Peasant Cotton Revolution In West Africa Côte d'Ivoire 1880 1995:

The Peasant Cotton Revolution in West Africa Thomas J. Bassett, 2006-03-30 The literature of Africa is dominated by accounts of crisis and gloom But Thomas Bassett a distinguished American geographer well known in the field of development tells an unusual story of the growth of the cotton economy of West Africa One of the few long running success stories in African development change was brought about by tens of thousands of small scale peasant farmers While the introduction of new strains of cotton in French West Africa was in part a result of agronomic research by French scientists supported by an unusually efficient marketing structure this is not a case of triumphant top down planification Employing the case of Côte d'Ivoire Professor Bassett shows agricultural intensification to result from the cumulative effect of decades of incremental changes in farming techniques and social organization A significant contribution to the literature the book demonstrates the need to consider the local and temporal dimensions of agricultural innovations It brings into question many key assumptions that have influenced development policies during the twentieth century International Statebuilding in West Africa Abu Bakarr Bah, Nikolas Emmanuel, 2024-08-06 At the turn of the twenty first century manipulation of the democratic process coupled with preexisting political and economic grievances led to years long civil wars in Sierra Leone Liberia and Côte d'Ivoire During and after these conflicts international peacekeeping efforts and humanitarian intervention became the dominant paths for restoring stability by rebuilding the state Using these three countries as case studies this manuscript sheds light on internationally driven state building in war torn West African nations the problematic nature of the postcolonial state and the difficulties of securing its people's wellbeing Connecting peace and conflict democracy and international development studies Bah and Emmanuel argue that there is a clear nexus between the concepts and practices of peace building and statebuilding that peace building and statebuilding are not domestic matters alone but also matters of global intervention and that civil wars can be viewed as opportunities for state building through creative postwar partnerships and organization This study goes beyond the familiar concepts of failed states R2P peacekeeping and peace mediation and introduces and enhances the concepts of state decay new humanitarianism people centered liberalism and institutional design In doing so it provides critical lessons that local and international actors can draw on as they try to figure out practical solutions to the political economic and social problems that impede the development of peaceful and democratic multiethnic postcolonial states in Africa and beyond Applying comparative historical methods and theory to archival materials and expert interviews International Statebuilding in West Africa seeks to shift the discourse on civil wars from their causes and implications to the opportunities they provide to rework failed states and to shift the discourse on African states from their colonial and neocolonial legacies to their shared moral and security interests with the rest of the world Le coton des paysans Thomas J. Bassett, 2002 Les tudes sur le d veloppement rural en Afrique sont maill es de r cits d chec de d senchantement et de crise Pourtant la culture du coton est reconnue comme une r ussite Selon une explication r pandue elle serait le résultat d'un développement dirigé d'une série d'innovations techniques apportées de l'extérieur les paysans n'en seraient que les simples exécutants L'ouvrage propose une autre lecture de cette révolution agricole qui souligne au contraire le rôle actif des paysans

The Banana Tree at the Gate Michael Dove, 2011-01-01 The Hikayat Banjar a seventeenth century native court chronicle from Southeast Borneo characterizes the irresistibility of natural resource wealth to outsiders as the banana tree at the gate Michael R Dove employs this phrase as a root metaphor to frame the history of resource relations between the indigenous peoples of Borneo and the world system standing on its head the prevailing view of resource poor and economically marginal tropical forest dwellers In analyzing production and trade in forest products pepper and especially natural rubber Dove shows that the involvement of Borneo's native peoples in commodity production for global markets is ancient and highly successful This success is based on the development of a dual household economy with distinct subsistence and market oriented sectors which has historically made these smallholders extremely competitive with the large scale heavily capitalized state supported plantation sector Dove sheds new light on the nature of smallholders and in particular their relationship with the global economic system He demonstrates that processes of globalization began millennia ago and that they have been more diverse and less teleological than often thought His analysis replaces the image of the isolated tropical forest community that needs to be helped into the global system with the reality of communities that have been so successful and competitive that they have had to fight political elites to keep from being forced out The ubiquitous but historically inaccurate emphasis on isolation and resource poverty disguises that the overweening characteristic of these communities is their political marginality and that their greatest want is not to be uplifted economically but to be empowered politically

Our Earth's Changing Land [2 Volumes] Helmut Geist, 2006 Scientists predict that the environment over the next 100 years will be threatened by severe challenges the loss of biodiversity expected changes in world wide climate and decreasing amounts of arable land and potable water for an exploding human population All of these will greatly impact how the earth will be able to support life in the future And at the center of these global environmental changes are developments in land use Over the last 300 years and in particular the last 50 years the earth's land has been altered drastically as a result of increasing industrialization and urbanization worldwide as well as by changes in agricultural techniques in lands under cultivation These developments raise troubling questions about our future How will these changes affect the sustainability of certain types of land use How will they impinge upon critical regions like rainforests and deserts Will the earth be able to provide for the basic human needs of food shelter and water The Earth's Changing Land An Encyclopedia of Land Use and Land Cover Change is an A to Z encyclopedia that addresses all aspects of the science of land use change Evidence of land use and land cover change over the last 300 years and how these changes impact the lives of people today Discussions of the models and techniques that scientists use to determine how and how fast the earth is changing Entries on the scientists and organizations who study these developments and who attempt to predict what will happen to the earth in the future Discussions of policies and measures that can be implemented on a local level that will allow a sensible balance between sustainability and development Written by leading scientists who have spent years studying the phenomena the encyclopedia hopes to provide a strong foundation for understanding current controversies and is written on a level that is understandable to scientists and other interested readers alike Global Land Project ,2005
