Reframing Educational Research Valerie Farnsworth, Yvette Solomon, 2013-06-07 Possibilities for the use of research in educational practice are often written off due to the history politics and interests of the ostensibly separate worlds that researchers and practitioners occupy However a more optimistic account highlights the ways these communities share a common need for practice based theories which enable them to make sense of a wide range of issues in education including pedagogy learning and educational equity In applying theory to situated accounts of various educational practices and learning contexts this book explores mistaken assumptions about the ways that research can inform or otherwise impact practice It problematises a what works agenda but also points to potentially more productive research practice relationships in education Experienced contributors describe how they have used a variety of context sensitive theoretical approaches in the socio cultural and discursive traditions to both understand practice and address a wide range of practical issues in education At its core Reframing Educational Research challenges two commonly held assumptions that best practice is readily identifiable in a way that is then transferrable to new contexts for use by practitioners more widely and that theory will not help with what to do on Monday morning in the classroom or in developing policies with direct and visible impact Drawing on the experience of a number of highly respected expert contributors including Mel Ainscow Harry Daniels Anna Sfard and Etienne Wenger Trayner the book discusses a range of issues that must be explicitly addressed if we are to make headway in developing a sustainable and productive relationship between research policy and practice The authors make it clear that the politics policies institutional practices market systems and social dynamics currently at play in education have a tendency to derail the idealised pathway from research to reform This book aims to move the discussion towards alternative and potentially more fruitful ways of linking research with practice Reframing Educational Research is an invitation to all researchers to identify new opportunities for advancing theory and practice in education It is a must read for all practitioners and researchers in education

Teachers at the Table Annalee G. Good, 2018-10-25 Teachers at the Table is based on the simple premise that policy matters in education and teachers matter to policy Policy reflects and shapes society s beliefs about schools teachers children learning and society as well as the power structures embedded in our communities and decision making processes If policy is a public response to perceived social problems it matters who is at the table when the problems are defined the agendas set and the policy itself designed Although teachers may be central to the implementation of education policy they are marginal to the design of it especially around issues of teaching and learning In short teachers are not at the table This is important because the lack of teacher voice in educational policymaking disconnects the goals and design of education policy from the actual lived challenges of implementing it This book draws on a qualitative case study with both practicing and pre service teachers involved in a policy advocacy professional development program Findings from the study illustrate norms and routines the nature of teachers work hierarchy of authority and professional status that act as barriers to teacher involvement in policy creation The book then follows with clear examples of teacher pushback against these same norms and details the conditions under which teachers can interact in authentic ways with decision making structures in schools and policy Teachers at the Table is a unique examination into these dynamics informing the critical efforts of teacher leaders to participate in educational policy creation and helps us to understand and more importantly act upon the structures around teachers to better support their involvement in policymaking with the ultimate goal of producing better educational policy that is more relevant and responsive to the youth educators families and communities it serves Care & Advocacy Jo
