Congress. House. Committee on Ways and Means, 1943 The Waste Land After One Hundred Years Steven Matthews, 2022 An exploration of the legacy of The Waste Land on the centenary of its original publication looking at the impact it had had upon criticism and new poetries across one hundred years T S Eliot first published his long poem The Waste Land in 1922 The revolutionary nature of the work was immediately recognised and it has subsequently been acknowledged as one of the most influential poems of the twentieth century and as crucial for the understanding of modernism The essays in this collection variously reflect on The Waste Land one hundred years after its original publication At this centenary moment the contributors both celebrate the richness of the work its sounds and rare use of language and also consider the poem's legacy in Britain Ireland and India The work here by an international team of writers from the UK North America and India deploys a range of approaches Some contributors seek to re-read the poem itself in fresh and original ways others resist the established drift of previous scholarship on the poem and present new understandings of the process of its development through its drafts or as an orchestration on the page Several contributors question received wisdom about the poem's immediate legacy in the decade after publication and about the impact that it has had upon criticism and new poetries across the first century of its existence An Introduction to the volume contextualises the poem itself and the background to the essays All pieces set out to review the nature of our understanding of the poem and to bring fresh eyes to its brilliance one hundred years on Contributors Rebecca Beasley Rosinka Chaudhuri William Davies Hugh Haughton Marjorie Perloff Andrew Michael Roberts Peter Robinson Michael Wood Sustainability John C. Fruit-Growers' Convention,1903      The draft national policy statement (NPS) on waste water Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Environment, Food and Rural Affairs Committee,2011-04-05 The UK s 347 000 kilometre network of sewers and 9 000 sewage treatment works fulfil the vital function of managing over 11 billion litres of waste water each day Changing weather patterns and population growth are leading to increased volumes of waste water in some parts of the country In coming years there will be a need to construct new infrastructure to manage waste water In particular new infrastructure is needed in the River Thames area to cope with population growth and to meet the European Union s environmental requirements But the draft National Policy Statement NPS on Waste Water needs radical improvement if it is to provide a valuable policy framework to guide decision makers The Committee criticise the draft National Policy Statement for focussing on two specific London projects the Thames Tunnel and replacement of a sewage treatment works in North East London They argue that it should set out a strong set of general principles for decision makers to apply to any waste water project once a specific application is made rather than have site specific sections The Planning Act 2008 s new regime for Nationally Significant Infrastructure NSIPs does not currently apply to the Thames Tunnel project a surprising omission given that this multi billion pound project is one of only two waste water projects likely to be of sufficient scale to come within the ambit of this NPS The Government must rectify this urgently landfill led to a four year extension to the timetable but DEFRA took no effective action until 2003 Although 2005 06 saw a reduction of 2 3 million tonnes against the previous year a further reduction of 4 9 million tonnes will be required to comply with the 2013 maximum allowance set by the EU Much of the progress made has involved an increase in recycling due to the public s enthusiasm but manufacturers and retailers continue to use large amounts of packaging Recycling alone will be insufficient to comply with the Directive and new infrastructure energy from waste plants which incinerate anaerobically digest or compost waste to generate electricity will be necessary But such plants are unpopular and typically take nine years to become operational and there is a significant risk that many will not be ready in time Everybody's Magazine ,1905
