Williams, 2013-04-17 An important challenge for our world is to understand how cultural understanding and geographical education can be linked and used to improve the global society We readily accept that our world is constituted by numerous groups of people who are organised by committees tribes regions nations or continental entities How these groups interact show concern for each others well being and progress is still an unpredictable activity Intercultural tensions racial conflicts and religious clashes have all led to the challenges for enacting a constructive world Fundamental perspectives challenge moderate ones and the resulting tensions produce elements of fear doubt and distrust The extremist views of terrorist groups exaggerate these tensions to the extent that some different cultural groups do not prefer to live in peace with their neighbours Deep seated intercultural tensions predominate over peaceful co existence Such challenges may easily dominate the interaction between racial groups tribes indigenous peoples and colonisers However we know that through the sound practice of intercultural understanding cultural groups in different contexts around the world can interact and co exist successfully and productively In fact they can work together to seek to improve their society This does not mean that one group will dominate the other Rather it means that both groups work together to improve their collective lives Education has played an important role in the long term achievement of such harmony This volume has been developed to demonstrate that geographical education can be a potent force in the development of cultural understanding in different societies The Power of Geographical Thinking Clare Brooks, Graham Butt, Mary Fargher, 2017-03-02 In this book geography educators from around the globe discuss their research into the power of geographical thinking and consider successful strategies to implement improve and advance geography education in research and practice It addresses key topics in geography education such as multicultural competence the role of teachers the geography curriculum spatial thinking geographic information systems geocapabilities and climate change At a global level the contributors and editors bring together the most advanced collection of research and discussion surrounding issues in geography education The book will be of interest to geography education researchers worldwide including academics at university and teachers in schools as well as professional geographers with an interest in education The Elgar Companion to Geography, Transdisciplinarity and Sustainability Fausto O. Sarmiento, Larry M. Frolich, 2020-05-29 With contributions from top geographers this Companion frames sustainability as exemplar of transdisciplinary science critical geography while improving future scenarios debating perspectives between rich North poor South modern urban backwards rural and everything in between The Companion has five sections that carry the reader from foundational considerations to integrative trends to resources use and accommodation to examples highlighting non traditional pathways to a postscript about cooperation of the industrialized Earth and a prognosis of the road ahead for the new geographies of sustainability Beyond Mapping National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Board on Earth Sciences and Resources, The Mapping Science Committee, Committee on Beyond Mapping: The Challenges of New Technologies in the Geographic Information Sciences, 2006-07-23 Geographic information systems GIS the Global Positioning System GPS remote sensing and other information technologies have all changed the nature of work in the mapping sciences and in the professions industries and institutions that depend on them for basic research and education Today geographic information systems have become central to the ways thousands of government agencies private companies and not for profit organizations do business However the supply of GIS GIScience professionals has not kept pace with the demand generated by growing needs for more and improved geographic information systems and for more robust geographic data Beyond Mapping assesses the state of mapping sciences at the beginning of the twenty first century and identifies the critical national needs for GIS GIScience professionals It examines the forces that drive and accompany the need for GIS GIScience professionals including technological change demand for geographic information and changes in organizations It assesses education and research needs including essential training and education new curriculum challenges and responses quality assurance in education and training and organizational challenges Some of the report's recommendations include more collaboration among academic disciplines private companies and government agencies the implementation of GIS GIScience at all levels of education and the development of a coherent comprehensive research agenda for the mapping sciences
