Reading Strategies: Making Connections

Making Connections

Good readers relate what they read to other experiences and knowledge.

There are three types of connections:

- Text-to-Self -- connections between the text and the reader's life and experiences
- Text-to-Text -- connections between the text and other books, movies, songs, articles
- Text-to-World -- connections between the text and events in the real world and history

Directions: Record the connection you made while reading. Be sure to include the page or paragraph number.

Types of Connections	Connections I made
Text-to-Self  This reminds me of when I ... I can connect to the book because ... I connected to this when ...
Text-to-Text  This reminds me of another book I read because ... This part makes me think of ... This is similar to ...
Text-to-World  This makes me think about ... This part makes me remember ... This is like ...

Closing the achievement gap the impact of standards-based education reform on student performance : draft report for commissioners' review. ,2004 Leveled Reading, Leveled Lives Timothy Shanahan,2025-07-28 An engaging and evidence based examination of how reading instruction has been misinterpreted and misapplied for decades and how to right the course to improve reading skills for all students In Leveled Reading Leveled Lives leading literacy expert Timothy Shanahan curates a lively tour of the history of reading instruction in the United States arguing that the most popular reading instruction method is failing students and suppressing their literacy achievement He breaks down the reasons why teachers and researchers alike have favored this accepted wisdom known as instructional level theory in US schools over the past five decades and presents a compelling case for a new way forward that will bolster students reading skills Today it s not uncommon to find students in a fourth grade classroom reading books suitable for third second or even first graders Teachers suggest books to students at their deemed instructional levels but how these instructional levels are determined is suspect With a comprehensive critical analysis of instructional level pedagogy Shanahan exposes its shaky foundations and shows how faulty research findings have become so entrenched He gathers an extensive body of research studies that overwhelmingly contradict the instructional level theory and offers an evidence based consideration of how educators must instead use grade level reading to bring about maximum learning gains This seminal book concludes with practical advice for implementing grade level reading instruction including detailed descriptions of the types of instruction and scaffolding needed to increase students reading achievement from teaching decoding and challenging texts to scaffolding reading to maintaining motivation Shanahan asserts that a better approach can ensure that all students have an opportunity to leave high school with reading abilities commensurate with their personal social civic and economic goals

Reading Time

Catherine Compton-Lilly,2015-04-24 While teachers cannot travel back in time to visit their students at earlier ages they can draw on the rich sets of experiences and knowledge that students bring to classrooms In her latest book Catherine Compton

Lilly examines the literacy practices and school trajectories of eight middle school students and their families Through a unique longitudinal lens the author has studied these same students from first grade we see how students from a low income inner city community grow and develop academically revealing critical insights for teachers about literacy development identity construction and school achievement Based on interviews reading assessments and writing samples Reading Timeadvocates for educators to Provide opportunities for students to develop long term relationships with teachers and administrators Allow children and parents to share their stories to identify obstacles that students encounter as they move through school Collaborate and learn from students former teachers as well as inform their future teachers Develop portfolio systems and longitudinal records that highlight children s emerging interests abilities and potential for the future Catherine Compton Lilly is an associate professor in Curriculum and Instruction at the University of Wisconsin Madison She has taught in the public school system for 18 years Her books include Reading Families Re reading Families and Bedtime Stories and Book Reports The analysis here runs deeper than other contemporary critiques of accountability regimes and standardization inviting us instead to consider how time schooling and literacy have always been co constructed Reading Time features compelling examples of literacy practices that traverse generations which could only be understood through interviews and observations extending over time Kevin Leander Vanderbilt University
