reference work Takes a Bottom Up approach addressing climate change and the threat to our key resources at the local level first and globally second providing a more accurate and inclusive approach Includes extensive
