Gold Rush in the Jungle Dan Drollette, Jr., 2013-04-16 An engrossing adventure filled account of the rush to discover and save Vietnam's most extraordinary animals. Deep in the jungle where the borders of Vietnam meet those of Laos and Cambodia is a region known as the lost world. Large mammals never seen before by Western science have popped up frequently in these mountains in the last decade including a half goat half ox, a deer that barks and a close relative of the nearly extinct Javan rhino. In an age when scientists are excited by discovering a new kind of tube worm, the thought of finding and naming a new large terrestrial mammal is astonishing and wildlife biologists from all over the world are flocking to this dangerous region. The result is a race between preservation and destruction. Containing research gathered from famous biologists, conservationists, indigenous peoples, former POWs, ex Viet Cong and the first U.S. ambassador to Vietnam since the war's end, Gold Rush in the Jungle goes deep into the valleys, hills and hollows of Vietnam to explore the research, the international trade in endangered species, the lingering effects of Agent Orange and the effort of a handful of biologists to save the world's rarest animals.

Myanmar (Burma) since the 1988 Uprising Andrew Selth, 2022-01-24 Updated by popular demand, this is the fourth edition of this important bibliography. It lists a wide selection of works on or about Myanmar published in English and in hard copy since the 1988 pro democracy uprising which marked the beginning of a new era in Myanmar's modern history. There are now 2,727 titles listed. They have been written, edited, translated or compiled by over 2,000 people from many different backgrounds. These works have been organized into thirty-five subject chapters containing ninety-five discrete sections. There are also four appendices including a comprehensive reading guide for those unfamiliar with Myanmar or who may be seeking guidance on particular topics. This book is an invaluable aid to officials, scholars, journalists, armchair travellers and others with an interest in this fascinating but deeply troubled country.

molecular markers The third chapter provides an overview of ecosystem services delivered by tropical agroforestry systems AFS The chapter reviews practical approaches for trade off analysis between ecosystem services and plant biodiversity for better design or redesign as well as the sustainable management of AFS The final chapter discusses how measuring monitoring and managing the environmental impact of plantation operations are key components in sustainable palm oil production The chapter examines the operational impacts of oil palm cultivation on biodiversity as well as how oil palm production can be balanced to ensure forest conservation
