Michael Drayton Revisited:

Michael Drayton Revisited J. R. Brink, 1990 Sonnet Sequences and Social Distinction in Renaissance England Christopher Warley, 2005-07-28 Why were sonnet sequences popular in Renaissance England In this study Christopher Warley suggests that sonneteers created a vocabulary to describe and to invent new forms of social distinction before an explicit language of social class existed The tensions inherent in the genre between lyric and narrative between sonnet and sequence offered writers a means of reconceptualizing the relation between individuals and society a way to try to come to grips with the broad social transformations taking place at the end of the sixteenth century By stressing the struggle over social classification the book revises studies that have tied the influence of sonnet sequences to either courtly love or to Renaissance individualism Drawing on Marxist aesthetic theory it offers detailed examinations of sequences by Lok Sidney Spenser Shakespeare and Milton It will be valuable to readers interested in Renaissance and genre studies and post Marxist theories of class

Early Modern English Literature and the Poetics of Cartographic Anxiety Chris Barrett, 2018-03-02 The Cartographic Revolution in the Renaissance made maps newly precise newly affordable and newly ubiquitous In sixteenth century Britain cartographic materials went from rarity to household d cor within a single lifetime and they delighted inspired and fascinated people across the socioeconomic spectrum At the same time they also unsettled upset disturbed and sometimes angered their early modern readers Early Modern English Literature and the Poetics of Cartographic Anxiety is the first monograph dedicated to recovering the shadow history of the many anxieties provoked by early modern maps and mapping in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries A product of a military arms race often deployed for security and surveillance purposes and fundamentally distortive of their subjects maps provoked suspicion unease and even hostility in early modern Britain in ways not dissimilar from the anxieties provoked by global positioning enabled digital mapping in the twenty first century At the same time writers saw in the resistance to cartographic logics and strategies the opportunity to rethink the way literature represents space and everything else This volume explores three major poems of the period Edmund Spenser s The Faerie Queene 1590 1596 Michael Drayton s Poly Olbion 1612 1622 and John Milton s Paradise Lost 1667 1674 in terms of their vexed and vexing relationships with cartographic materials and shows how the productive protest staged by these texts redefined concepts of allegory description personification bibliographic materiality narrative temporality analogy and other elemental components of literary representations

Architectonics of Imitation in Spenser, Daniel, and Drayton David Ian Galbraith, 2000-01-01 Exploring the boundaries between poetry and history on three of England s epic literary works Galbraith argues that they enter into a dialogue with classical and contemporary predecessors with implications for understanding the English Renaissance

Epistolary Community in Print, 1580-1664 Diana G. Barnes, 2016-05-13 Epistolary Community in Print contends that the printed letter is an inherently sociable genre ideally suited to the theorisation of community in early modern England In manual prose or poetic form printed letter collections make private matters public and in so doing reveal first how tenuous is the divide between these two realms in the early modern period and second how each collection helps to constitute particular communities of readers Consequently as Epistolary Community details epistolary visions of community were gendered This book provides a genealogy of epistolary discourse beginning with an introductory discussion of Gabriel Harvey and Edmund Spenser's Wise and Wittie Letters 1580 and opening into chapters on six printed letter collections generated at times of political change Among the authors whose letters are examined are Angel Day Michael Drayton Jacques du Bosque and Margaret Cavendish Epistolary Community identifies broad patterns that were taking shape and constantly morphing in English printed letters from 1580 to 1664 and then considers how the six examples of printed letters selected for discussion manipulate this generic tradition to articulate ideas of community under specific historical and political circumstances This study makes a substantial contribution to the rapidly growing field of early modern letters and demonstrates how the field impacts our understanding of political discourses in circulation between 1580 and 1664 early modern women's writing print culture and rhetoric
