New Economy In East Asia And The Pacific:

The New Economy in East Asia and the Pacific Peter Drysdale, 2004-08-02 This book sets out the problems of measuring the effects of technological change on economic progress by using the internet in the Asia Pacific region as a case study Corporate and industry experience including changing business organization and new regulatory issues are explored as well as policy issues such as the digital divide and the approach to e commerce in the WTO Using several industry case studies the contributors compare the IT experience in North America with a number of countries in Asia and the Pacific

The New Economy in East Asia and the Pacific Peter Drysdale, 2004-08-02 This title looks at the experience with the new economy in North America It sets out the problems of measuring the effects of technological change on economic progress

Human Capital Formation and Economic Growth in Asia and the Pacific Wendy Dobson, 2013-07-18 The entire planet looks to Asian and other emerging markets to sustain growth momentum as traditional markets in the USA and Europe struggle with the slow and arduous processes of deleveraging after the global financial crisis At the same time there is growing recognition in Asia that the sources of growth must shift to sustain their own growth momentum in the years ahead Heavy reliance on the region's high savings rates and plentiful supplies of low cost labour will have to shift towards increasing the human capital embodied in more educated and skilled labour forces capable of contributing to productivity growth and innovation as future drivers of growth Human Capital Formation and Economic Growth in Asia and the Pacific focuses on why and how countries are making this shift The demographic transition is shown to be a significant factor as ageing populations in Japan South Korea and China manage declining growth in the labour force by stepping up investments in education and by changing policies and institutions Lessons to be learned from these experiences by more youthful populations in Southeast Asia are explored In addition attention is paid to the consequences of cross border differentials in technical knowledge and the quantity and quality of human capital Several implications for public policy and for international cooperation on human capital issues in the Asian region are identified The chapters in this volume are edited versions of papers presented at the 35th Pacific Trade and Development conference held in Vancouver Canada in June 2012 The conference goal was to better understand how governments and business in Asia and the Pacific can apply the key insight that one of the reasons economies grow is because of human capital formation the quality and diversity of the labour force are augmented not just because the labour force grows in size Students of Asia's growth prospects will find several aspects of this volume of particular value It includes chapters on the big picture conceptual and measurement issues on country experiences in meeting the imperatives of the demographic transition and investing in education and skills training and on country experiences with attracting foreign knowledge and the supply and recruitment of skills across borders in Asia and the Pacific Policymakers will also find useful the discussions of policy implications and the menu of issues requiring intergovernmental cooperation within the Asian region

The Politics of the Asia-Pacific Mark S. Williams, 2022-01-10 This book introduces readers to the deep political tensions in the Asia Pacific and offers classroom simulations designed to encourage students to delve deeper into the issues and dynamics of the region

The Politics and the Economics of Integration in Asia and the Pacific Shiro Armstrong, 2011-11-03 The shape of economic integration in the global and regional economies and the extent to which goods services and factors of production move more or less freely across borders depends not only upon underlying economic conditions but also upon politics Whether integration is market led as has been the case in Asia or institution led as in Europe there are political elements that affect all forms of regional and international economic integration While geopolitics influences international economic integration so too does domestic politics Economic integration in Asia has been driven by rapid unilateral trade and investment liberalization and while trade and investment patterns have been determined largely by comparative advantage political forces have also affected patterns of economic interdependence The form that regional institutions take and their effectiveness also depends on political relations between countries The particular circumstances in Asia and the relationships between regional economies has profoundly shaped regional institutions and will continue to do so The chapters in this volume draw on papers originally presented to the 33rd Pacific Trade and Development Conference held in Taipei in 2009 to look in original ways at how politics shape economic integration and its various dimensions in Asia and the Pacific and globally

Multinational Corporations and the Emerging Network Economy in Asia and the Pacific Juan J. Palacios, 2008-03-25 Multinational Corporations and the Emerging Network Economy in Asia and the Pacific delves into the ongoing rise of a global economy anchored in a web of inter firm production networks and the role played by multinational corporations in the process It considers the strategies and business models corporations have adopted lately to face today's highly competitive global markets especially outsourcing and offshoring focusing on the modalities observed in Asia Pacific and the Pacific Rim at large Since their inception corporations have undergone a series of fundamental changes each has corresponded to a given era of industrial development and has given rise to a particular type of government policy response The book addresses these timely issues and other such as the transformation of global production networks into global innovation networks the link between corporate and national innovation strategies and movement up the global production value chain and the fragmentation of production and the resulting increase in component and sub assembly trade in the region It also takes up the emergence of multinational corporations from developing countries and the efforts aimed at forging basic rules of corporate social responsibility and developing sound institutions for building a working framework of corporate governance in the Pacific Written by some of the region's most eminent and influential economists and political scientists this volume will appeal to students and scholars working in the field of Asia Pacific studies as well as to businesspersons and policymakers taking decisions in the region

Financial Development and Cooperation in Asia and the Pacific Edward K. Y. Chen, Wendy Dobson, 2014-11-13 The 1997 Asian financial crisis exposed weaknesses in the region's national financial systems but since then East Asia has become the world's most dynamic economic region Domestic financial systems have developed cross border financial flows within the region are growing apace as demand from governments and large firms increases and as the capabilities of financial institutions develop and governments have initiated regional cooperation aimed at preventing future crises and managing them if they occur This book examines the economies of Asia and the Pacific with reference to financial reform and liberalization monetary policy frameworks banking and capital markets regulation and supervision and macroeconomic policies Further it asks what lessons have been learned from both the Asian financial crisis and the recent financial crisis how to engender financial stability in the region and how to ensure that the benefits of economic growth and financial development reach all members of society Across four key sections the chapters examine the future implications of historical studies of the relationships between financial development and growth financial development including banks non bank financial institutions and capital markets how financial stability is being sought in the region and China's plans for capital account opening and renminbi internationalization and subsequent the policy implications for China's neighbours This book draws on papers originally presented to the 36th Pacific Trade and Development Conference held in Hong Kong in 2013 and features contributions from leading academics and economists from around the world As such it will be of great interest to students and scholars of Asian economics Asia Pacific studies international economics and international finance

Reshaping the Asia Pacific Economic Order Christopher Findlay, Hadi Soesastro, 2004-08-02 This discussion directs attention to the fact that economic cooperation and security are complementary Asia-Pacific Economic and Security Co-operation C. Dent, 2003-10-24 This collection examines new developments in economic and security co operation in the Asia Pacific in relation to two recent shock events that have significantly impacted upon the region these being the 1997-98 East Asian financial crisis and the September 11 attacks on the United States These are examined through three prime dimensions of analysis namely the tension between the post shock forces of imperative co operation and the counter forces of Asia Pacific complex diversity the growing conflation between economic and security issues or the economics security nexus in Asia Pacific international relations the relationship between the Asia Pacific's new economic and security bilateralism and regional level forms of co operation integration and governance East Asia Pacific at Work World Bank, 2014-05-07 The unprecedented progress of East Asia Pacific is a triumph of working people Countries that were low income a generation ago successfully integrated into the global value chain exploiting their labor cost advantage In 1990 the region held about a third of the world's labor force Leveraging this comparative advantage the share of global GDP of emerging economies in East Asia Pacific grew from 7 percent in 1992 to 17 percent in 2011 Yet the region now finds itself at a critical juncture Work and its contribution to growth and well being can no longer be taken for granted The challenges range from high youth inactivity and rising inequality to binding skills shortages A key underlying issue is economic informality which constrains innovation and productivity limits the tax base and increases household vulnerability to shocks Informality is both a consequence of stringent labor regulations and limited enforcement capacity In several countries de jure employment regulations are more stringent than in many parts of Europe Even labor regulations set at reasonable levels but poorly implemented can aggravate the market failures they were designed to overcome This report argues that the appropriate policy responses are to ensure macroeconomic stability and in particular a regulatory framework that encourages small and medium sized enterprises where most people in the region work Mainly agrarian countries should focus on raising agricultural productivity In urbanizing countries good urban planning becomes critical Pacific island countries will need to provide youth with human capital needed to succeed abroad as migrant workers And across the region it is critical to formalize more work to increase the coverage of essential social protection and to sustain productivity To this end policies should encourage mobility of labor and human capital and not favor some forms of employment for instance full time wage employment in manufacturing over others either implicitly or explicitly Policies to increase growth and well being from employment should instead reflect and support the dynamism and diversity of work forms across the region
