Masquerade and Femininity Urszula Chowaniec, Ursula Phillips, Marja Rytönen, 2009-03-26 Masquerade and Femininity Essays on Russian and Polish Women Writers introduces the reader to the diversity of women's writing in Poland and Russia in the 19th and 20th centuries in the light of the notion of masquerade. The present articles scrutinize particular works by women writers: Nadezhda Dmitrievna Khvoshchinskaya, Irina Odoevtseva, Vera Pavlova, Narcyza Michowska, Maria Komornicka, Irena Krzywicka and others, and the strategies of masquerading female experience. Taken together, the articles draw attention to the feeling of an inexpressible gap between the living body and its everyday life, experience of pain and suffering or happiness and pleasure, and the culturally constructed, powerfully imposed code of expression that readily makes use of various masks, guises, and acts of pretending, applied especially cleverly in literary works. The concept of masquerade illuminates the complexity of what we call femininity by combining two sides of the divide: the real feelings and the constructed expressions. This volume uses both feminist and non-feminist approaches to women's writing and sheds new light on the themes of femininity, woman's identity, experience, masks, body, gender, relations, nature, culture, and authorship. Masquerade and Femininity brings together East European literary studies and gender studies, offering a comparative perspective on literature, literary theory, and cultural phenomena in Poland and Russia, and featuring a range of both eastern European and western scholars. In its pages, the reader is invited to move beyond Russian literature and language into a dialogic approach between Slavic literatures. This book will also contribute to filling the comparative gap, which is still relatively unexplored, not only with regard to the application of western scholarship to East European studies but also with regard to the dialogue between Russian and Polish scholarship.

Men of Their Words Nigel Harkness, 2017-12-02 Whereas the centrality of femininity to nineteenth-century French fiction has been the focus of widespread critical attention, masculinity has until recently received little sustained treatment in either the literary or socio-historical domains. In this book, Nigel Harkness uses the fiction of George Sand (1804-1876), the pre-eminent woman writer of the period, to explore questions of masculinity as they pertain to the nineteenth-century French novel and to map out new approaches to the study of literary masculinity. Drawing on contemporary theories of gender and narrative, Harkness reveals how Sand's novels repeatedly focus on a nexus of language, masculinity, and power, in which narrative is both a vehicle for the expression of manhood and a site where masculinity is discursively performed. Masculinity is thus reconfigured in Sand's fiction as an identity constituted as much through words as through actions. Analysis of the performances of masculinity staged in Sand's novels opens onto an exploration of gendered processes of literary representation, the links between masculinity and the doxa, the equation of writing and power, the homosocial function of acts of narration, and the masculinity of authorship and authority.

The

Maternal Voice in Victorian Fiction Barbara Z. Thaden, 2013-10-28 This is the first full length study to focus specifically on representations of motherhood in fiction by such Victorian writers as Elizabeth Gaskell Margaret Oliphant Caroline Norton and Ellen Price Wood These authors presented an idealized view of motherhood as part of a campaign to gain social and legal status for mothering in a society in which married women were not legal entities and children born in wedlock were the inalienable property of their fathers These writers used dead mother plots which reversed New Testament parables so that the mother plays the leading role and maternal circle plots which portray adult daughters and their mothers raising children outside marriage This fiction which showed how children benefit from good mothering was instrumental in married mothers eventually obtaining equal parental rights The Atlantic Monthly, 1892 Atlantic Monthly, 1892 Women in Modern Burma Tharaphi Than, 2013-11-07 This book challenges the popular notion that Burmese women are powerful and are granted equal rights as men by society Throughout history Burmese women have been represented as powerful and as having equal status to men by western travellers and scholars alike National history about women also follows this conjecture This book explains why actually very few powerful Burmese women exist and how these few women help construct the notion of the high status of Burmese women thereby inevitably silencing the majority of unequal and disempowered women One of the underlying questions throughout this book is why a few powerful women feel compelled to defend the notion that women hold privileged positions in Burmese society Combining historical archives with statistical data published by UN agencies this book highlights the reality of women's status in modern Burma Case studies include why the first Burmese women's army was disbanded a few months after its establishment how women writers assessed the conditions of Burmese women and represented their contemporaries in their works the current state of prostitution how modern day sex workers are trying to find their voice and how women fared vis vis men in education

Displaced Women Lucia Aiello, Joy Charnley, Mariangela Palladino, 2014-03-17 The essays included in this volume mostly originate from the conference organised by the editors at Glasgow Women's Library in March 2012 Language multilingual narratives and interaction between cultures and languages were key themes of the conference Interdisciplinary and international the conference like this edited volume brought together specialists working in a range of fields and provided an opportunity for exchanges between historians sociologists scientists and literary scholars as well as between theoreticians and practitioners academics and non academics In spite of these many different approaches all the papers presented here transcend the idea of national identity as an epic heritage or destiny both linguistic and literary and suggest a much more fluid definition of citizenship Working from this perspective and within this general framework both the editors and the contributors of this volume encourage a broader discussion on women's narratives of displacement that compels us to rethink the notions of mother tongue and native speaker and raises philosophical questions about linguistic ownership in other words whether a language is owned appropriated imposed or rejected and how women experience and express their sense of permanent strangeness

English Literary Sexology H.

Bauer,2009-04-30 It is well known that much of our modern vocabulary of sex emerged within nineteenth century German sexology But how were the German ideas translated and transmitted into English culture This study provides an examination of the formation of sexual theory between the 1860s and 1930s and its migration across national and disciplinary boundaries
