Refugees And Forcibly Displaced People:

Forcibly Displaced World Bank, 2017-07-14 The Syrian refugee crisis has galvanized attention to one of the world's foremost challenges forced displacement. The total number of refugees and internally displaced persons now at over 65 million continues to grow as violent conflict spikes. This report Forcibly Displaced Toward a Development Approach Supporting Refugees the Internally Displaced and Their Hosts produced in close partnership with the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees UNHCR attempts to sort fact from fiction to better understand the scope of the challenge and encourage new thinking from a socioeconomic perspective. The report depicts the reality of forced displacement as a developing world crisis with implications for sustainable growth. 95 percent of the displaced live in developing countries and over half are in displacement for more than four years. To help the displaced the report suggests ways to rebuild their lives with dignity through development support focusing on their vulnerabilities such as loss of assets and lack of legal rights and opportunities. It also examines how to help host communities that need to manage the sudden arrival of large numbers of displaced people and that are under pressure to expand services create jobs and address long standing development issues. Critical to this response is collective action. As work on a new Global Compact on Responsibility Sharing for Refugees progresses the report underscores the importance of humanitarian and development communities working together in complementary ways to support countries throughout the crisis from strengthening resilience and preparedness at the onset to creating lasting solutions.

People Forced to Flee United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, 2022-02-16 People in danger have received protection in communities beyond their own from the earliest times of recorded history. The causes war conflict violence persecution natural disasters and climate change are as familiar to readers of the news as to students of the past. It is 70 years since nations in the wake of World War II drew up the landmark 1951 Convention relating to the Status of Refugees. People Forced to Flee marks this milestone. It is the latest in a long line of publications stretching back to 1993 that were previously entitled The State of the World's Refugees. The book traces the historic path that led to the 1951 Convention showing how history was made by taking the centuries old ideals of safety and solutions for refugees to global practice. It maps its progress during which international protection has reached a much broader group of people than initially envisaged. It examines international responses to forced displacement within borders as well as beyond them and the protection principles that apply to both. It reviews where they have been used with consistency and success and where they have not. At times the strength and resolve of the international community seems strong yet solutions and meaningful solidarity are often elusive. Taking stock today at this important anniversary is all the more crucial as the world faces increasing forced displacement. Most is experienced in low and middle income countries and persists for generations. People forced to flee face barriers to improving their lives contributing to the communities in which they live and realizing solutions. Everywhere an effective response depends on the commitment to international cooperation set down in the 1951 Convention a vision often compromised by efforts to minimize responsibilities There is growing recognition that doing better is a global imperative Humanitarian and development action has the potential to be transformational especially when grounded in the local context People Forced to Flee examines how and where increased development investments in education health and economic inclusion are helping to improve socioeconomic opportunities both for forcibly displaced persons and their hosts In 2018 the international community reached a Global Compact on Refugees for more equitable and sustainable responses It is receiving deeper support People Forced to Flee looks at whether that is enough for what could and should help define the next 70 years

The Search for Home among Forced Migrants and Refugees Maria Sophia Aguirre, Antonio Argandoña, 2024-11-08 This book explores the role of home in the lives of displaced people including voluntary and forced migrants refugees asylum seekers internally displaced people and temporary workers For displaced people home is something lost longed for and sometimes found anew It is a community of people in an environment of relationships and a physical dwelling that provide a sense of safety security hope and belonging Much of the efforts of refugees migrants and exiles are devoted to rebuilding a home through a combination of personal effort and collaboration with the political and social environment of the host community Aguirre and Argandoña bring together an interdisciplinary collection of contributors to analyse these challenges through the lenses of economics law sociology psychology communications management and political science The book offers numerous suggestions for assistance aimed not only at the short term problems of displaced people but also at ensuring their human dignity This volume will be a valuable resource for students and scholars of the sociology of migration and of public policy related to the handling of migrants from providing information across the spectrum of health issues clinical specialties and global contexts it discusses associated areas including human rights and law public health medical anthropology and cultural awareness Key Features Bridges the gap between existing academic literature on refugee health and guidelines for health management in humanitarian emergencies Helps to develop an integrated approach to healthcare provision allowing healthcare professionals and humanitarians to adapt their specialist knowledge for use in forced migration contexts and with refugees Recognizes the complex and interconnected needs in displacement scenarios and identifies holistic and systems based approaches Covers public health theory applied public health and clinical aspects of forced migration

Refugees and Forced Displacement Edward Newman, Joanne van Selm, 2003 Refugees and forcibly displaced people represent the starkest example of human tension between human security where the primary focus is the individual and communities and more conventional models of national security tied to the sovereign state The contributors to this volume apply this theme to a number of pressing problems covering international law internally displaced persons early warning of refugee flows asylum the actors and institutions involved in refugee protection the return and reintegration of displaced people gender and displacement and ethical perspectives

Refugee Mental Health Stephan Zipfel, Monique C. Pfaltz, Ulrich Schnyder, 2019-06-18 The focus of this Research Topic is on research that aims to understand the relationships between pre migration stressors and potentially traumatic experiences post migration living difficulties and mental health in refugees of both sexes throughout the lifespan We know very little about how concepts of assessing and treating mental health conditions actually work when applied to traumatized refugee populations from different cultures e g the Yazidis people from northern Iraq Moreover there is also a great need to better understand the relationship between mental health and refugees integration in their host countries societies acquiring language skills fitness for work economic independence private life etc This Research Topic will also focus on the issue of culture the extent to which concepts of mental health care can translate and be implemented in different social economic and cultural settings around the world

People Forced to Flee Ninette Kelley, 2022 There are today some 60 million people who have fled their homes because of persecution and conflict This is the highest number ever recorded These people suffer exile that will likely last for years and even whole lifetimes both present and future The unprecedented scale and duration of forced displacement provide unsettling points of departure for the 2016 edition of The State of the World's Refugees Covering the years since 2012 this volume is the seventh in a series of flagship publications by the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees UNHCR This book draws upon expert analysis as well as UNHCR's direct experience to shed light on the root causes and consequences of the current humanitarian and development crisis Its eleven chapters examine the world's evolving efforts to finance plan and implement basic human rights protections amidst a recent spate of complex emergencies Updated data maps and case studies examine persistent challenges such as limited access to asylum abroad protection gaps at home for internally displaced persons the devastating consequences of statelessness and the troubling elusiveness of durable solutions This book also highlights the widespread impact of climate change as well as innovations in how humanitarian operations are designed and conducted Over 65 years after UNHCR was established A World in Turmoil reveals why its work remains more relevant and urgent than ever

Driven from Home David Hollenbach, 2010-04-19 Throughout human history people have been driven from their homes by wars unjust treatment earthquakes and hurricanes The reality of forced migration is not new nor is awareness of the suffering of the displaced a recent discovery The United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees estimates that at the end of 2007 there were 67 million persons in the world who had been forcibly displaced from their homes including more than 16 million people who had to flee across an international border for fear of being persecuted due to race religion nationality social group or political opinion Driven from Home advances the discussion on how best to protect and assist the growing number of persons who have been forced from their homes and proposes a human rights framework to guide political and policy responses to forced migration This thought provoking volume brings together contributors from several disciplines including international affairs law ethics economics and theology to advocate for better responses to protect the global community's most vulnerable citizens

The Jesuits and Globalization Thomas Banchoff, José Casanova, 2016-05-25 The Society of Jesus commonly known as the Jesuits is the most successful and enduring global missionary enterprise in history Founded by Ignatius Loyola in 1540 the Jesuit order has preached the Gospel managed a vast educational network and shaped the Catholic Church society and politics in all corners of the earth Rather than offering a global history of the Jesuits or a linear narrative of globalization Thomas Banchoff and Jos Casanova have assembled a multidisciplinary group of leading experts to explore what we can learn from the historical and contemporary experience of the Society of Jesus what do the Jesuits tell us about globalization and what can globalization tell us about the Jesuits Contributors include comparative theologian Francis X Clooney SJ historian John W O Malley SJ Brazilian theologian Maria Clara Lucchetti Bingemer and ethicist David Hollenbach SJ They focus on three critical themes global mission education and justice to examine the historical legacies and contemporary challenges Their insights contribute to a more critical and reflexive understanding of both the Jesuits history and of our contemporary human global condition

Everyday Peacebuilding through Democratic Political Education

Stephen L. Esquith, 2025-06-14 Everyday peacebuilding through democratic political education is a necessary but not sufficient condition for limiting negative political emotions such as anger fear and resentment and for cultivating the political virtues needed for an alternative more democratic orientation towards power one that values and exercises power with other members of emergent political communities not power over them These demotic political virtues include self restraint resistance humility respect for the civic dignity of others non violent protest and the radical poise needed to cultivate and coordinate this constellation of political virtues For those who have been forcibly displaced or are only dimly aware of their complicity in this type of political violence to maintain a radically poised stance is a continuing process of democratic political education This book demonstrates how this notion of Radical Poise in theory and practice can be developed through a hybrid process of political education in one country Mali to contest the growth of violence and fear there and elsewhere
