Regenerating British Columbia's Forests:

Regenerating British Columbia's Forests R. Parish, C. M. Johnson, G. Montgomery, A. Vyse, R. A. Willis, D. Winston, D.P. Lavender, 2011-11-01 Reforestation is a subject vital to the economy of British Columbia which depends heavily on its forests a valuable but expendable resource This book provides silviculturalists with a broad reference to the science and technology of reforestation in the Canadian province that forms the single most diverse forest region in North America The work combines for the first time both experiences recorded from practical reforestation projects and the results of scientific investigations The chapters of Regenerating British Columbia's Forests were compiled and reviewed by experts in each field of discussion Topics include the physiological bases for seedling vigour and the interaction of reforestation with seedling physiology the ecology of British Columbia's bioclimatic zones and the role of ecological site classification the application of financial analyses to reforestation decisions current technology in manual mechanical and chemical site preparation and in the use of fire to prepare planting sites recent progress in tree genetics and breeding and its relevance to the production of tree propagules nursery technology methodology in planting evaluation techniques of plantation release and the role of insects disease and small mammals and birds in the reforestation process Regenerating British Columbia's Forests will assist those responsible for planning reforestation projects to reach informed decisions and will challenge them to consider primarily the biological factors basic to reforestation success rather than short term costs and production technology Although its main audience is practising foresters and forestry students of British Columbia the text will be of considerable interest to foresters in other parts of Canada the United States and Europe who manage reforestation

Regenerating British Columbia's Forests Denis P. Lavender, 1990-01-01 Regenerating British Columbia's Forests will assist those responsible for planning reforestation projects to reach informed decisions and will challenge them to consider primarily the biological factors basic to reforestation success rather than short term costs and production technology Although its main audience is practising foresters and forestry students of British Columbia the text will be of considerable interest to foresters in other parts of Canada the United States and Europe who manage reforestation

British Columbia's Inland

Rainforest Susan K. Stevenson, Harold M. Armleder, André Arsenault, Darwyn Coxson, S. Craig DeLong, Michael Jull, 2011-07-01 The vast temperate rainforests of coastal British Columbia are world renowned but much less is known about the other rainforest located 500 kilometres inland along the western slopes of the interior mountains The unique integration of continentality and humidity in this region favours the development of lush rainforest communities that incorporate both coastal and boreal elements This book brings together for the first time a broad spectrum of information about the ecology management and conservation of this distinctive ecosystem Accessibly written and generously illustrated the chapters examine the physical social economic and ecological dimensions of the rainforest They also look at how the delicate balance of this ecosystem has been threatened by human use and climate change In the past governments encouraged the forest industry to clearcut the decadent old stands and replace them with rapidly growing young trees of other species More recently out of concern for the ecological consequences of such practices researchers have begun to examine alternative management strategies This book offers a vision that combines various strategies in order to balance the conservation of the inland rainforest as a fully functioning ecosystem with human use of its diverse resources Proceedings of the International Workshop on Large-Scale Reforestation Jack K. Winjum,Paul E. Schroeder,Mary J. Kenady,1991 Climate Change and Forest Management in the Western Hemisphere Mohammed Dore,2001-01-25 Conserve biodiversity with effective forest management practices This valuable book examines integrated forest management in the Americas Climate Change and Forest Management in the Western Hemisphere takes a close look at such important international issues as global warming and the destruction of the Amazon rainforest It offers tested suggestions for combining productive economic use of forest products with sustainable ecologically sound management practices Here you will find case studies from representative forests in North Central and South America This solidly researched book explores the barriers to integrating environmental and economic approaches to forest management It also offers practical suggestions for overcoming those barriers including economic incentives for sustainable use and the conservation of biodiversity Climate Change and Forest Management in the Western Hemisphere also explores the role of the Brazilian rainforest in the global carbon cycle sustainable use of rainforests the valuation of forests for carbon sequestration plant biodiversity in managed timber forests issues of deforestation and reforestation and much more Climate Change and Forest Management in the Western Hemisphere offers a comprehensive overview of a vital subject It is an essential resource for forestry specialists environmental economists and anyone interested in climate change or sustainable agriculture Tree Planters' Notes ,2011 Some no include reports compiled from information furnished by State Foresters and others Seed Ecophysiology of Temperate and Boreal Zone Forest Trees RobertE. Farmer,2017-11-01 This is the first truly modern book solely devoted to seed reproduction of forest trees from flowering to establishment with emphasis on the interaction of environment with physiological processes Focus is on seed function in natural settings and the application of information to natural regeneration of forests This easy to read text addresses important principles and provides in depth coverage of existing literature Presentation of the information is organized to allow for a natural development of the main theme with full explanations of such important components as seed production dispersal and germination as well as the integral parts played by water temperature light chemicals animals pathogens and aging A highly useful book for investigators practitioners or students Ecology and Management of Larix Forests ,1995 Ecology and Management of Sitka Spruce N. Merle Peterson,Patrick Martin,2011-11-01 Sitka spruce the largest of the world s spruces is an important component of British Columbia s coastal forests Its ecology gives it a special place in the sustainable management of the province s forests However in west coast forestry it is poorly known in comparison with its main coniferous companions Douglas fir western redcedar and western hemlock As an important international forestry resource it is crucial that Sitka spruce its ecology and the ecosystems in which it occurs be clearly understood by those who are involved with its management This book is the most recent major work on the ecology and management of Sitka spruce The authors describe how this fascinating tree reproduces grows and functions in its natural geographic range They discuss both the ecology of Sitka spruce and silvicultural questions such as original plantation spacing juvenile spacing and fertilization to accelerate the harvestability of second growth coastal spruce stands Sitka spruce derives its importance not only from its prominence as an international transportable genetic resource but also from its role in riparian systems and its biodiversity values Here in North America s west coast rainforest this magnificent tree illustrates the ecology of complex forest ecosystems and their cultural wilderness historic and economic values

The North American Forests Laurence C. Walker, 2023-07-28 The North American Forests Geography Ecology and Silviculture describes where why and how the many kinds of trees found on this continent grow in silvical associations called forest cover types Thirteen chapters describe more than 100 forest cover types involving several times that many species Diverse woodlands discussed include o The Arctic tundra o Florida s tropics o The Atlantic s coastal pond pines o The Pacific s Monterey pines o The summits of Englemann spruce o Sea Level swamps of baldcypress The text acts as a singular guidebook for specialists and students in natural resource disciplines examining the geography ecology and silvicultural practices for sustaining North American forests students in curriculum s involving regional silviculture and persons examining the goods and services from this varied fascinating renewable resource Benefiting from the author s five decades of practicing forestry the reader will trek into virtually every neck of the woods perusing exceptional field notes and photographs of the continent s forests Features o Offers a summary of forests in North America ecological positions and best management approaches for the benefit of mankind o Contains a readable language for both college students and professionals o Provides information covering the forests of Canada and the US o Lists Further Readings and Subjects for Discussion and Essay at the end of each chapter o Includes more than 100 photographs Audience o Foresters o Ecologists o Natural Resource Managers o Forestry Students

Balancing Act J P Hamish Kimmins, 2011-01-01 In the past decade there has been much debate over the environmental impact of forestry People are justifiably concerned about what is happening to the local and global forest environments but they are also confused by the polarized rhetoric that has characterized both sides of the debate In Balancing Act Hamish Kimmins calls for a balanced more objective approach to forestry issues in order to bridge the gap between the most extreme opponents in the debate He suggests that we need to begin with a common understanding of what forestry is about and how forest ecosystems work. He outlines the scientific and ecological aspects of the major environmental issues facing British Columbia and the world today, arguing that we need to disentangle the scientific from the value-based social aspects of these questions. He also contends that much of the current debate about forests and their management ignores the time dimension of ecosystems and he calls for a more dynamic view of current environmental issues in forestry, one that accounts for change. The first few chapters provide an outline of the basic principles of forestry and ecology, and subsequent chapters discuss the major environmental issues facing forestry in the 1990s. These include clearcutting, slashburning, management chemicals, old growth, biological diversity, new forestry, climate change, acid rain, the comparison between temperate and tropical forestry, and long-term decisions in forestry. Balancing Act is essential reading for those who are searching for an objective, accurate, and readable evaluation of the issues at the heart of the forestry environment debate. By emphasizing that forests are not static but change over time, Kimmins adds an important, often ignored dimension to the discussion. Only by understanding all the intricacies of the ecosystems can we learn to manage our forests in a sustainable fashion. Talk and Log, Jeremy Wilson, 1998. For more than three decades, British Columbia's old-growth forests have been a major source of political conflict. In Talk and Log, Jeremy Wilson presents a comprehensive account of the rise of the wilderness movement, examines the forest industry's political strategies, and analyzes the inner workings of the policy process. Wilson describes a number of major political battles, such as those resulting in preservation of South Moresby, the Carmanah, and the Valhalla wilderness, and investigates the factors that pushed the government towards a more comprehensive approach to expanding the protected areas system. He considers a wide range of forest policy developments and assesses the effectiveness of government and industry attempts to contain the wilderness movement. In the final part, he explores the Harcourt NDP government's reform initiatives, including the Commission on Resources and Environment, CORE, the Protected Areas Strategy, and the Forest Practices Code. Talk and Log illuminates the forces behind controversies that have divided British Columbians, preoccupied the provincial government, and drawn the attention of people across Canada and the world. By discussing the patterns and trends underlying the past three decades of wilderness politics, Wilson identifies the currents likely to dominate B.C. wilderness debates in decades to come. Silviculture for Multiple Objectives in the Douglas-fir Region, 1998. General Technical Report PNW-GTR, 1998. Biodiversity in British Columbia, Canadian Wildlife Service, 1994. This book consists of a collection of individual papers surveying the existing knowledge of biodiversity in British Columbia. The first section contains papers that consider the importance of an ecosystem-centred approach to the conservation of biodiversity, explain the methods of classifying the status of rare species, and review the role of biosystematics and taxonomy in the study of biodiversity. The second section focuses on the diversity of species in British Columbia, with papers on specific species or groups such as lepidoptera, marine invertebrates, lichens, bryophytes, fish, fungi, mammals, birds, reptiles, and vascular plants. Part three summarises information on the diversity of the province's ecosystems, with papers on such topics as forests.

grasslands marine areas urban areas and atmospheric change The final section discusses ways of protecting biodiversity concluding with a summary of recommendations for biodiversity conservation Creating a Forestry for the 21st
