Paul McLaughlin

Michael Bakunin Und Die Anarchie:

Mikhail Bakunin Paul McLaughlin, 2002 McLaughlin is concerned not so much with an explication of Bakunin's anarchist position as such as with the basic philosophy which underpins it. He focuses on two central components: a negative dialectic or revolutionary logic and a naturalist ontology, a naturalistic account of the structure of being or reality. Bakunin scholarship, he notes, falls into two camps: Marxist and liberal. Both, he says, tend to be hostile. McLaughlin discredits one by one the analyses published usually as part of a work on Marx et al. by Francis Wheen: schoolboy wit, idiocy of tone, poverty of content. George Lichtheim completely misreads Bakunin and Oxbridge scholar Aileen Kelly's personality assassination is perverse slanderous while upholding Eric Voegelin. Perhaps this book will spark a small revolution of its own. Scholars interested in Bakunin have had few resources available in English and none of them until now presented a credible study of the man's philosophy.

The Trauma of Defeat James Martin Skidmore, 2005 This is the first book-length study to consider Ricarda Huch's historical political thought and assess Huch's place within the lively historiographical discourses of the 1920s. One of the most famous writers of her day, Huch (1864-1947) was known for her poetry, fiction, and histories of German Romanticism and the Thirty Years War. Like many of her generation, Huch was shaken by Germany's defeat in the First World War, and this shock motivated her to use her historiography to address Germany's post-war situation. Convinced that the German nation possessed an identity best expressed by the ideals of Romanticism, Huch attributed Germany's decline to the westernization of German political culture: absolutism and centralization had replaced the theoretical perfection of the decentralized early Holy Roman Empire of the German Nation. Her Weimar histories of medieval and nineteenth-century Germany urged a defeated and traumatized nation to return to a path that had been abandoned during the Wilhelmine Empire. Topics explored include Huch's use of Nietzschean monumentalism, a comparison with popular historians of the period (e.g. E. Kantorowicz), the echoes of her political thought in her poetry and fiction, and her complex relationship to German nationalism.

The Invention of Terrorism in Europe, Russia, and the United States Carola Dietze, 2021-07-27 Terrorism's roots in Western Europe and the USA. This book examines key cases of terrorist violence to show that the invention of terrorism was linked to the birth of modernity in Europe, Russia, and the United States rather than to Tsarist despotism in 19th-century Russia or to Islam sects in Medieval Persia. Combining a highly readable historical narrative with analysis of larger issues in social and political history, the author argues that the dissemination of news about terrorist violence was at the core of a strategy that aimed for political impact on rulers as well as the general public. Dietze's lucid account also reveals how the spread of knowledge about terrorist acts was from the outset a transatlantic process. Two incidents form the book's centerpiece. The first is the failed attempt to assassinate French Emperor Napoleon III by Felice Orsini in 1858 in an act intended to achieve Italian unity and democracy. The second case study offers a new reading of John Brown's raid on the arsenal at Harpers Ferry.
