Snow,2005-12-16 The introduction of anaesthesia to Victorian Britain marked a defining moment between modern medicine and earlier practices This book uses new information from John Snow s casebooks and London hospital archives to revise many of the existing historical assumptions about the early history of surgical anaesthesia By examining complex patterns of innovation reversals debate and geographical difference Stephanie Snow shows how anaesthesia became established as a routine part of British medicine Design First for 3D Artists Geoffrey Kater,2005-11-30 Working on a project for most 3D artists means hitting the keyboard first without ever touching a pencil But in the world of animation the pencil is revered as the most powerful tool in the animation process because it directly addresses the design aesthetic of an animated project Production design is the process by which an artist establishes the tone for a particular film by offering a unique aesthetic vision that is in support of the story As a 3D artist to overlook design is to overlook the fundamental process that greatly influences not only the film itself but also your contributions as a professional To combine the disciplines of traditional design and 3D animation is a choice that only you can make The result of this choice is a broader artistic skill set that increases your creativity and consequently increases your worth as a professional Plain and simple Design First for 3D Artists is going to teach you easy to use design techniques that will make you a better designer and increase your worth as a 3D artist Sexual Desire Roger Scruton,2015-06-15 A dazzling treatise as erudite and eloquent as Simone de Beauvoir s The Second Sex and considerably more sound in its conclusion TLS When John desires Mary or Mary desires John what does either of them want What is meant by innocence passion love and arousal desire perversion and shame These are just a few of the questions Roger Scruton addresses in this thought provoking intellectual adventure Beginning from purely philosophical premises and ranging over human life art and institutions he surveys the entire field of sexuality equally dissatisfied with puritanism and permissiveness he argues for a radical break with recent theories Upholding traditional morality though in terms that may shock many of its practitioners his argument gravitates to that which is candid serene and consoling in the experience of sexual love Assholes to Angels T.E.

illness and advance care planning (ACP) in patients near end-of-life Lisa Kastbom, 2021-03-23 Previous research has indicated that what constitutes a good death is heterogenic and complex although there are some recurrent themes and similarities regardless individual background factors Studies on advance care planning ACP i e making proactive plans regarding content of care and treatment limitations on nursing home NH patients are rare Positive effects of ACPs are shown but also that these often are lacking The overall aim with this thesis was to explore the perceptions of a good death from the perspective of patients with severe illness and to investigate from different perspectives experiences of ACP in a NH context In paper I patients with cancer in a palliative phase were interviewed on their perceptions of a good death Death was viewed as a process and previous experiences on the death of others influenced their own perceptions A good death was associated with living with the prospect of imminent death preparing oneself and others for one's death and dying comfortably e g without suffering with independence and with social relations intact Some were comforted by their belief that death is predetermined and that after death there is something else Others felt uncomfortable when they viewed death as the end of the existence In paper II nurses and physicians were interviewed on their experiences of the factors that shape the ACP process in NHs Exploration of the patient's preferences regarding content of care and treatment limitations was important as well as integration of the patient's preferences and the views of the family members and staff concerning these questions ACP documentation had to be clear updated and available for staff and the implementation and reevaluation of ACP were also considered important according to the participants Significance of clinicians perceiving beneficence as well as fear of accusations of maleficence were shown to be essential factors to contemplate In a retrospective chart review paper III medical records of 367 deceased NH patients were analysed A high prevalence of ACP was shown using two different definitions of ACP ACP I and ACP II Moreover adherence to the ACP content was strong and positive associations were seen between ACP and variables of the three research aims such as diagnosis dementia physician attendance at NH and end of life EOL care In paper IV family members of deceased NH patients were interviewed on their experiences of ACP in NHs EOL issues were challenging to talk about although the family members appreciated staff raising these questions The patient's preferences were sometimes explicitly or implicitly communicated However in some cases family members had a feeling of the patient's preferences although they had not been clearly communicated Everyday details symbolised staff commitment The family members viewed the nurse as central The physician was described as absent and ACP meetings often went unnoticed Both involvement and lack of involvement could cause the family members feelings of guilt In conclusion we found that what constitutes a good death is highly individual although recurrent themes are seen EOL conversations are important and challenging and need staff training and experience It seems important to support healthcare staff not only to initiate ACP in NH patients but also to involve the patient and family members in the ACP and planning EOL care Making proactive plans regarding content of care including treatment limitations could enable patient autonomy optimise the chances for the patient to experience a good death and enhance for the family members during the dying trajectory and after the patient's death

Becoming Someone New Enoch Lambert, John Schwenkler, 2020-07-17 Suppose you're offered an opportunity to experience something that is unlike anything you have ever encountered but that's all you know aside from the fact that the experience is physically safe and morally acceptable. How do you decide whether to take up the offer? Several philosophers have recently argued that we are in similar situations for more of our decisions than we usually recognize. Are they right? What resources can we draw on to create such situations? Are they enough to satisfy our aims of making the best decisions we can, especially in high stakes situations? This volume brings together philosophers and psychologists to investigate the phenomenon of transformative change and a host of fascinating questions it prompts. Taking their departure from seminal work on transformative choice and experience by L. A. Paul and Edna Ullmann-Margalit, the authors pursue fundamental questions concerning the nature of rationality, the limits of the imagination, and the metaphysics of the self. They also strike out into new areas including value theory, aesthetics, moral and political philosophy. Several chapters present the results of experimental investigation into the psychology of transformation, self-concept, and moral learning. Spiritual Ends Timothy O. Benedict, 2022-12-20 What role does religion play at the end of life in Japan? Spiritual Ends draws on ethnographic fieldwork and interviews to provide an intimate portrayal of how spiritual care is provided to the dying in Japan. Timothy O. Benedict shows how hospice caregivers in Japan are appropriating and reinterpreting global ideas about spirituality and the practice of spiritual care. Benedict relates these findings to a longer story of how Japanese religious groups have pursued vocational roles in medical institutions as a means to demonstrate a so-called healthy role in society. Focusing on how care for the kokoro (heart or mind) is key to the practice of spiritual care, this book enriches conventional understandings of religious identity in Japan while offering a valuable East Asian perspective to global conversations on the ways religion, spirituality, and medicine intersect at death. Timothy Benedict has produced a work brimming with wisdom drawn from his work as a chaplain as well as a broad understanding of the place of religion in the lives of contemporary Japanese people. HELEN HARDACRE, Reischauer Institute Professor of Japanese Religions and Society, Harvard University. Benedict offers a highly original perspective and new insightful material providing a critical approach to the debate about spiritual care and spirituality. ERICA BAFFELLI, Professor of Japanese Studies, University of Manchester. Spiritual Ends reveals an unassuming approach to spiritual care that privileges human connections at life's end. JACQUELINE STONE, author of Right Thoughts at the Last Moment: Buddhism and Deathbed Practices in Early Medieval Japan. A discerning study of pain and comfort at the end of life and a story of the invention of spirituality in Japan which traffics between medical, psychological, and religious thought. AMY B. BOROVY, Professor of East Asian Studies, Princeton University. A Collection of Advice Thaye Dorje, 2019-11-05 Thaye Dorje imparts wisdom in person and through social media.
