occurrence in creating a complex event that on the one hand accelerated trends and tendencies that were already in motion and on the other produced an entirely new social space based on social separation and the raise of a widespread marginal class. Such a class developed within urban borders and spaces that over the decades grew according to the same logic and directions that followed the reconstruction. Especially the shacks still a visible presence in the city represent the lieu of reproduction both of a class and the whole of the social relations stemming from the disaster. It shows how key concepts in contemporary scientific analysis such as shock economy and economy of disaster can be aptly backdated. Above all this study broadens the normal analyses of disasters by showing the stratification of institutional techniques and economic forces that over the decades intervened and re shaped the site of a disaster and its social structure.

Seductions of Place Carolyn L. Cartier, Alan A. Lew, 2005. The seductiveness of touristed landscapes is simultaneously local and global as travelled places are formed and reworked by the activities of diverse mobile people in their desires to experience situated sensuous qualities of difference. Cartier and Lew's interesting and informative book explores contemporary issues in travel and tourism and human geography and the complex cultural political and economic activities at stake in touristed landscapes as a result of globalization. This book assesses travel and tourism as simultaneously cultural and economic processes through ideas about place seduction and the formation of landscapes. Throughout examples are given from urban and environmental touristed landscapes from major world cities to tropical islands and chapter contributions include an analysis of the representational character of landscape and the built environment, historic constructions of place seduction, the importance of class, racial and gender dimensions of place, how mobility and the seduction of place orient identity formation, the environmental impacts of tourism economies. Broad in scope, this book is ideal for social scientists and humanists who are interested in contemporary debates about place studies, mobility and the located realities of globalization.

Technologies of InSecurity Katja Franko Aas, Helene Oppen Gundhus, Heidi Mork Lomell, 2008-08-21. Technologies of Insecurity examines how general social and political concerns about terrorism, crime, migration and globalization are translated into concrete practices of securitisation of everyday life. Who are we afraid of in a globalizing world? How are issues of safety and security constructed and addressed by various local actors and embodied in a variety of surveillance systems? Examining how various forms of contemporary insecurity are translated into and reduced to issues of surveillance and social control, this book explores a variety of practical and cultural aspects of technological control as well as the discourses about safety and security surrounding them. Insecurity is a politically and socially constructed phenomenon with a variety of meanings and modalities. And exploring the inherent duality and dialectics between our striving for security and the simultaneous production of insecurity, Technologies of Insecurity considers how mundane objects and activities are becoming bearers of risks which need to be neutralised. As ordinary arenas such as the workplace, the city centre, the football stadium, the airport and the internet are imbued with various notions of risk and danger and subject to changing public attitudes and sensibilities, the critical deconstruction of the nexus between everyday surveillance and in security pursued here provides important new insights about how broader political issues are translated into concrete and local practices of social control and exclusion
