The Law and Economics of Globalisation Linda Y. Yueh, 2009-01-01 The diversity of author backgrounds coupled an assortment of provocative insights makes this book a useful tool for delving into the meat of globalization providing a succinct but authoritative overview of the underpinnings necessary to appreciate the who what where and when of globalization American Society of International Law This is a fascinating and insightful set of essays the relevance of which has only increased with the financial and economic crisis The ideas and basic positions of the authors range wide but that is exactly what we require as we struggle to understand twenty first century globalisation and what to do about it I should like to see it in the hands of all academics and policy makers working on global affairs Alan Winters University of Sussex Chief Economist UK Department for International Development and Former Head of Research the World Bank This inter disciplinary volume focuses on the economic and legal challenges confronting globalisation and the evolution of the global system The Law and Economics of Globalisation discusses the hotly debated topic of globalisation from a wide set of perspectives of law economics and international political economy The authors shed new light on the legal economic and institutional issues raised by globalisation extending into areas previously considered as national issues They discuss how the development of the norms institutions and reach of the global system will be influenced by the domestic and international concerns arising from the increasing integration of countries in the new century. With contributions from lawyers, economists and other experts in the field, this book will be welcomed by academics, students, researchers and policymakers who are interested in a comprehensive volume on economic globalisation. It will also appeal to a wider audience such as executive education courses as well as business and law schools.

An Institutional And Normative Analysis of the World Trade Organization Mary E. Footer, 2006. This book establishes a framework for analysis of the institutional and normative character of the WTO by locating the organization in a broader theory of international institutional law and in determining the basis for the conferral and exercise of powers in relation to its executive, legislative and adjudicative functions. The WTO is also read as an international regime in order to go beyond its formal legal and constitutional bases and to observe the Members' practice in the context of the former semi-institutionalised GATT treaty regime with which it retains strong links. WTO decision making which underpins and informs its institutional and normative acts is analysed in order to better understand the dynamics of the organization. Normative developments in the WTO are reviewed from the perspective of the creation, maintenance and revision of legally binding and non-binding or soft law norms in the sense of principles, rules and standards contained in primary treaty rules which set out the rights and obligations of the Members and subsidiary rule making activity by WTO bodies. Economic Development and Multilateral Trade Cooperation Bernard M. Hoekman, Simon J. Evenett, 2005-12-01. How can international trade agreements promote development and how can rules be designed to benefit poor countries? Can multilateral trade cooperation in the World Trade Organization (WTO) help developing countries create and strengthen institutions and regulatory regimes that will enhance the gains from trade and integration into the global economy? And should this even be done? These are questions that confront policy makers and citizens in both rich and poor countries and they are the subject of Economic Development and Multilateral Trade Cooperation. This book analyzes how the trading system could be made more supportive of economic development without eroding the core WTO functions. Crafting a Global Trade Strategy: the U.S. and the WTO,

International Economic Law in the 21st Century Ernst-Ulrich Petersmann, 2012-07-24. The state-centred Westphalian model of international law has failed to protect human rights and other international public goods effectively. Most international trade, financial and environmental agreements do not even refer to human rights, consumer welfare, democratic citizen participation and transnational rule of law for the benefit of citizens. This book argues that these multilevel governance failures are largely due to inadequate regulation of the collective action problems in the supply of international public goods such as inadequate legal, judicial and democratic accountability of governments vis-à-vis citizens. Rather than treating citizens as mere objects of intergovernmental economic and environmental regulation and leaving multilevel governance of international public goods to discretionary foreign policy, human rights and constitutional democracy call for civilizing and constitutionalizing international economic and environmental cooperation by stronger legal and judicial protection of citizens and their constitutional rights in international economic law Moreover intergovernmental regulation of transnational cooperation among citizens must be justified by principles of justice and multilevel constitutional restraints protecting rights of citizens and their public reason The reality of constitutional pluralism requires respecting legitimately diverse conceptions of human rights and democratic constitutionalism The obvious failures in the governance of interrelated trading financial and environmental systems must be restrained by cosmopolitan constitutional conceptions of international law protecting the transnational rule of law and participatory democracy for the benefit of citizens S. 2467, GATT

Implementing Legislation United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation, 1994

Constitutionalism, Multilevel Trade Governance and Social Regulation Christian Joerges, Ernst-Ulrich Petersmann, 2006-10-19 This is a book about the ever more complex legal networks of transnational economic governance structures and their legitimacy problems It takes up the challenge of the editors earlier pioneering works which have called for more cross sectoral and interdisciplinary analyses by scholars of international law European and international economic law private international law international relations theory and social philosophy to examine the interdependences of multilevel governance in transnational economic social environmental and legal relations Two complementary strands of theorising are expounded One argues that globalisation and the universal recognition of human rights are transforming the intergovernmental society of states into a cosmopolitan community of citizens which requires more effective constitutional safeguards for protecting human rights and consumer welfare in the national and international governance and legal regulation of international trade The second emphasises the dependence of the functioning of international markets and liberal trade on governance arrangements which respond credibly to safety and environmental concerns of consumers traders political and non governmental actors Enquiries into the generation of international standards and empirical analyses of legalization and judicialisation practices form part of this agenda The perspectives and conclusions of the more than 20 contributors from Europe and North America cannot be uniform But they converge in their search for a constitutional architecture which limits empowers and legitimises multilevel trade governance as well as in their common premise that respect for human rights private and democratic self government and social justice require more transparent participatory and deliberative forms of transnational cosmopolitan democracy Reshaping the World Trading System John

Croome, 1996-06 Tracing the history and evolution of the Uruguay Round this book seeks to explain how it came about why it covered the subjects it did what the participants sought the twists turns setbacks successes in each sector of the negotiations
