Machines That Become Us James E. Katz, 2017-07-28 Social critics and artificial intelligence experts have long prophesized that computers and robots would soon relegate humans to the dustbin of history Many among the general population seem to have shared this fear of a dehumanized future But how are people in the twenty first century actually reacting to the ever expanding array of gadgets and networks at their disposal Is computer anxiety a significant problem paralyzing and terrorizing millions or are ever proliferating numbers of gadgets being enthusiastically embraced Machines that Become Us explores the increasingly intimate relationship between people and their personal communication technologies In the first book of its kind internationally recognized scholars from the United States and Europe explore this topic Among the technologies analyzed include the Internet personal digital assistants PDAs mobile phones networked homes smart fabrics and wearable computers interactive location badges and implanted monitoring devices The authors discuss critical policy issues such as the problems of information resource access and equity and the recently discovered digital dropouts phenomena The use of the word become in the book s title has three different meanings The first suggests how people use these technologies to broaden their abilities to communicate and to represent themselves to others. Thus the technologies become extensions and representatives of the communicators. A second sense of become applies to analysis of the way these technologies become physically integrated with the user's clothing and even their bodies. Finally contributors examine fashion aspects and uses of these technologies that is how they are used in ways becoming to the wearer. The conclusions of many chapters are supported by data including ethnographic observations, attitude surveys and case studies from the United States, Britain, France, Italy, Finland and Norway. This approach is especially valuable.

Being with A/r/tography, 2008-01-01. Being with A/r/tography is a collection of essays that explain and exemplify the arts-based research methodology called a/r/tography. Edited by four scholars who are artists, researchers and teachers, a/r/tographers, this book is a methodology book for practitioners in arts-based educational research. In addition to an introductory essay which contextualizes and theorizes the methodological framework of a/r/tography, the book is divided into three main thematic sections that are integral to a/r/tographical research: 1. self study and autobiography, 2. communities of a/r/tographic practice, 3. ethics and activism. The book concludes with a consideration of issues related to assessment validity and interpretation. Being with A/r/tography will be an excellent core text in graduate courses that focus on arts-based educational research as well as a valuable text in pre-service teacher education programs. The book will also be significant for qualitative research courses in all the social sciences and the health sciences including communication studies, nursing, counseling, psychology and arts therapy. The book provides a clear and comprehensive introduction to a/r/tography. Even though a/r/tography as a research methodology is relatively new in the scholarly field, Being with A/r/tography spells out how scholarly practitioners who are artists and researchers and teachers have been pursuing this kind of research for a long time.

Breaking Resemblance, Alena Alexandrova, 2017-05-01. In recent decades, curators and artists have shown a distinct interest in religion, its different traditions, manifestations in public life, gestures and images. Breaking Resemblance explores the complex relationship between contemporary art and religion by focusing on the ways artists rework religious motifs as a means to reflect critically on our desire to believe in images, on the history of seeing them and on their double power: iconic and political. It discusses a number of exhibitions that take religion as their central theme and a selection of works by Bill Viola, Lawrence Malstaf, Victoria Reynolds and Berlinde de Bruyckere, all of whom in their respective ways and media recycle religious motifs and iconography and whose works resonate with or problematize the motif of the true image.
