Nutrition Transition Diet And Disease In The Developing World:

The Nutrition Transition, 2002-08-30 This book deals with the dramatic changes in diet and lifestyle that are occurring in the developing world as a result of globalization and their impact on human health. The Editors have assembled a leading group of scientists in the fields of economics, population sciences, international health, medicine, nutrition, and food sciences to address each of the key issues related to the changes in demographic trends, food production and marketing, and disease patterns in the developing world. The Nutrition Transition provides essential information to understand the far-reaching effects that global economic, social, and cultural trends are having on diet-related diseases in countries of transition. Contains numerous illustrative figures and tables. Two case studies included on China and Brazil. Foreword written by Nevin Scrimshaw, recipient of the World Food Prize.

Food and nutrition security in transforming Ghana: A descriptive analysis of national trends and regional patterns Van Asselt, Joanna, Ecker, Olivier, 2017-06-16 In recent decades, Ghana has experienced high economic growth and transformation, which contributed to the nation achieving the Millennium Development Goal targets on reducing extreme poverty and hunger. Against this background and in view of achieving the food and nutrition security targets of the Sustainable Development Goals, Ghana started a process of reviewing its food security and nutrition strategies and policies, including the overarching Zero Hunger Strategy. This discussion paper aims to contribute to this process by providing an update on the state of Ghana's food and nutrition security. In addition to providing an overview of long-term historical trends at the national level, this analysis provides an overview of regional patterns of food and nutrition insecurity and recent changes across Ghana's 10 administrative regions. Finally, the analysis identifies regional hot spots of food and nutrition insecurity. This paper confirms that Ghana has achieved substantial improvements in food and nutrition security overall, especially over the past decade. Nationwide progress has been made in improving households' economic access to food by reducing poverty and extreme poverty and in reducing chronic and acute child undernutrition. However, progress in reducing micronutrient malnutrition, particularly anemia, and especially among young children, has been more modest. Across Ghana, large rural-urban gaps and regional differences, mainly between the north and the south, remain for most dimensions of food and nutrition security In addition Ghana is increasingly facing new nutrition related public health problems that result from overnutrition and diets too rich in calories Overweight and obesity among adults are rising rapidly in both urban and rural areas leading to an increase in the risk of noncommunicable diseases The rising double burden of malnutrition that is the coexistence of overnutrition and undernutrition including micronutrient deficiencies constitutes a challenge to public health and social protection policy These new nutritional realities may make some existing food and nutrition security policies obsolete or even detrimental to nutrition security

Case Studies in Food Policy for Developing Countries Per Pinstrup-Andersen, Fuzhi Cheng, 2018-07-05 The food problems now facing the world scarcity and starvation contamination and illness overabundance and obesity are both diverse and complex What are their causes How severe are they Why do they persist What are the solutions In three volumes that serve as valuable teaching tools and have been designed to complement the textbook Food Policy for Developing Countries by Per Pinstrup Andersen and Derrill D Watson II they call upon the wisdom of disciplines including economics nutrition sociology anthropology environmental science medicine and geography to create a holistic picture of the state of the world's food systems today Volume III of the Case Studies addresses global institutions and international trade policies

Adequate Food for All Wilson G. Pond, Buford L. Nichols, Dan L. Brown, 2009-02-12 Food is the sustenance of life But while we understand that a secure supply of food has been affected by many factors over the course of history we do not often allow ourselves to entertain the idea that a lack of adequate food worldwide is a very real and dangerous possibility While soil degradation water distribution climate change population
