

11+ Verbal Reasoning: Reading Information

In these questions you need to read the information you are given carefully. After you have read the information given you will then need to determine which of the statements is true.

11+

Joe is older than Sam and John. Maria is younger than John. Maria is older than John. Which of the statements below is correct?

Joe is the youngest.
John is the eldest.
Maria is older than John and Joe.
Joe is older than Maria.

First, we need to read the information carefully. The first piece of information we are given is that John is three years older than Sam. From this, we cannot rule out any of the statements below.

We then find out that Maria is older than John. Reading both of these pieces of information, we can now rule out the first, second and third options as we now know that Maria isn't the youngest, John is not the eldest, and that Joe is not older than Maria.

We can use the remaining information to check statement number three to check that this one is true. We already know that Joe is younger than John and the information that Maria is younger than John but older than John means she will also be older than Joe, and that the statement Maria is older than John and Joe is correct.

1. It takes twenty twenty minutes to walk to school and it takes twenty half that time. It takes thirty three times the amount of time that it takes twenty to walk to school and takes fifty a quarter of the time it takes thirty to get there.
