representations advocacy law and stories about personal experiences from a disability studies perspective Author Michael Gill questions the predominantly individualized medical approaches to food allergies pointing out that these approaches are particularly problematic where allergy testing and treatments are expensive inconsistent and inaccessible for many people of color This thought provoking book explores the multiple meanings of food allergies and eating in the United States demonstrating how much more is at stake than we realize at a critical time when food allergies are on the rise An estimated 32 million Americans including one in thirteen children have food allergies Diagnoses of food allergies in children have increased by 50 percent since 1997 Yet as the author makes clear the whiteness of the food allergy community and single identity disability theory is inherently limiting and insufficient to address the complex choices that those with food allergies make Gill argues that racism and ableism create unique precarity for disabled people of color that food allergic communities are only beginning to address There is a huge disparity in access to testing and treatment with African American and Latinx children having higher risk of adverse outcomes than white children including more rates of anaphylaxis Food allergy professionals have a responsibility to move beyond individualized approaches to more robust coalitional efforts grounded in disability and racial justice to undo these patterns of exclusion Allergic Intimacies celebrates the various creative ways food allergic communities are challenging historical and current practice of exclusion while identifying the depth of work that still needs to be done to shift focus from a white allergic experience toward a more representative understanding of the racial ethnic religious and economic diversity of those in the United States Gill s book is a discerning and vital exploration of the key debates about risks dangers safety representations and political concerns affecting the lives of individuals with food allergies Food Industries Hermann Theodore Vulté, Sadie Bird Vanderbilt, 1928 The Delineator , 1927
