Davies, 2022-04-11 This survey of the rise and decline of English watchmaking fills a gap in the historiography of British industry Clerkenwell in London was supplied with rough movements from Prescot 200 miles away in Lancashire Smaller watchmaking hubs later emerged in Coventry Liverpool and Birmingham The English industry led European watchmaking in the late eighteenth century in output and its lucrative export markets extended to the Ottoman Empire and China It also made marine chronometers the most complex of hand crafted pre industrial mechanisms crucially important to the later hegemony of Britain's navy and merchant marine Although Britain was the workshop of the world its watchmaking industry declined Why First because cheap Swiss watches were smuggled into British markets Later in the era of Free Trade they were joined by machine made watches from factories in America enabled by the successful application to watch production of the American system in Waltham Massachusetts after 1858 The Swiss watch industry adapted itself appropriately expanded and reasserted its lead in the world's markets English watchmaking did not its trajectory foreshadowed and was later followed by other once prominent British industries Clerkenwell retained its pre industrial production methods Other modernization attempts in Britain had limited success or failed Bulletin of the National Association of Watch and Clock Collectors, 1982 Products, Users, and Popular Luxury in Early Modern Greece Artemis Yagou, 2024-08-05 This book analyses aspects of the material culture of early modern Greece from an object based perspective using surviving artefacts from that period as primary sources A printed book a wine jug an ecclesiastical embroidery and a pocket watch are used as entry points to examine the consumer practices of the emerging Greek bourgeoisie under Ottoman rule in the long eighteenth century The acquisition and usage of novel products especially imported ones by Greeks was connected to personal expression identity building and self determination in the context of the Enlightenment The enjoyment of innovative artefacts opened new horizons to them and facilitated their individual and collective empowerment The originality of the book lies in its eclectic and interdisciplinary approach towards early modern Greek material culture an under researched topic The study is embedded within contemporary discourses on transnational trade the materiality of everyday life pleasurable consumption and the negotiation of identities This volume will appeal to students and scholars of early modern and modern Greek history Ottoman history European history material culture history of technology museum studies and cultural heritage studies as well as museum professionals collectors and the wider educated public From Maps to Metaphors Robin Fisher, Hugh J.
