The Origins Of Neuro Linguistic Programming John Grinder, 2013-05-09 The Origins of NLP brings together the recollections and thoughts of some of the main protagonists from the very early days of NLP In 1971 Richard

Bandler and Frank Pucelik were students at Kresge College at the University of California Santa Cruz. They had a strong mutual interest in Gestalt Therapy. Frank because of his traumatic time in Vietnam and because he had been working with some disaffected and drug addicted kids and Richard because he had been working with Science and Behavior Books on transcribing and editing Fritz Perls seminal work The Gestalt Approach and Eyewitness to Therapy. They started a local Gestalt group and ran 2-3 sessions a week collaborating and experimenting with the language of therapy. They started achieving some brilliant results but were having problems transferring their skills to others and so Richard invited one of their college professors John Grinder to observe what they were doing in order that he would hopefully be able to deconstruct what they were doing that was so effective. John was a professor of Linguistics and was instantly impressed with the work that they were doing. He was able to add more structure and in due course the three of them formalised what is now known as the Meta Model NLP or Meta as it was known then was born. The Spirit of NLP L Michael Hall, 1996-08-22

When ideas really do break new ground and change the way we think about what we do, they can help all of us to be better, happier and more productive. The trick is to know which ones offer the most reliable vision and how they can be adapted and deployed to the best effect. By encapsulating and explaining the best of this thinking, 50 Ideas that Changed the World of Work is equal parts vision and road map, an invaluable and insightful guide to navigating the world of work today.
