New Suburbanism: Sustainable Tall Building Development Kheir Al-Kodmany, 2016-04-14 Much of the anticipated future growth in the United States will take place in suburbia The critical challenge is how to accommodate this growth in a sustainable and resilient manner This book explores the role of suburban tall as a viable sustainable alternative to continued suburban sprawl It identifies 10 spatial patterns in which tall buildings have been integrated into the American suburbs The study concludes that the Tall Building and Transit Oriented Development TB TOD model is the most appropriate to promote sustainable suburbanism The findings are based on analyzing over 300 projects in 24 suburban communities within three major metropolitan areas including Washington DC Miami Florida and Chicago Illinois The book furnishes planning strategies that address the social economic and environmental aspects of sustainable tall building development It also discusses sustainable architectural design and site planning strategies and provides case studies of sustainable tall buildings that were successfully integrated into suburban settings

Mexico's Community Forest Enterprises David Barton Bray, 2020-11-24 The road to sustainable forest management and stewardship has been debated for decades Some advocate for governmental control and oversight Some say that the only way to stem the tide of deforestation is to place as many tracts as possible under strict protection Caught in the middle of this debate forest inhabitants of the developing world struggle to balance the extraction of precarious livelihoods from forests while responding to increasing pressures from national governments international institutions and their own perceptions of environmental decline to protect biodiversity restore forests and mitigate climate change Mexico presents a unique case in which much of the nation's forests were placed as commons in the hands of communities who with state support and their own entrepreneurial vigor created community forest enterprises CFEs David Barton Bray who has spent more than thirty years engaged with and researching Mexican community forestry shows that this reform has transformed forest management in that country at a scale and level of maturity unmatched anywhere else in the world For decades Mexico has been conducting a de facto large scale experiment in the design of a national social ecological system SES focused on community forests What happens when you give subsistence communities rights over forests as well as training organizational support equipment and financial capital Do the communities destroy the forest in the name of economic development or do they manage them sustainably generating current income while maintaining intergenerational value as a resource for their children Bray shares the scientific and social evidence that can now begin to answer these questions This is an invaluable resource for students researchers and the interested public on the future of global forest resilience and the possibilities for a good Anthropocene
